Wheat harvest begins

Two hundred acres of wheat started going under the thresher this week on the James Pobst farm north of Sikeston on Tanner Road. This wheat is located on higher and drier ground than other fields in the Sikeston area in which harvest should be starting later in the week.

Kirkpatrick thinks he's getting bum rap

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Missouri's three-term secretary of state, James C. Kirkpatrick, has worked for reform of the state's election laws and as president of the National Association of Secretaries of State, he is recognized as a national leader in the election process.

But Kirkpatrick, who will be 69 Saturday, finds himself on the unpopular end of the snowballing petition drive to get on the November ballot a proposition strengthening the state's laws on financing of election campaigns.

He has been criticized for his opposition to the initiative petition bill, and he thinks he's getting a bum rap.

So far, Kirkpatrick is the only elected state official opposed to the petition bill, similar in many respects to a compromise bill that ran out of time as the legislative session ended at midnight April 30. The Republican House leaders and some Democrats have supported the petition drive, while Democratic legislative leaders have neither publicly opposed it or supported it. The House speaker and Senate president pro tem, both Democrats, have said campaign reform will again be a high priority item in the next legislative session.

Today, Gov. Christopher S. Bond planned to sign the petition. State treasurer James I. Spainhower, a Democrat like Kirkpatrick, signed it last week.

Petition organizations are at work in Columbia, Springfield, St. Louis and Kansas City. Tony Hiesberger, presiding judge of the Cole County Court, announced Tuesday formation of a petition campaign group in Cole, Osage, Miller and Moniteau counties.

"It's hysteria," says Kirkpatrick. In the wake of Watergate, campaigning for election reform is the popular thing to do but mistakes can be made by rushing things, says Kirkpatrick.

He opposes the proposed law for several reasons.

The compromise bill that failed in the legislature had the secretary of state on the six - member bipartisan elections commission that will enforce the law, but the secretary of state would vote only in case of ties. Kirkpatrick agreed with that.

The petition bill leaves him off the commission altogether.

"Being on that commission would be a damn headache," Kirkpatrick says, "but as the state's chief elections officer I think I should be on it and have a vote. As of now, how are you going to break ties?"

Just as with the Election Laws Study Commission, Kirkpatrick said, "my office will be doing most of the work."

The petition bill calls for nearly all reports from candidates and committees to be filed with the secretary of state.

"I have no burning desire to be on that commission," Kirkpatrick said, and said the fact that he is not on it is not the main reason he is opposing the petition bill.

Groups such as Common Cause don't want an elected official on the commission.

"They are theorists and not administrators," Kirkpatrick says.

The secretary of state said he resented statements at last weekend's state Republican party meeting in Clayton that his office would be extra diligent in throwing out questionable signatures to prevent the petition backers from reaching the 65,000-signature deadline by 5 p.m. July 5.

Missourians for Honest Elections in Clayton is heading the petition drive.

The group says it will collect signatures only from registered voters. Kirkpatrick says his office will throw out signatures if the signers are not registered. Pending in the state Supreme Court is a case to determine whether petition signers have to be registered.

"One of the first projects when I came into this office was improving the election laws," Kirkpatrick said. "I've been advocating full disclosure for a couple of years, rather than limitations."

Kirkpatrick said his office is studying the petition bill and would issue a full statement on what is found wrong with it.

"The legislature has narrowed the differences and a bill could be passed next year," he said. "We should leave it to the legislature."

"Some legislators may try to amend the bill if the voters approve it," he said, "but I doubt that will happen because it will open

Hospital bomb threat hoax

An anonymous caller telephoned a bomb threat to Missouri Delta Community Hospital at 11:45 a.m. Tuesday.

A search of the building by police and hospital personnel turned up nothing.

The caller telephoned hospital director Harold Jones and said there were three bombs placed in the building. The caller did not say when the bombs were supposed to explode.

Transformer explodes today

A Sikeston Light and Water Co. transformer, located on South Ingram Road near the sewage treatment plant, exploded about 7:50 a.m. today.

The cause of the explosion is unknown and company officials are still unsure of the total damage, according to Dick Inman, director of the Board of Municipal Utilities.

The explosion blew the top off a regulator and created a fault in the power transformer. The unit is being by-passed completely and the area is being serviced by the steam plant.

Inman said his office is trying to locate a new or used transformer as a replacement. A new unit would cost between $65,000 - $85,000.

Firemen extinguished a fire in the unit with dry chemicals.

Dog thieves strike; callers may give clue

Sikeston has been hit recently by a number of dog thefts in which the thieves call the owners and offer to return the dogs for a reward.

The thieves generally steal purebred dogs.

Scott County Deputy Sheriff Bud Jones said today several such thefts have been reported, but he thinks there are many more which have gone unreported.

Jones said if the reward is not paid or contact is not made with the owner, the dogs may either be killed or shipped out of town.

Residents whose dogs is stolen and who receives a call from someone offering to return the dog for a reward should call the police or the sheriff's department, Jones said.

He said they should try to get the caller's name or a time and place for a meeting with the person and then relay that information to police.

Workers return to jobs at Cape, Chaffee plants

CHAFFEE — Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America Union members at Thorngate Ltd. plants in Chaffee and Cape Girardeau returned to work today, ending a two- week strike.

Union members have been participating in an industry- wide strike called June 1 by the men's and boy's field of the AFL-CIO union.

William C. Hall of St. Louis, director of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of American Union St. Louis district joint board, told the Daily Standard today that employes of the plant will be receiving a 30 cent per hour increase which became effective June 10.

According to Hall, an additional 15- cent increase will be granted to employes on Sept. 30. On June 2, 1975 a 27½- cent raise will be issued and May 31, 1976 another 27½- cent increase will be granted.

Hall said that if, during the second and third year of the negotiated contract, the cost of living exceeds the amount agreed upon, a four per cent increase will be granted each one per cent rise in the cost of living.

Changes were also made in the pension and insurance programs, Hall said, and an additional holiday was added.

Dupont urges swimmimg as new school sport

Improvement of the school district's athletic program and inclusion of swimming as a sport were urged by Dr. Jean R. Dupont Tuesday in a speech to the Sikeston R-6 School Board.

Dupont said he was in favor of a joint city- school district swimming proposal that has been studied by the city and school district for three years. The pool would be used during school hours by students and be open to the public at night.

Dupont pointed out that most of America's great swimmers come from small midwestern towns.

Swimming has great health benefits, Dupont said. Swimming and rowing are the best sports for the cardiovascular system and for overall muscle development, he added.

"The exciting thing about swimming is everyone can do it," Dupont said. Unlike football or basketball, swimming requires no special body type for the participant to excell.

Swimming could also become a major spectator sport, Dupont said.

Dupont also suggested the girls' athletics programs be expanded along intermural lines. In all sports except contact sports girls, after puberty, can compete with men, Dupont said.

Swimming would be a major outlet for the girls, he said. He also suggested basketball and track.

In other matters before the board, Supt. Sam Harbin told the board that the district will probably lose $36,000 in state aid because of a decrease of 87 students in the average daily attendance.

Last year the district lost $15,000 because of a decrease of 40 students.

Harbin said the transportation department will show a deficit next year and for several years to come. Next year's deficit will be $9,000, with $4,000 going to gasoline and salaries and a $5,000 paper deficit on bus costs the district cannot get subsidy for.

Harbin said gasoline costs have nearly doubled from 30 cents a gallon to 36 cents. The district uses 80,000 gallons of gasoline a year.

The school system retained its AAA rating, the highest possible, after an inspection by members of the State Department of Education.

Harbin said the inspection report found the school system had three over-crowded classes, was short a guidance counselor, and needed another art teacher and elementary librarian.

However, Harbin said, the system had a better than average response to the

Malden defeats 1-cent sales tax

MALDEN — Voters elected Sparrel Davis as mayor and narrowly defeated the proposed one- cent sales tax in Tuesday's special election.

Davis, who is a former mayor, will fill the unexpired three- year term of G. H. Anderson who resigned May 1 due to ill health. Davis received a total of 707 votes with opponents Les Heise receiving 456 votes and Harold White polling 94 votes.

The proposed one-cent sales tax, which was to provide additional revenue to meet mounting costs of operations, was defeated by only 48 votes as 604 cast votes in favor of the measure and 652 were opposed.

Davis operates an insurance and real estate business and is currently president of the Chamber of Commerce. He was mayor of Malden prior to April 1973 when he was defeated by Anderson in his bid for re-election.

WAS YOUR CAR RECALLED?

More than seven million vehicles were recalled last year by foreign and domestic manufacturers because of defects.

If your car was not one of them, perhaps you would like to know why the others were recalled and how the system works.

The recall campaigns of the manufacturers result from the National Traffic and Motor Vehicle Act passed in 1966. This law requires that manufacturers must notify owners of any safety- related defects found in their vehicles. The requirement covers defects discovered by the manufacturers as well as those found by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

In the annual report for 1973, the U. S. Department of Transporation announced that during the 251 recall campaigns carried out during the past year, 6,667,000 domestic vehicles and 334,000 foreign vehicles were recalled.

There is some consolation in the report that this figure shows a drop of 5,000,000 below the 1972 total.

Twenty- seven of the recall campaigns in the past year were directly connected with the safety defect and standards enforcement investigations of the NHTSA. These 27 recalls involved approximately 4,000,000 vehicles or about 56 per cent of the total number. In 1973, there were more than 1.3 million items of equipment such as tires and child seats recalled.

Although the 1973 figures show a decrease, it is shocking to know that since the law went into effect in 1966, 43.8 million vehicles have been recalled.

The recall campaigns presumably are giving motorists some feeling of security against mechanical defects while also furnishing customers information on which to base their purchase of new equipment. Logically, the law also encourages manufacturers to increase their efforts to remove all defects from their products.

The report, entitled "Motor Vehicle Safety Defect Recall Campaigns," can be purchased for $1.30 from the U. S. Government Printing Office. It contains the models involved, a description of the defects, and the action taken by the manufacturers.

We recommend the report as valuable reading.

AMTRAK ON THE WING

Employes of Amtrak, the federally- subsidized national passenger railroad system, spent more than $600,000 on airplane tickets last year despite the fact that they could have traveled free on Amtrak trains.

According to an Amtrak spokesman, it is company policy that employes are to take trains on business trips, but sometimes other modes are preferable. For instance, it makes little sense for an Amtrak executive to spend three nights and two days taking a train to the West Coast for a one- day meeting, although this has been done.

Also, during the summer and holiday seasons Amtrak trains are full and employes must seek other types of transportation.

Anthony Haswell, chairman of the National Association of Railroad Passengers, agrees that due to time constraints and the sketchy nature of service on many of Amtrak's routes there will have to be some flying by Amtrak employes.

"But my general observation," he says, "is that if responsible Amtrak management officials rode the trains more often, the public would soon get better service. Amtrak's upper management is really very unaware of the situation on the trains they are responsible for running."

Amtrak had 5,384 employes on Dec. 31 and operates an average of 225 passenger trains daily, serving every major city in the United States except Cleveland, Toledo and Des Moines, either directly or through connections with the few remaining non-Amtrak railroads. It is expected to receive a federal subsidy of $155 million in the coming fiscal year.

The Automobile Club of Oregon offers some excellent driving tips in its publications, "The Oregon Motorist": "Had your oil checked lately? Anybody taken a look at your battery recently? How about your radiator and anti-freeze? One result of the long lines at service stations and generally shorter hours of operation has been that service station personnel rarely check the things they used to look after regularly. Thus, says the AAA Auto Club, it behooves the motorist to check these things himself to make sure everything is well under the hood. Here's a list of things that you might check yourself if service stations don't do it for you: Oil level, at least every 1,000 miles. Battery, water level, once a month. Radiator, coolant, every two weeks. Automatic transmission fluid, every 4,000 miles. Fan belts and other belts, for tightness when you check the oil. Windshield- washer fluid, when you check the battery. Tires, check pressure every 1,000 miles. And for good measure, take a walk around the car once in awhile to check lights, stop and turn signals."

NOTHING 'FLIGHTY' ABOUT DIRIGIBLES

An idea whose time may be coming back is the dirigible.

Not those "little" ones of the 1920s and 1930s like Germany's Graf Zeppelin or Hindenburg or America's Akron or Macon but giant airships longer than three city blocks, powered by steam or nuclear engines, with cargoes weighing as much as a million pounds.

The day of the dirigible supposedly ended in the hydrogen fire that destroyed the Hindenburg at Lakehurst, N.J., on May 6, 1937, as it was completing its 37th commercial ocean crossing. But immense advances in technology have been made in the past four decades and engineers are beginning to take a second look at this form of aerial transportation, say scientists Kurt R. Stehling and J. Gordon Vaeth, writing in NOAA, the magazine of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

Among the things the dirigible has going for it, at least theoretically:

— It needs no costly runaways. It can "land" without landing. Passengers could be taken off by means of onboard shuttle helicopters or airplanes; cargo could be winched up and down while the dirigible hovers.

— Using large steam-driven, slow- turning propellers, the dirigible would be exceptionally clean and quiet and have a range of 10,000 miles. With nuclear power, its range would be unlimited.

— Using helium instead of inflammable hydrogen and with radar and the ability to fly around or over storms, it could be as safe and reliable as the modern jet liner.

— The dirigible is attractive, also, in light of the energy crisis. Because its lifting gas is what enables it to fly , it needs propulsive power only to move it through the air. Thus its energy needs are remarkably low.

A dirigible of the 1970s would not simply be an enlarged version of the 1930s model. Utilizing recent advances in propulsion, materials, guidance, navigation and electronics, it would be on the order of 25 million cubic feet (the Hindenburg was seven million) with a prestressed metallic or plastic skin and a minimum of internal girderwork. Such as a vehicle, capable of 100 to 150 miles an hour, and measuring something like a thousand feet long and 300 feet in diameter, would have a useful lift of 400 to 500 tons.

The slow- moving dirigible could not compete with the jet, of course. Rather, it would be a luxury liner of the skies, carrying 200 to 500 passengers in stateroom comfort on leisurely sightseeing cruises, able to pause in mid-air for close-up views of spectacular scenery through picture windows.

It would also have more practical uses: As a scientific platform for studying the earth, as a pollution monitor, as a transporter of perishable foodstuffs, as an emergency relief vehicle carrying great quantities of aid to disaster areas. An aerial version of the medical ship HOPE could go places where the HOPE cannot go.

The first step, however, should be construction of a training airship of perhaps three million cubic feet to develop the critical piloting and ground- handling skills required. This scaled- down craft, which would also serve as a flying testbed for developmental items, might be put in the air in two years at a cost of $50 million.

It, and the larger ships that would follow, could be built in the 13 airship hangers still standing in the United States.

Is it possible that the dream vehicle of tomorrow may not be the supersonic transport or the rocket but the dirigible? There's increasing reason to believe that it may, say the authors.

In these days of unrest and uncertainties, those who cultivate calmness and self-possession will live longer and enjoy life better. Hence, someone has collecteda number of precepts to practice, as follows:

Learn to like what doesn't cost much.

Learn to like reading, conversation, music.

Learn to like plain food, plain service, plain cooking.

Learn to like fields, trees, woods, brooks, fishing, rowing, hiking.

Learn to like life for its own sake.

Learn to like people, even though some of them may be as different from you as a Chinese.

Learn to like to work and enjoy the satisfaction of doing your job as well as it can be done.

Learn to like the song of the birds, the compansionship of dogs, and laughter and gaiety of children.

Learn to like gardening, carpentering, puttering around the house, the law, and the automobile.

Learn to like the sunrise and sunset, the beating of rain on roof and windows and the gentle fall of snow on a winter day.

WHAT ABOUT OUR ALLY OPPRESSORS?

By Don Oakley

At about the same time as Russian author Aleksandr Solzhenitsyn was under seige in his Moscow apartment and the world waited to see what punishment the Kremlin was planning for him, a score or more of dissidents in another country were under arrest for the same crime — daring to speak out for human liberty.

Solzhenitsyn's travail and his subsequent exile from his totalitarian home made headlines in the Western press. The fate of the dissidents in supposedly democratic South Korea was reported in the back pages, if at all.

In January, some 19 persons were arrested in South Korea for violating two emergency decrees issued by President Chung Hee Park forbidding opposition to the 1972 constitution which was promulgated under martial law and ratified without debate in a national election. The new constitution gives virtually unlimited powers to the president.

In early February, five South Korean literary figures were arrested as "spies" for North Korea because they called for revision of the constitution. Since then, seven university students have been given five-to-10 year sentences; a publisher and former member of the national assembly has drawn a 15 - year sentence and numerous prominent citizens have been put under investigation as espionage suspect.

Most recently, four Christian clergymen were sentenced to 15- year prison terms for defying the presidential ban on criticism of the constitution.

None of these people, of course, is a famous, Nobel Prize-winnign author, and South Korea is a small country that counts for little in international affairs— although only two decades ago the United States expended billions of dollars and the lives of 50,000 of its sons to secure that nation's independence.

Nor is what has happened to democracy in South Korea greatly different from the situation in Greece, which gave the word democracy to the language, or in South Vietnam where, despite even greater American sacrifice and continuing financial and military support, anyone daring to criticize the regime - even from the highest patriotic motives— is swiftly sent to join the many thousands of political dissidents cramming that country's prosions and detention camps.

During the time that Solzhenitsyn's future remained in doubt, there were any number of calls, some of them heard in the halls of Congress, for the United States to use what leverage it had with the Kremlin on this brave man's behalf. Fortunately for the sake of "detente," the necessity did not arise.

But indeed, how could we have presumed to speak in defense of freedom in Soviet Russia when we seen unable, or unwilling, to use our vastly greater influence over certain of our allies where governmnet oppression is no less an affront to human dignity?

CANNED MUSHROOMS ARE CALLED SAFE

In response to consumer inquiries, stemming from recent recalls of canned nushrooms, the American Mushroom Institute has issued the flollowing advisory:

The botulism problems which have been associated with canned mushrooms cannot possibly develop in fresh mushrooms, or any other fresh vegetable. A botulin toxin is only produced when the organisms can grow in the absence of air, such as a sealed, airtight can.

Thus, as the Food and Drug Adminsitration stated recently, "No health problems have developed from fresh, frozen or dehydrated mushrooms."

Canned mushrooms have been produced for over 50 years and in the last decade alone, 2½ billion cans of them have been marketed with no record of illness resulting from eating them.

WITH KNOWLEDGE AND CANDOR

A congressional hearing on the energy situation has produced some unusually blunt testimony from highly authoritative sources-- a spokesman and a naval officer widely credited with being the "Father" of the nuclear submarine.

The latter, Admiral H. G. Rickover, called for a tax penalty on families with more than four children as a way of conserving power. He also said that builders should be encouraged to use natural lighting, drivers of high-powered cars should be taxed extra, and families should be required to pay extra taxes for buying a second car, etc. He added that the American people do not have a "realistic picture of the energy problem..." The Admiral said the country must choose between curtailing power usage or going nuclear.

A top government official, Treasury Secretary John Connally expressed a similar opinion. He advocated using untapped energy resources to keep vital domestic industries operating rather than increasing the nation's importation of fuel. He criticized "over-zealous" conservationists for blocking the search for more domestic energy sources. He placed the blame for a possible but avoidable energy crisis on such ecological tactics.

The testimony of these experts is refreshing. No miracle environmental solutions were demanded of power companies, nor was the investor-owned electric industry chosen as an environmental scapegoat merely for endeavoring to do its job of meeting the vital energy needs of a growing nation-- a nation that would be faced with catastrophe, both economically and environmentally, if there is failure to meet basic energy requirements.

SURVEY SHOWS CONTROLS ARE FUELING INFLATION

Price and wage controls are not only failing to contain inflation, but they are helping to fuel its fires, a recent comprehensive survey of manufacturers by the National Association of Manufacturers revealed.

The survey results showed that controls are hurting capital expenditures, causing shortages of products and raw materials, damaging for foreign trade, lowering corporate outlays, furthering inflation, and adding to the costs of consumer products.

The survey was sent to approximately 2,300 firms, and some 23 per cent responded.

Highlights of the survey disclosed:

Almost two out of three companies indicated that removal of price controls would encourage them to increase their productive capacity.

Approximately 50 per cent of all firms acknowledging cutbacks indicated that production was interrupted or curtailed because of the unavailability of raw materials.

A total of 89.1 per cent of small firms (under $50 million in annual revenues) and 97 per cent of large firms reported that they have experienced unusual difficulty in obtaining their requirements of important materials or supplies.

The largest single factor contributing to the supply shortage situation has been the price control program itself.

Some 45 per cent of the firms said controls are damaging the United States competitive position in foreign trade, and 85 per cent of the firms responding to the survey said that there would be a serious worsening of shortages if controls are continued.

More than half of the respondents said that controls did not reduce the level of inflation. More than three-quarters of the small firms feel that, in the long run, consumers will end up paying more for products on account of controls. This view was expressed by 87 per cent of the large companies.

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: Agnew's Commerce Contact

WASHINGTON — In his fall from power, Spiro Agnew left behind a valuable contact who is now helping him find business deals.

The former Vice President during his glory days arranged a job for one of his supporters, Tilton H. Dobbin, as Assistant Commerce Secretary in charge of domestic and international business. This has put Dobbin in touch with some of the world's most powerful businessmen. Inside sources say he has used his position to open doors for the deposed Agnew.

A forlorn figure, Agnew has lost his political career. He has been disbarred from practicing law. The Internal Revenue Service is squeezing him for back taxes. The Justice Department is considering a suit to recover the bribe money allegedly paid him while he was a government official. Some firebrands at Justice even want to sue to recover his vice-presidential salary.

Agnew tried to raise money by writing a novel. But after the reviews appeared, this no longer seemed a promising career. Almost in desperation, he turned to wheeling and dealing.

He has just returned from a swing through the Middle East in search of deals. He visited his Greek homeland, Amman and Beirut, and then hit the petroleum capitals, Tehran and Kuwait.

The former Vice President still had enough political glamor to gain audiences with the Crown Prince in Jordan and the shah in Iran. But Agnew's main stop, in Saudi Arabia, had to be cancelled because his wife became ill.

On the business side, according to our sources, Dobbin helped pave the way. He admitted to us that he does financial favors for his former mentor. Agnew has called on him, Dobbin said, to "get a rundown on a person or a company, or to do a bank or credit check."

But Dobbin denied that he arranged business contacts for Agnew on his latest odyssey. "I didn't even know he was going until I read about it."

CUTTING CORNERS: Under pressure from House Speaker Carl Albert, Small Business Administrator Tom Kleppe violated regulations to bail out an electronics firm from Albert's home state of Oklahoma.

The struggling company, Oklahoma Aerotronics, didn't qualify for a minority- business government contract The firm also had money problems, not the least of which was a negative worth of $900,000.

"To place contracts with Oklahoma Aerotronics under existing conditions," Kleppe notified the Speaker on August 17, 1971, "we would have to violate Federal Regulations and our National Directive."

Nevertheless, Albert called Kleppe up to Capitol Hill for a personal meeting and repeated his hope that Kleppe "could find some way" to provide the electronics firm with minority-business help.

Despite the federal regulations, Kleppe caved in. He dispatched an aide to Oklahoma with orders to make the company fit the requirements, cosmetically if not legally.

Not long afterwards, Oklahoma Aerotronics got its minority- business approval and landed a whopping $4 million worth of contracts.

Footnote: Albert told us he had relied upon an aide who had handled the Oklahoma Aerotronics case for him. The Speaker said he didn't intentionally seek to run roughshod over federal regulations. An SBA spokesman said that the company became qualified in October of 1971 when a majority control was transferred to an employe trust.

MILITARY SPENDING: The idea that boosting military spending creates jobs and is good for the economy, according to an unreleased report, is a myth.

On the contrary, for every billion dollars spent by the Pentagon, the nation actually loses 20,000 jobs. This is the finding of a four- month study by the Public Interest Research Group in Michigan, a Ralph Nader offshoot headquartered in Lansing.

The researchers, directed by Marion Anderson, used the government's own figures and found that the Pentagon generates fewer jobs per billion dollars than any other form of private or government spending with the single exception of the space program.

Translating these statistics into jobs, the researchers discovered there is a net loss in employment when money is spent for military purposes, as compared with civilian spending or spending by state and local governments.

The average Pentagon budget of $80 billion, the study alleges, results in the loss of at least 1,600,000 jobs each year across the nation.

The logical conclusion, therefore, is that the economy would benefit from a slash in the military budget. "It would make no difference," the study states, "whether the cut was all in defense contracts going to civilian industry or military personnel going to state and local governments, the trade-off would still mean a net increase of jobs for the economy."

Footnote: A Pentagon economist acknowledged that the "arithmetic" used by the research group was good but argued that the statistics didn't support the conclusions. "About the only thing you can conclude from these figures," he said, "is that employes of state and local governments and in the civilian economy earn smaller salaries than do defense workers." The figures don't "realistically reflect" what would happen, he said, if highly skilled defense workers were let off as a result of the

TAKING STOCK

Immense changes have swept across our country during the past 20 years. In fact, it would be hard for a citizen of 1954 -- who had fallen asleep like Rip Van Winkle and only woke up again today -- to recognize where he was.

The principal architects of these changes have been men and women who believe in change with an almost religious fervor. Change, to them is good for its own sake, regardless of where it leads. Yet perhaps the time has come for others not so bemused to take stock and see where all of this has led us.

Are we really a stronger, sounder, happier nation than we were twenty years ago? Have the glowing promises of the world- changers been fulfilled? Is there more brotherhood of man, less suffering and anger, more hope and understanding of truth, than there was 20 years ago?

It would seem that almost any fair- minded man must admit that the answer to all of these questions is "no." Reasonable men may differ over how good the United States of the early 1950s really was. Certainly it had its evils. But it is hard to see how anyone can now seriously maintain that the United States of 1974 is better.

It was these twenty years which were dominated by people who were sure they could make us better through the vast changes they brought about. It is their leadership which has brought us to today's difficult and deeply trouble times. By their own standards, their leadership has failed. A wholly new leadership is badly needed. HLH

2 Illinois teenagers arrested for car theft

Police arrested two Mounds City,Ill., teenaged boys Tuesday who were driving through town in a stolen car.

Police Officer Otis Applewhite became suspicious of the two boys when he pulled up behind them on North Street about 5:30 p.m. and saw the driver watching him in the rear-view mirror.

A computor check showed the car was stolen from Mounds City.

Applewhite stopped the car on Petty Street and arrested Leonard Bailey, 17, and a 13-year-old juvenile.

Police also announced two other arrests: Randy Wayne Boes of Morehouse, public intoxication, and Mary Helen Martin, 809 Agnes St., driving while intoxicated.

Ragland revokes probation for 2

NEW MADRID — Revocation of probation for two men was ordered Tuesday by Circuit Judge William L. Ragland who granted probation to a third man and suspended sentencing against another on criminal charges.

Probation was revoked for Harold Ray Smith of Sikeston who was sentenced March 16, 1973 to two years in the custody of the Department of Corrections on a forgery charge. Smith is to serve his two- year sentence consecutively with a sentence imposed against him in Scott County.

He was accused of forging the signature of Al Skinner to a $35 check on Jan. 17, 1973 and cashing it at the Sikeston IGA Foodliner.

A warrant was ordered for the arrest of Marvin Lee Edwards of Lilbourn upon revocation of his probation.

He was sentenced May 14 to two years on a forgery charge and place on supervised probation. He has failed to report to the probation officer since then. Edwards was charged with forging the signature of Jim Doster to a $73 check.

Probation without supervision was granted Ricky Walker when he received a two- year sentence on a cheat and defraud charge. Walker was accused of writing a $15 check on April 12, 1972 to Taylor's MFA Service Station whrn he had no bank account.

Sentencing was suspended against Charles M. Sisco of Sikeston and he was placed on probation for two years. He was charged with tampering with a motor vehicle on May 28 by removing a tire rim from a vehicle owned by Sikeston Motor Co.

A decree of annulment was granted to Shelby Jean Hamlett West of Holcomb Route One against Larry Wendell West and 10 other decrees for dissolvement of marriages were granted.

Marriages dissolved included: Shirley Irene Haynie of Morehouse and Michael Draton Haynie. Custody of one child and $159 per month for child support were awarded to Mrs. Haynie. Delois J. Gowan and Harold D. Gowan of Portageville, with Mrs. Gowan receiving custody of two children and $75 per month per child for support; Troy Wayne Davidson of Portageville Route Two and Olene Davidson with Mrs. Davidson restored to her former name of Cochran.

Richard W. Trum of New Madrid and Rebecca B. Trum with custody of two children awarded to Trum; Janice Marlene Jackson of New Madrid and Teddy Lee Jackson. Mrs. Jackson was awarded custody on one child and household furnishings.

Glenda Faye Hornburg Lawrence of New Madrid was restored to her maiden name of Hornberg and received household furnishings when her marriage to Charles Junior Lawrence was dissolved. Dorothy Mae Mims of Gideon and Carl Raymond Mims marriage was dissolved with Mrs. Mims receiving custody of four children.

Charlotte Faye Hagan of Parma and Clarence Dickie Hagan with custody of one child awarded to Mrs. Hagan; Junior Arvil Weaver of Malden Route One and Nancy Kay Weaver.

Judy Ann Boldt of New Madrid and James Albert Boldt with custody of two children awarded to Mrs. Boldt and $25 per week for each child for support.

By stipulation, a $2,717.15 judgment for damages in a condemantion suit filed by Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. was awarded to Mary Marguerite Stites, E. M. Stites, Nancy Hutson, John W. Hutson II and Willie Shaw.

Jack W. Hunt was granted a $6,146 judgment in a note suit against L. B.and Virginia Wolfe.

A change of venue to Cape Girardeau County was ordered in a personal injuries damage suit filed by Alvin Wesley Hicks and Betty Hicks against Jerry Lee Williams and Olen Burrage Trucking Co.

Boy hurt when he runs into auto

David C. Mitchell, two-year-old son of Mr.and Mrs. Jim Mitchell, 230 Harry St., was slightly injured about 9:30 p.m. Tuesday when he ran into the side of a car on Garwood Street.

He was treated for scrapes and bruises at Missouri Delta Community Hospital and released.

Police said the boy ran into the side of a car being driven westbound on Garwood by Darlene Lynda Stevens, 27, of 517 Coleman St.

The boy reportedly darted into the street from the side of the road and hit the left front of the car.

Police said no arrests were made.

Scottish Scout plans summer at Lewallen

SILVA — Boy Scouts at Camp Lewallen this summer will have an opportunity to meet Ronald Cresswell from Falkirk, Scotland when camp opens Sunday.

Cresswell arrived in Cape Girardeau recently after a 26-hour bus ride from New York City. About 200 counselors arrived in New York by plane to visits summer camps in the United States. He will serve as a camping skills counselor for the seven- week camping period and will take part in the week long canoe trip at the end of the camping sesson.

Cresswell, 18, was a Cub Scout and a Boy Scout for 6 years. He served as patrol leader and earned the first class badge. He now attends Falkirk Technical College where he is studying accounting.

Twenty- nine staff members are employed by the Southeast Missouri Boy Scout Council of CapeGirardeau to work with scoutmasters who bring their troops to camp. More than 850 campers are expected this year in the 65 troops that have made reservations.

Gene Cook, principal of Marquand School, has been employed as camp director and Fred French of Sikeston, is the professional camp staff advisor.

2 injured in auto accident near Piedmont

PIEDMONT — Two persons were injured in a one- car accident at 9:45 p.m. Tuesday eight miles west of Piedmont on Lake Road No. 3, the highway patrol reported today.

The accident occurred when Timonty Howard Watson, 16, of Ironton swerved his car to avoid hitting a dog. The car slid off the road and struck a tree.

Watson and a passenger, Earl Duane Jones, 17, of Middlebrook, received minor injuries and were taken to Wayne County Medical Center in Piedmont.

Fire damages Jackson home

EAST PRAIRIE — A fire at 10:12 p.m. Tuesday heavily damaged the six-room frame home of the Hershel Jackson family at 508 C St.

The fire, of undetermined origin, began in the utility room where it was confined.

Fire Chief Frank King said the utility room and adjoining bathroom were heavily damaged by the fire. Smoke and water damage was reported to the remainder of the home.

Cunningham is arrested for theft in Miner

Kenneth Allen Cunningham, 18, of 234 Dorothy St., was arrested at 12:05 a.m. today by Miner City Marshal Andy Freeman and his deputy Glen Alsup for allegedly siphoning gasoline out of a pick-up truck.

Freeman and Alsup staked out Leible Implement Co. and C & S Ford Tractor Inc. on Highway 62 East, after someone had stolen gasoline from the companies three or four times in the past four weeks.

Freeman said he and Alsup arrested Cunningham after they watched him begin siphoning gasoline from a pick-up parked behind the Leible Implement Co.

Ann Landers

Girl has mixed-up feelings for Dad

Dear Ann Landers: Why my mother and father got married in the first place is beyond me. How they stuck it out for 14 years is even a bigger mystery. I am the product of that unhappy marriage.

Two years ago my mother met and married a widower. He is a fabulous person and he and Mom are crazy about each other. My friends love to come to our house and listen to him play the guitar. Everyone thinks he's the greatest.

I should be happy, but I'm terribly mixed up about my feelings regarding my real father. I love him, I think -- or am I just saying I do because I'm ashamed that I don't?

Whenever I go to visit him he sits there with a three- day beard, dirty shirt and a can of beer in his hand. All he can talk about is how much rotten luck he has had. I get sick to my stomach listening to him complain. Actually he disgusts me.

Am I a bad daughter because I hate to go see my father? I make myself go because I know I'll feel guilty if I don't.

Is it normal to feel disgust for your own flesh and blood? Or maybe what I really want is for you to tell me it would be O.K. if I stopped seeing the self- pitying slob. Straighten me out, Ann. I'm a - Mixed Up Kid

Dear Kid: You are torn by conflicting emotions. Your feelings of loyalty for your dad are pitted against the disgust you describe, which is understandable Then there's the guilt that haunts you because you feel deep down that children should love their parents.

The candor with which you write indicates you are an honest girl who wants to do the right thing. My advice is to keep seeing your dad, even though he disgusts you. Try to substitute some of your negative feelings with compassion and understanding. He knows he's a slob and a weakling and I'm sure his life is empty and he's leading a miserable existence.

It might help you to reconcile your conflicting emotions if you had a little counseling. I recommend it.

Dear Ann Landers: My boyfriend and I plan to get married soon. We've been dating steady for two years. Some serious questions have come up about our wedding ceremony.

Roy believes in God, but he doesn't believe in preachers. He thinks we sould go to a chapel and be married by God. We would each have a witness and write our own marriage vows. There would be no license or legal papers signed, but God would know we were married.

When I told Roy I didn't think I would be confortable with this sort of marriage, he said we could have a legal ceremony three months later if I still felt the same way. I really love this guy, but I'm beginning to wonder about his love for me.

My best friend says he is a jerk and that he just wants to shack up for awhile. What do you think, Ann Landers? -- Doubtful In Davenport

Dear Doubtful: I think your best friend has things pretty well figured out. I hope you will listen to her. God has nothing against legal ceremonies, and believe me, those are the best kind.

Seminar leader says yes to sex

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (AP) — Sex after 60? At least twice a week for longer, happier and healthier lives, says a leader of a seminar on the sexual behavior of the elderly.

"It is completely normal for men in their 70s or 80s to be capable of normal, pleasurable sexual relations, and for their partners to respond equally as well," says Helen Parsons, a social worker who leads a series of seminars on the concerns of senior citizens.

But most elderly people repress their instincts because of the "puritanical attitude of society which makes the public think that older people don't have sexual desires," Mrs. Parsons said.

About 30 persons attended a recent seminar that was advertised throughout the city. Many senior-citizen clubs refused to listen to "such dirty things," she said.

"It is terribly wrong what society has done," said Mrs. Parsons. "Of course sexual desires and ability for sexual intercourse live in every man and woman — regardless of their age."

One elderly woman blushed daintily and rushed out of the room when she discovered the topic to be discussed was sex.

Society's adulation of youth, dirty-old-men jokes and the snickers that accompany news that an elderly man has wed a woman less than half his age reinforce guilt older people have toward sex, Mrs. Parsons said.

Sexual inhibitions in older people are strengthened by other impediments to an active sex life, she added.

There aren't enough elderly men to go around, she pointed out, because men tend to marry women younger than themselves. She said 57 per cent of those over 65 are women and two-thirds of the women are widows.

Many of those widows never have sex after their husbands die because they feel guilty about pursuing a man, she said.

A lack of privacy also hampers sexuality, Mrs. Parsons said. Nursing home patients can't visit privately with their spouses. And many older couples live with their children or grandchildren and don't have many chances to be alone.

STREAKING is not confined solely to running in one's altogether. General Electric publicist Debbie Rawlings did some streaking recently to illustrate the brilliance of a new lightbulb that burns Krypton gas rather than the usual Argon gas which is not as bright. Debbie wielded the 50 watt bulb, as brilliant as most ordinary 75 watt bulbs (at left), as a time-elapsed photograph showed her "streaking" across the stage to dramatize the new bulb. Apparently Krypton has another purpose besides serving as the birthplace of Superman.

Bussey home reflects friendly personalities

Spending an afternoon with Mrs. Henry (Lila) Bussey, interior decorator, turned out to be a highlight and quite an adventure for this reporter, when I ventured last week to the newly- redecorated Bussey home at 407 S. Kingshighway.

Not knowing the type of work Mrs. Bussey did, I felt like I was stepping out of reality into the types of pictures one sees in magazines; a world of color, furnishings and friendliness everyone strives to achieve in his own home, no matter how big or how small.

Mrs. Bussey has been in the interior decorating business before in Memphis, Tenn., but when she and her husband moved to Sikeston, she wasn't really wanting to go into a business here, but she began helping some of her new and close friends to "redo" their homes and word spread faster than she realized it would.

The Busseys have remodeled the old Kendall Sikes home into quite a showplace. The house, known once as Sikeston Tourist Center, was like a hotel and housed 22 men ... in 22 separate sleeping rooms. That meant a lot of work tearing down walls and partitions to make rooms suitable for their family.

The Busseys haven't done a lot of entertaining yet in their new home, but plan to as soon as the remodeling is finished, "There are some little things yet I want to finish and I want to make sure I'm satisfied with the rooms as they are before we open our doors," Mrs. Bussey said.

The thing to keep in mind when decorating, whether it's her own home or someone else's, is to make the home radiate with the family's personality(ies), she said. The furniture and even appliances should reflect the kind of life the family leads, and the kitchen should be made simple and allow the "chief cook and bottle washer" to move freely and fast.

Pictures abound on the walls of the Bussey home, and in the main hall is a built-in wall unit which houses intercoms throughout the house, AM and FM radios and a small tape recorder unit for leaving messages.

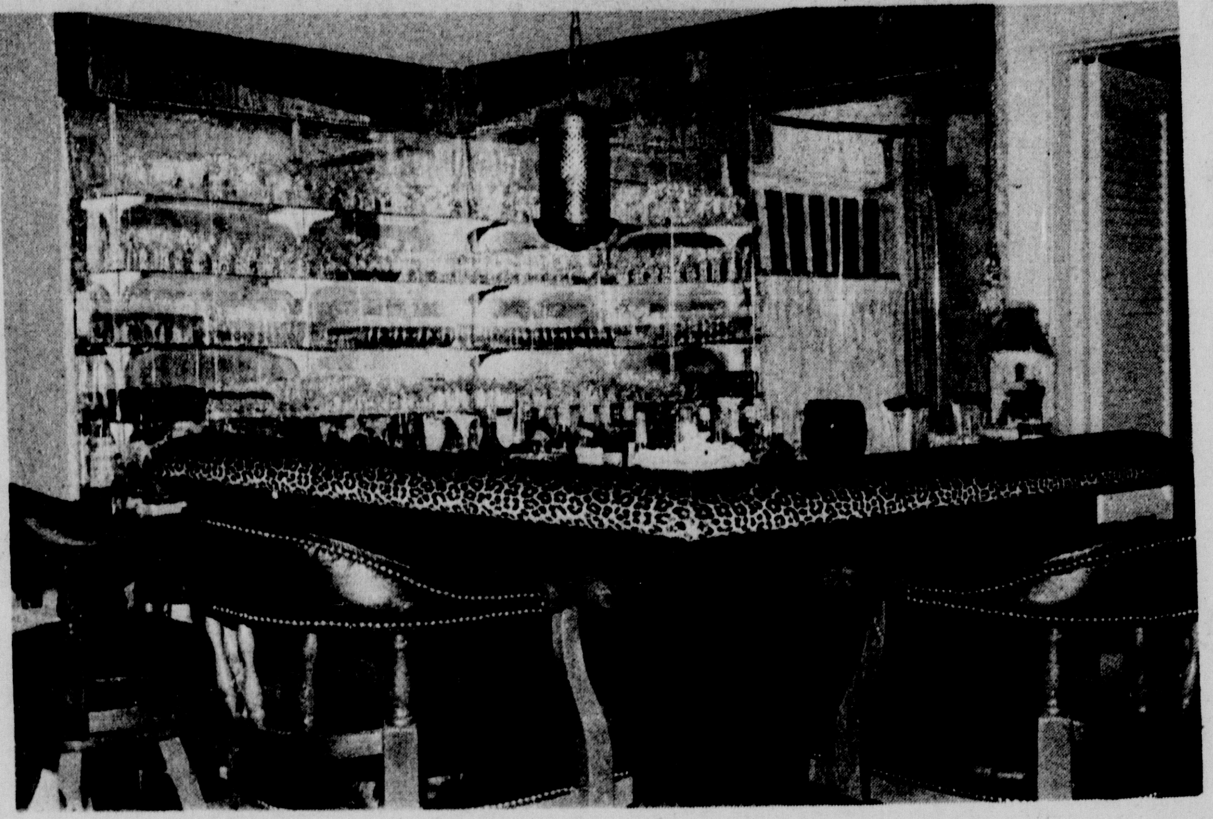
The Busseys haven't finished their formal living room yet, but Mrs. Bussey has a small room downstairs she especially likes to relax in which is lined with family pictures (why take them if you aren't going to use them, and the couple has a family room upstairs next to their bedroom.

The four bathrooms were remodeled, but as Mrs. Bussey explained, remodeling was done around the original pipes so that fewer walls and floors would have to be disturbed.

The entrance hall has a small garden to its right, underneath the stairway, and off of the couple's bedroom upstairs is a small porch which they enjoy when the weather is nice. There is also an efficiency kitchen upstairs so that "running up and down isn't necessary ... and it would be in a house this size," Mrs. Bussey explained.

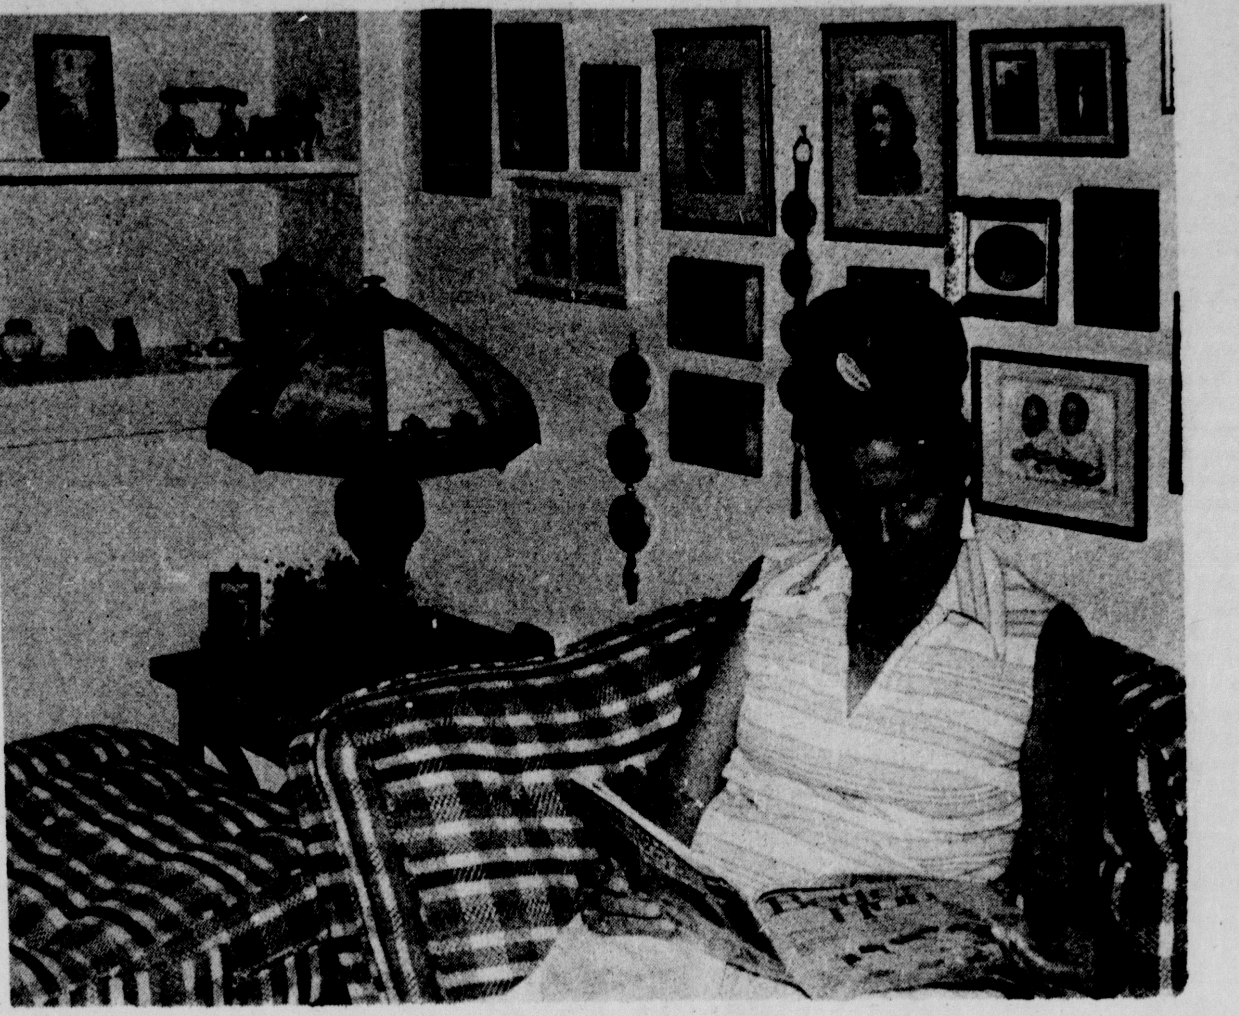
A fireplace was moved from one of the bedrooms into the dining room "where it would be enjoyed more"; and a butler's stairway, located inside the back door of the house, was remodeled and lighted so that it could be frequently used.

In all, the house truly personifies the friendly and warm personalities of the Busseys, and is definitely one of thy most beautiful homes in Southeast Missouri.



Upstairs bar centers hallway

This unique bar, commonly referred to as the "golden hour bar" because of two giant hourglasses, is located upstairs in the Bussey home.



Mrs. Bussey relaxes in "her" room

Mrs. Henry Bussey relaxes in a small room downstairs where she is among family pictures and momentos.

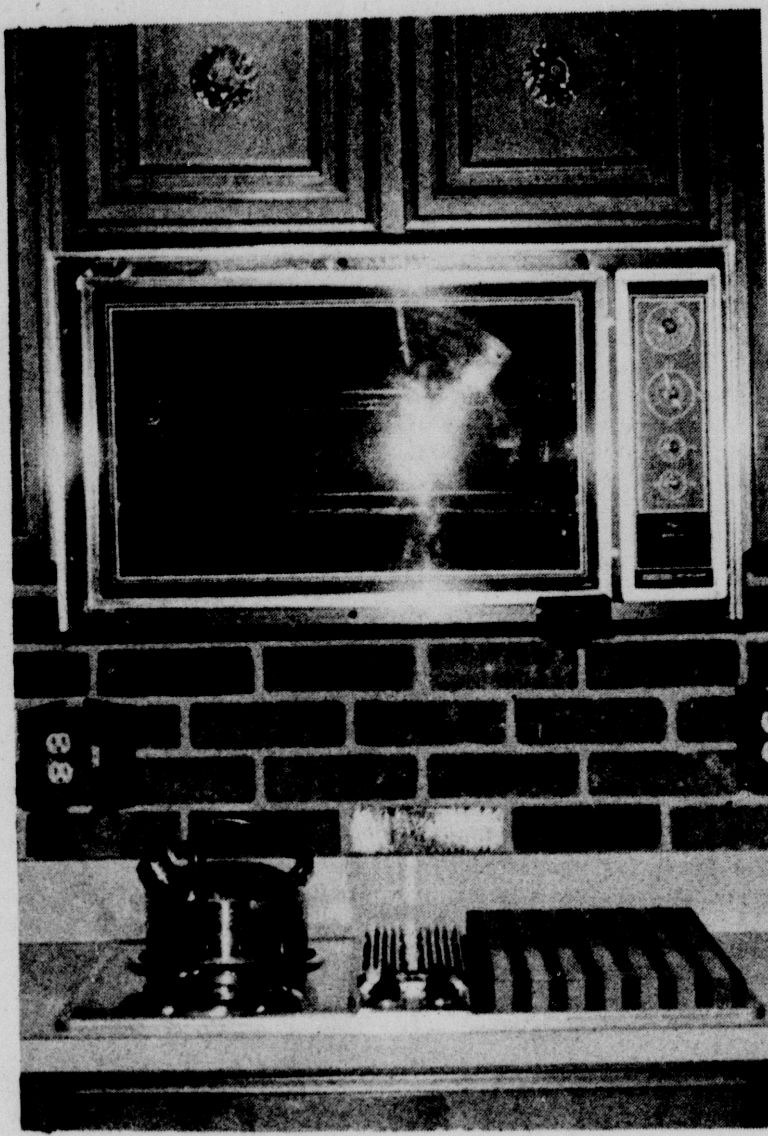
Stone walls and handles

Stone walls surround a bathtub in one of the upstairs baths. The tub features handles on either side for ease in entering or leaving the tub.



Stove features charcoal grill

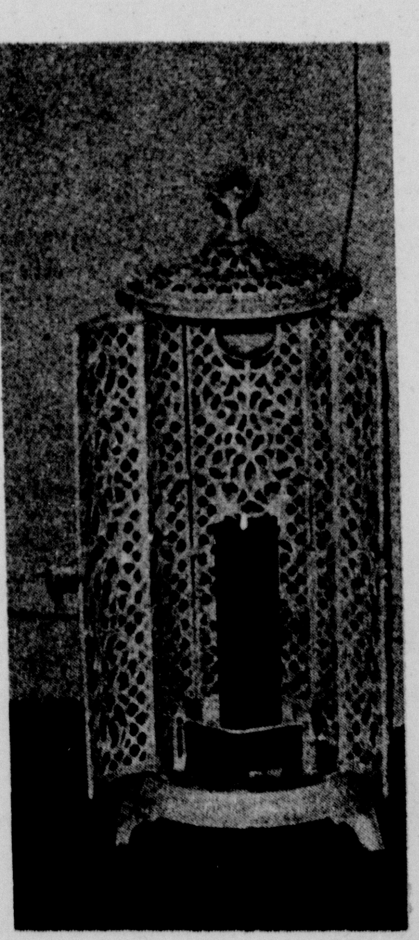
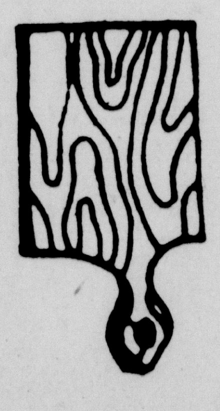
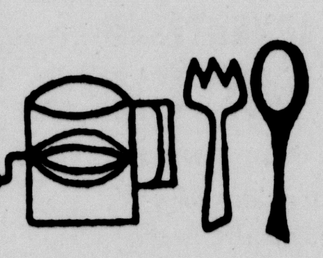
This table, located in one of the upstairs bedrooms, has a gingham cloth and is covered with momentos from the Busseys' pasts. One rather unusual attraction is a pair of reading glasses (on top of Bible) which belonged to Mrs. Bussey's brother when he was three years of age.

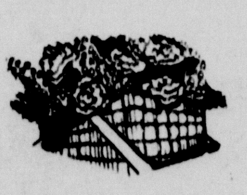


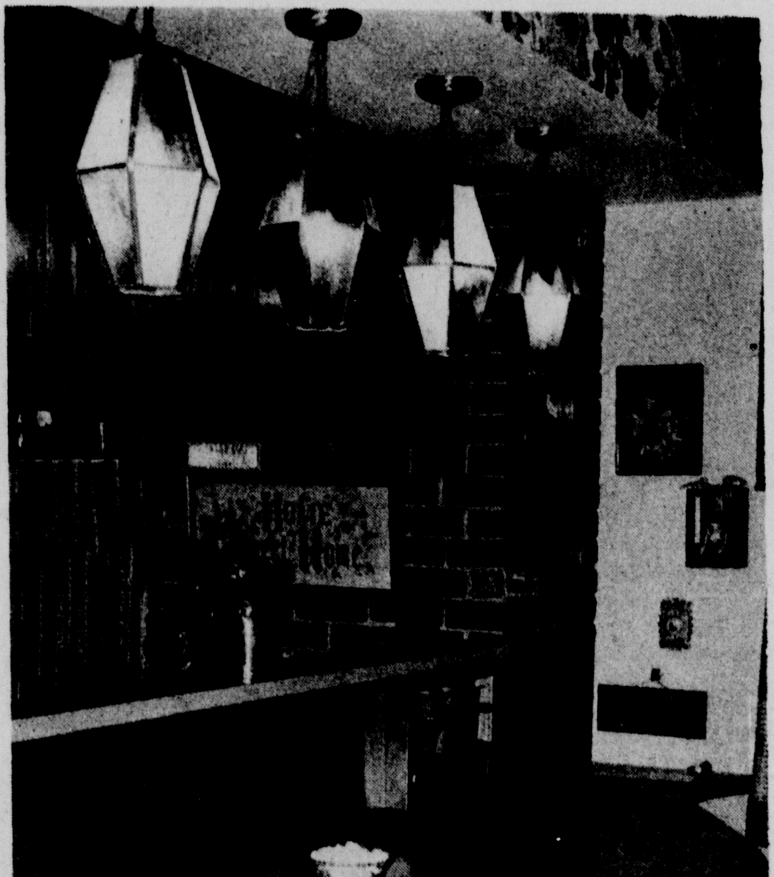
English stove redone

An old English stove sits in the family room of the Henry Bussey home and is often the topic of conversation. The stove uses a candle inside and years ago was used to keep hands warm on chilly nights.



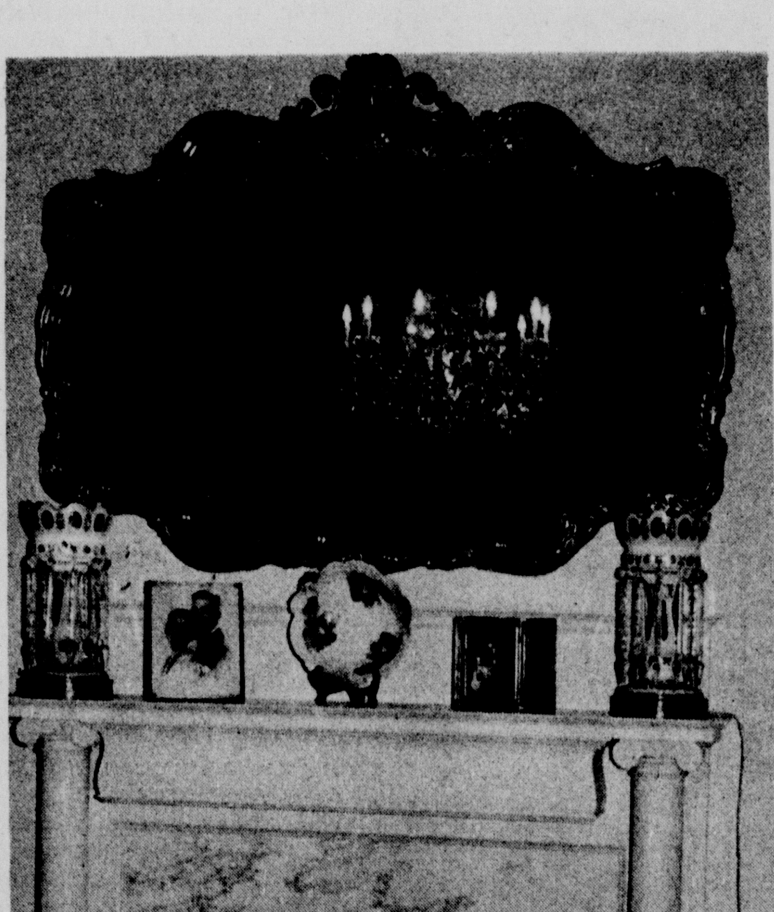






Kitchen bar is unusual

Among unusual features in the Henry Bussey home is this semi-circular bar which swings out as it meets the wall. Gayly lit lamps, wrought iron chairs and a built-in toaster (center of the bar over the table, are also unusual. Mrs. Bussey feels kitchens should reflect the tastes of individual families.



Dining room is formal

The Bussey dining room is quite formal with its chandelier and fireplace. The fireplace was removed from one of the home's bedrooms and placed where the family could better enjoy it.

Charleston approves waste plan

CHARLESTON — An ordinance setting the city's tax levy at $1.50 per $100 assessed valuation for 1974-75 was adopted Tuesday night by the City Council and resolutions pertaining to a solid waste disposal plan, the 1974 street paving program and the Neighborhood Development Program were approved.

The adopted $1.50 tax levy, five cents lower than the 1973-74 levy, will be distributed to the following funds: $1 to general revenue fund; 30 cents to the public improvement fund and the remaining 20 cents to the water and sewer extension bond fund.

A resolution calling for the adoption of an ordinance for a solid waste disposal plan to be in operation by Sept. 1 was approved. In the proposed plan, cost for the trash collection service to residents was estimated at $2.50 to $4.50 per month with billing to be included on the water and sewer bills. The city will collect fees.

The council agreed that if the service is contracted and not handled by the city, a three- year contract should be given. Under a state law the proposed plan must be filed with the state by June 30 and the city is responsible for providing a refuse collection service by July 1. If the city operates the service, it must be in operation within six months after July 1 and if contracted, it must be in operation 60 to 90 days after July 1.

The council also approved a resolution calling for paving of portions of Cleveland, Bondurant, Danforth, Virginia and Fassett streets and Byrd Avenue. A separate resolution for the paving of Green Street from south of Lafayette Street to south of the center of line of the railroad was also approved. The city will pay any excess costs over $5.85 per front foot for the paving on Green Street.

Also approved was a resolution endorsing an application for a $98,050 grant for the extension of the Neighborhood Development Program. The application will be made by the Land Clearance for Redevelopment Authority to the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development and Upon approval and funding, will cover the period of July 1 to Dec. 31 for five areas outside the urban renewal area.

City Manager Willis Downs informed the council that the city has received a report from the State Division of Health and the Clean Water Commission on the water treatment facilities. Downs said about 35 recommendations for improvement were listed in the report, but that many of the problems were minor and the city crew is now in the process of making corrections.

Sandblasting and repainting of the sewer plant building and equipment was discussed. Downs told the council he had a cost estimate of $1,900 from Adams and McCord Painting Contractors of Dexter for the job. The council voiced the opinion that the cost was too high and instructed Downs to contract L. D. Davis of East Prairie Lumber Co. about using his sandblaster for the job with the city crew providing the labor.

Following discussion on the sale of a portion of A. D. Simpson Park on south Main Street to Lou Moore, the council decided not to sell the property and agreed the city should not consider selling any portion of the park to any other interested persons unless other property was available for relocation.

Downs reported that the mobile home owned by Carl Cates, located in Hill House Park, had been placed in the lowest part of the park and must be moved since problems with standing water were occurring and the septic tank was not working properly. Downs also said that vandalism in the Hill House Park was down since the home had been set up.

Police Chief Bob Ritchey informed the council that he had received a request from the superintendent of the State Highway Department and the construction contractor, for assistance in keeping cars off the overpass at the east city limits where construction of Interstate 57 is underway.

Following discussion, the council instructed the city attorney to draw up an ordinance prohibiting automobiles on construction areas until it is open to the public. It was agreed that city police should cooperate if adequate barricades were erected and proper signs put up so that traffic could be re- routed at Gilmore Street. At present many motorists are not aware that HIghway 61, near the Interstate 57 overpass, is closed and are using private drives in which to turn around.

Charles Williams, co-owner of Sparks Funeral Home Inc., asked the council if it would be receptive to modification of a city zoning ordinance, in which the funeral home could be relocated in a residential area. Williams said the funeral home would be moved about 50 feet from its present location on South Locust Street. Williams was told the council would be receptive to a special use zoning ordinance if it was approved by the planning and zoning commission.

The resignation of Mrs. Louise Cope, who has been employed as city clerk for five years, was accepted effective July 15. The council agreed to pay Mrs. Cope her accumulated sick leave and two weeks vacation.

Following the council meeting, the liquor committee approved issuance of the following licenses: Grace Layton, five per cent beer license for The Bootheel Lounge; Alvina Stader, package liquor license for the Highway Market; Wilbur French, five per cent beer license for Budweiser Cafe; Ray Bruenderman, package liquor license for Bruenderman's Grocery and Tobacco Store; Joe W. Layton, package liquor license for Layton's Package Liquor Store; and Verlon Uthoff, liquor by the drink license for the Crystal Inn.

Child hostage freed

NEW YORK (AP) — A 5-year-old girl was yanked to safety today from the Queens housing project apartment where she had been held hostage with her father since late Monday. Her father was found dead, his chest punctured by a bullet.

The gunman had allowed her to open the apartment door to retrieve food set in the hall by a special police hostage team and had kept a revolver trained on her.

Detective Lt. Frank A. Bolz Jr. handed her a cup of hot coffee for the gunman. Then with one hand he offered a glass of a soft drink. As she reached for it, he grabbed her with the other hand and left the former convict and mental patient without a hostage.

A medical examiner was en route to the building to examine the body of the girl's father, Fred Kinsler, 34, whose motionless form had been spotted on the floor since Tuesday.

Several hundred neighbors cheered as the girl was taken to an ambulance. She appeared to be unharmed.

In bullet-proof vests and carrying rifles and shotguns, the police said they told the gunman, Floyd Steele, 56, to "take it easy."

With a shotgun trained on him, Steele surrendered.

The drama ended shortly after 9 a.m.

Port authority meeting tonight

A meeting to establish port authorities in Pemiscot, New Madrid, Mississippi, Scott, Cape Girardeau and Perry counties will be held at 7 p.m. today at the Ramada Inn.

Dinner will begin at 7 p.m. and a business meeting at 8 p.m.

Mayors and county judges in the affected counties are being asked to attend the meeting.

Guy Jaffee of Jefferson City, director of the Missouri Division of Commerce and Industrial Development; John Brawley of Jefferson City, state director of transporation; and state senators and representatives are also expected to attend.

Birds of a feather

Where does U.N. get acronyms?

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Staring into his alphabet soup in the U.N. cafeteria the other day, one diner said to another, "This must be where the United Nations gets the letters for all those acronyms it makes up for new operations."

The latest acronym to come out of the pot is "UNDOF,' for the new U.N Disengagement Observer Force being deployed in the Syria-Israeli buffer zone in the Golan Heights.

The initials in such a combination are not pronounced one after another but spoken as a single word.

Accordingly, care must be taken not to produce the wrong combination. There was some panic at an advance report, which turned out to be false, that the new operation would be the U.N. Disengagement Observer Group, or UNDOG. If there is anywhere that "dog" is a bad word, it is the Middle East.

There have been similarly strange though not quite so embarrassing U.N. acronyms. What was known as the U.N. Relief Office in Dacca, or UNROD, until the United Nations recognized Bangladesh, thereafter had to become the U.N. Relief Operation in Bangladesh, or UNROB.

One acronym has outlived the name it was created to convey. UNICEF came into use as the symbol for Fund. When the name was changed to just U.N. Children's Fund, the old initials were kept because they had become so well known around the world.

House refuses to take up land use legislation

WASHINGTON (AP) Amid charges that the White House was playing impeachment politics, the House has refused to take up land use planning legislation.

Tuesday's all-day vote apparently kills the legislation for the session.

Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., sponsor of one land use bill, said the vote "shows the shabby hypocrisy of the White House. They said they were for land use legislation but they did not send a word ... no lobbyists."

House Majority Leader Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., said "they pulled the rug from under us. They helped construct the legislation—and then 136 Republicans voted against the rule."

Udall said President Nixon played impeachment politics on the bill, deliberately withdrawing support for the measure his Interior secretary helped write to court conservatives to stay with him on impeachment.

The Sierra Club agreed, and said that by Tuesday's vote Congress "has mortgaged America's future to haphazard and chaotic development."

The sponsors of a weaker bill, House Minority Leader John Rhodes and Rep. Sam Steiger, both R-Ariz., voted against allowing the House to debate any land use bill.

Steiger denied Udall's charge of impeachment politics, saying he had made no trade-offs with the White House on the issue.

He said he had been advised by a White House lobbyist not to oppose a full House debate on the land use bill but he did anyway, telling the House that to consider it would mean wrangling through dozens of amendments.

The bill would have provided $800 million to help states and local governments devise means for planning the wisest use of their land and other resources.

President Nixon had called land use legislation his top environmental priority four years ago in a message to Congress. His Interior Secretary, Rogers C. B. Morton, worked closely with the interior committees in shaping the legislation most of last year.

Steiger took credit for Nixon's reversal in February, made known only when the House Rules Committee blocked the bill from coming to the House floor. Steiger said then Morton had misled the President into thinking the bill would be good for the country.

By last week, Morton had switched positions himself, supporting only the Steiger-Rhodes bill rather than the one he helped draft.

Conservation needed, says energy chief

HOUSTON (AP) — The new chief of the Federal Energy Office says there is vital need for continued emphasis on energy conservation despite the end of the Arab embargo.

John C. Sawhill said Tuesday he plans to start this week a series of conferences designed to encourage industry to formulate efficient conservation programs.

"Industry consumes 41 per cent of our energy and we must start conservation with them," he said.

Starting with the automotive industry, Sawhill plans summer conferences with such industries as aluminum, steel, and paper, and, later, take up the discussions with the residential construction industry.

Sawhill outlined his plans during a news conference while in Houston to speak at the annual meeting of the Texas Independent Producers & Royalty Owners Association.

"We are to meet with Chrysler and General Motors this week to seek goals to make automobiles more efficient," he said.

He said one objective is to increase automobile efficiency from an average of about 13.9 miles per gallon of gasoline to 17 miles by 1980 and 19 miles by 1985.

"That would conserve as much energy as we would gain by way of the Alaskan pipeline when it is completed," he said.

"Then, this summer, we'll ask aluminum, steel paper, and other industries to set goals. Then will come residential."

Sawhill said he has set Nov. 1 as the target date for completion of the energy self-sufficiency plans for President Nixon's Project Independence.

"Then we will hold public hearings around the country ... on these plans for Project Independence and our plans for balancing supply and demand," he said.

Fun, relaxation offered here

For a change of scenery and a weekend of fun, camping, boating, fishing, golf, or just relaxing, consider making a trip to the Land Between the Lakes in Kentucky. At each of the four entrances to Land Between the Lakes is a luxurious state resort park. To the north is Kentucky Dam Village; to the west, Kenlake State Park; to the East, Lake Barkley State Resort Park (not pictured here); and near the southern entrance is Paris Landing State Park.

Weekend of leisure only 2 hours away

By ALLEN BLANTON
Editor

GOLDEN POND, Ky. — Leisure-time enthusiasts who are looking for a change of scenery and a weekend of fun, camping, boating, fishing, golf or just relaxing, are only a two-hour drive away from such a place --- Kentucky's Western Waterland.

Kentucky and Barkley Lakes offer ample space for boat riding and fishing. For the angler who doesn't have a favorite fishing hole a professional guide is recommended. Carl Hamilton, former owner of the Sportsman Lodge and Marina at Benton, Ky., can show fishermen some action from crappie or large mouth bass to stripes (white bass).

Several weeks ago Hamilton took me to the mouth of Jonathan Creek where we plugged for stripes and came back with a nice catch. Trolling also proved to be productive in this area. While Hamilton and I were plugging for stripes with a solid lead lure, a small cabin cruiser came by trolling a bomber with a single spinner and a small bush tail trailing about one and one-half foot behind the bomber. They made 10 or 12 passes trolling over the ledge we were fishing and netted around 35 nice stripes.

If fishing doesn't interest you, maybe one of the golf courses will. There is a nine-hole course at Kenlake State Park, an 18-hole Boots Randolph championship course near Lake Barkley State Resort Park on Land Between the Lakes and an 18-hole championship course at Kentucky Dam Village.

For those who enjoy camping, there are major family campgrounds along the Kentucky Lake shoreline. Other sites are in planning stages.

Camp Energy, the first reservation group camp developed in Land Between the Lakes, is located on Energy Lake, a 370 acre subimpoundment of Lake Barkley. Brandon Spring, a major group camp with indoor housing and dining facilities, is located on Bards Lake. Additonal camping, picnicking, boat launching and other day-use facilities are available at 24 lake access areas along the Kentucky Lake and Lake Barkley shoreline in Land Between the Lakes.

Although the entire Land Between the Lakes project is an experience in environmental education, the focal point is the Environmental Education Center, a 5,000-acre wooded area near the Lake Barkley shoreline. Features of the center include the Center Station, an interpretive facility where displays and a color film can be seen; Silo Overlook, a high platform atop a silo overlooking Lake Barkley; Hematite and Honker Lakes, two scenic internal lakes; miles of trails in an area full of wildlife and plant life; Empire Farm, where children can see farm animals and learn about life on the farm; and the Youth Station, where classroom groups can go to live and study in the out-of-doors.

Dormitories, cafeteria, resource materials building and nature trails are all part of the youth station. An audio-visual resource management trail within the Environmental Education Center called the Trail of These Hills tells the story of forestry and wildlife management in Land Between the Lakes. New programs are being planned.

Visitors can enjoy the quiet countryside and see a wide variety of wildlife, including deer, wild turkey, geese and ducks on the many miles of trails, old logging roads and back-country drives throughout Land Between the Lakes.

Wildlife and forestry management programs have made is possible to have a hunting season for several types of game. The largemouth bass and crappie fishing in Lake Barkley and Kentucky Lake is considered to be among the best in the nation.

No commercial overnight facilities are located in Land Between the Lakes. However, there are scores of fishing camps, state resort parks, resorts, motels, boat docks and restaurants in the surrounding twin lakes area.

For information on the Land Between the Lakes area write Land Between the Lakes, Tennessee Valley Authority, Golden Pond, Kentucky, 42231. The telephone number is 502/924-5602

Disney's 'Alice' returns to screen

After 23 years, Walt Disney's cartoon version of "Alice in Wonderland" is returning to enchant and amuse the young in heart. The movie starts Friday at the Malone Theatre, 107 W. Malone Ave.

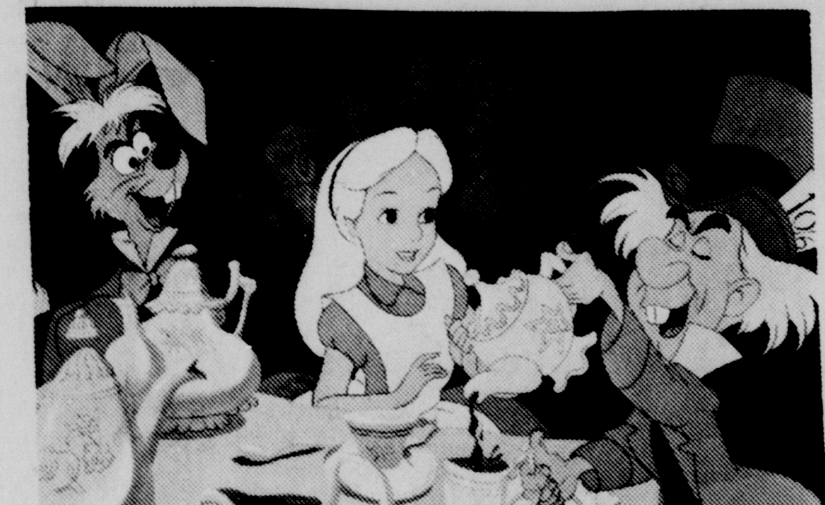
A musical fantasy on one level, the picture also is faithful to author Lewis Carroll's satire on education, politics, literature and Victorian life in general.

Although it premiered in 1951, "Alice in Wonderland" -- with its absurd characters, astonishing adventures and epic nonsense -- somehow seems highly contemporary.

All the great and fabulous figures are depicted, among them the Caucus Race which has neither a beginning nor end, the Cheshire Cat, who bewilders Alice with double talk and annoying fadeouts, the Caterpillar whose words literally go up in smoke, and the royal croquet game which ends with Alice on trial for her life.

Twenty- six artists lend their voices to the Technicolor production including Ed Wynn, Richard Hadyn, Sterling Holloway, Jerry Colonna and Kathryn Beaumont as Alice.

The movie is being re-released by Buena Vista.



'Have a cup of tea'

"Have a cup of tea!" the Mad Hatter and March Hare keep insisting at the famous party in Walt Disney's all- cartoon version of "Alice in Wonderland", based on Lewis Carroll's classic fantasy. The movie starts Friday at the Malone Theatre.

Jaffee named ex-officio member of finance board

JEFFERSON CITY — Guy Jaffee, director of the state Division of Commerce and Industrial Development, has been named an ex- officio member of the Board of Directors of the First Missouri Development Finance Corp.

In announcing the appointment, Jerry F. Stegall, executive vice president of the privately- owned organization, said, "The bylaws of First Missouri place the Governor on our Board as an ex-officio director however, a recent resolution of the shareholders authorized the Governor to delegate his position to the director of the Division of Commerce and Industrial Development."

According to Stegall, the prime purpose of the First Missouri Development Finance Corporation is, "to supplement existing sources of credit within the state in order to promote more business and industrial activity aimed at expanding the economy."

"I feel Jaffe's appointment to our board will add significantly to our program and bring particular expertise to our statewide operations," Stegall concluded.

Surgeons to meet Friday

BRANSON - The Missouri Chapter of the American College of Surgeons will hold its seventh annual professional meeting June 14 and 15 at Rock Lane Lodge in Branson.

Opening-day guest speaker will be John W. Pompelli of Chicago, assistant director of the American College of Surgeons.

State Sen. William J. Cason of Clinton, will speak at the Saturday closing luncheon. Sen. Cason is president pro tem of the Missouri Sentate and serves as chairman of the committee on public health, welfare and environment.

During the two-day professional meeting some of Missouri's outstanding surgeons will present papers. There will be 31 presentations ranging from new and established surgical procedures to academic and legislative topics.

Ark-Mo cited for cash prizes

JEFFERSON CITY - Twenty organizations have been awarded certificates of appreciation by the Missouri Division of Commerce and Industrial Development for providing the cash prizes distributed in the 1973 Missouri Community Betterment awards competition.

In the annual awards competion, communities are judged according to population for their degree of accomplishments on economic development projects. A total of $10,500 in prize money was distributed.

Arkansas-Missouri Power Co. of Blytheville, Ark., which provides electrical power service to Southeast Missouri was among those presented certificats.

Sikeston men in Florida

Beatty Miller, 706 Courtney Drive, and Terry Coleman, 413 Illinois St., are employed by Metropolitan Life in Poplar Bluff.

Miller, sales manager, and Coleman sales representative, had exceptional sales and service records last year and are among the top- ranking members of Metropolitan's staff in the United States and Canada.

Bell hired more women, minorities during 1973

More women began working on central office equipment, while more men became telephone operators for Southwestern Bell during 1973, according to Mike Smith, manager of the Sikeston office.

He based the statement on a report filed with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission April 1 by Southwestern Bell and other Bell companies.

"The company made significant progress last year in providing employment and advancement opportunities for women and minorities," he said. "Traditional male and female job roles continued to disappear, and we hired more minority people than in any previous year. Also, the number of women and minority people in management continued to climb."

Smith said the progress reports filed under Bell's Affirmative Action Program reflected the first year's results under an agreement reached in January 1973 between American Telephone and Telegraph and the federal government.

He explained that the plan keys hiring and promotion of women and minorities to specific goals in each of 15 job classifications. The objective is to make the work force eventually reflect, by race and sex, the profiles of available labor markets in areas served by Bell.

One of the 1973 goals met by both Southwestern Bell and the Bell System as a whole was in minority hiring. "Of the 1,038 new employees hired in the Kansas City area, which includes most of Missouri outside metropolitan St. Louis, 168 -- or 16.2 per cent -- were from minority groups," Smith said.

"We made particularly significant gains in moving minorities into management," he said. "At the end of 1972, 2.7 per cent of our management people in the area were from minority groups. By last December, 3.8 per cent were from minorities."

The report to the EEOC showed that both Southwestern Bell and the Bell System exceeded goals for moving women to inside craft jobs and placing men in operator jobs. Smith said the Kansas City area exceeded the goal for moving women to inside craft jobs by 18.4 per cent and the goal for male operators by 6.4 per cent.

"At the same time," he said, "we found it difficult to place women in traditionally male outside craft jobs, like cable splicer and installer. In the Kansas City area we had ten women in such jobs. That was eight more than at the end of 1972, but we're still far short of our goal of 32. We find that many women job applicants are not interested in heavy outside work."

He reported similar problems in placing men in some clerical jobs. Although the area exceeded its goal for 1973, Smith said shortage of available talent is a problem. "Men who know shorthand seem to be in short supply," he said.

Osco Drug honored by chain drug stores

PALM BEACH, Fla. - Osco Drug Inc. was honored May 9 by the National Association of Chain Drug Stores Inc. (NACDS) as a recipient of the association's Gold Link Award.

Eight national awards were presented during a ceremony which took place May 9 during the association's annual meeting in Palm Beach, Fla.

Osco Drug Inc. received two NACDS Gold Link Awards for their excellent programs on community relations and the pharmacy profession. The NACDS Gold Link Awards program gives recognition to those chain drug corporations that have enhanced their public image and also strengthened those industry programs which would help create a continuous, positive, profile of their business and employes.

The National Association of Chain Drug Stores Inc., headquarters in Washington D. C., represents the management of 230 chain drug corporations and more than 175,000 chain drug employes, of which 28,000 are registered pharmacists, throughout the United States, Canada, Mexico, Puerto Rico, Australia and Venezuela.

Wheeler slated for Bootheel Jamboree

BERNIE — Onie Wheeler of Mt. Juliet, Tenn., formerly of Senath and Sikeston and now a country music star, will appear June 15 at the Bootheel Jamboree in Bernie.

The jamboree begins at 8 p.m.

Wheeler has been one of the professionals of country music for 25 years and he has been described as "A man who is ahead of his time."

Born in Senath and raised in Sikeston, Wheeler was winning contests and was on his way to a career as an entertainer by the time he was in the ninth grade. In 1940 he joined the Army for a two year- hitch, during which time, he continued singing and winning contests.

Following his years in the service, Wheeler went to work at radio station KWOC in Poplar Bluff, formed his own band, had his own radio show and began playing at dances. In Poplar Bluff he met his future wife.

After moving around for awhile, Wheeler signed his first recording contract and worked with Elvis Presley for five months.

As early as 1949, Wheeler made his first guest appearance on the Grand Ole Opry in Nashville, Tenn., and was a frequent visitor there. Then in 1957, he was asked to become a regular on the Flatt and Scruggs television show, so he moved to Nashville.

In the next few years, he worked TV shows and personal appearance dates with many of the stars in the industry.

Onie Wheeler

In recent years, Wheeler and his band have performed in all 50 states, England, Germany and the Far East. He has made a number of appearances on the Opry and has performed on TV on the Jackie Gleason Show, Porter Waggoner, Wilburn Brothers and Good Ole Nashville Music Shows, among others.

Wheeler has a string of hits over the past 20 years. They include, "Too Hot to Handle," "Mother Prays Loud in Her Sleep," "Go Home," "Closing Time," and "I Saw Mother with God Last Night".

One of his newest hits is "Shuckin' My Way to the Hall of Fame.

Wheeler is also one of the great harmonica players of all time.

Prayer for Today

from The Upper Room

"If I take the wings of the morning and dwell in the uttermost parts of the sea, even there thy hand shall lead me, and thy right hand shall hold me." (Psalm 139: 9-10)
PRAYER: O Lord, we seek Thy uplifting hand all the day long and in the darkness of the night. Ever reach us even in the depths to which we sometimes plunge. Amen.

View optimistic

By CROCKETT SCOTT

The decline in commodity prices hass encouraged some St. Louis and Memphis investment banking houses to take a more optimistic view of both the economy and the stock market.

They note most recently the probable significance of the easement in metals prices, following the dip in agricultural products.

Many of their number are critical of the Nixon administration for the Russian grain deals which they assert set off sharp rises in agricultural products by taking such huge quantities out of the market.

And though happy to see the current downturn in commodities, they are skeptical of the future levels of commodities, near term and long term.

Unless wet weather abates, cotton and soybean futures will take off again, most concur.

Wheat and corn prices too will rise or ease in accord with prospects for the growing season, they note.

Progress in the Mid- East, the end of the oil embargo and a return to a so called norm in international affairs bodes well for the stock market, members of the investment community concur; -- Watergate notwithstanding.

An immediate concern of investment bankers is of course short term interest rates.

And Federal Reserve Board Chairman, Arthur F. Burns, is getting his share of criticism. Mr. Burns, investment bankers say, talks one way -- supporting and speaking out for a relatively tight money supply but when one looks at the Federal Reserve Board's action these investment bankers note that the board has not acted like Mr. Burns talks.

The money supply in this nation, note investment houses, has increased at an annual rate of 8.1 percent since October, 1973.

Comparing this growth in the money rate, to that of the past few years, it is way out of line, as a look at statistics indicates.

The Federal Reserve Board must get the growth in the money rate down two or three percentage points, if runaway inflation is to be thwarted.

To do this the Federal Reserve would have to curtail sharply the growth of bank reserves. Thus the doubt exists that short term rates are going to come down very much very quickly.

Some investment houses see current high short term interest rates as an over- reaction to the oil embargo.

Industry pulled in its expansionary horns with the advent of the oil embargo last October.

The Federal Reserve trying to stimulate business borrowing at the time initiated an easier money policy. But industry delayed expansionary moves pretty much until the oil embargo was lifted. Then many large companies wanted money simultaneously, and demand exceeded supply.

Interest rates went up, spurred in part by inventory build-up as businessmen feared prices would be higher tomorrow than they were today.

Investment bankers say that a favorable omen presently may be the fact that the monetary base has been relatively stable since April 24.

May, yearly sales up at Big K Stores

NASHVILLE, Tenn. -- Kuhn's - Big K Stores Corp. reported today its sales for the first five months of the year increased 29 per cent over the comparable period of 1973, and that May sales were up 25 per cent.

Jack W. Kuhn, president, said sales in the company's seven- state chain of Big K discout department stores and Kuhn's variety stores were $49,379,758 in the January-May period, compared with $38,333,167 for the first five months of last year.

Lancaster to be new manager at oil mill

-- C. H. Lancaster, 907 Patricia Drive, will become the new manager and secretary-treasurer of Sikeston Cotton Oil Mill June 30 when E.O. DeField, 723 Taylor St., retires from that position.

Lancaster has been an employe of the mill since 1944. He began as cashier and has served as assistant manager for the past eight years.

Leonard B. Colley, of 305 Edmondson Drive will act as cashier for the mill beginning July 1.

DeField was elected May 14, 1973 to the Old Guard, an honorary society of the cottonseed industry. He served as assistant cashier and cashier of Roberts Cotton Oil Mill in Cairo, Ill. from 1929 until 1935. He has also served as secretary of Kennett Oil Mill, Inc., in Kennett,nd director of Mississippi Cottonseed Products Co. in Jackson, Miss.

DeField came to the Sikeston cotton Oil Mill in 1935 when it was built. During his 30 years here he acted as cashier, assistant manager, manager and secretary-treasurer.

He is a member of the First Christian Church in Sikeston.

DeField says he wants to relax, but has no special plans for retirement.

Disaster victims may not have to repay aid grants

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the first time, people who lost a car or a roof in a natural disaster may apply to the federal government for a grant of money they won't have to repay.

The weekend tornadoes and floods in the Midwest will provide a test of the Federal Disaster Relief Act of 1974, which went into effect last month.

Under it, a traveling salesmen could ask for up to $5,000 to replace his car and get him back on the road, or a family might seek a $2,500 minigrant to patch its roofs.

The $2,500 grants are available to individuals who need funds quickly for home repairs.

Some minigrants would be available within two weeks after an application is submitted, but three to four weeks would be needed in most cases, a spokesman said.

The grants generally are available only after a storm victim has applied for loan, but can be awarded in addition to the loan, she added.

Criteria for receiving the grants include a victim's financial status and the extent of damage.

This new program is one of a number of assistance programs available to individuals ranging up to $50,000 in Small Business Administration loans for major construction, she said.

"One-stop" centers are being set up throughout Minnesota, Missouri, Illinois, Oklahoma and portions of Kansas area that President Nixon declared disaster areas on Monday. The new act is being applied retroactively to all but Oklahoma.

These centers will permit the storm victim to apply for assistance without visiting various agencies throughout a city.

One program could be used to pay a family's rent for up to one year if it cannot find suitable replacement housing.

Drought, disease reduce winter wheat harvest

WASHINTONG (AP)— Drought and disease has reduced the nation's expected harvest of winter wheat, a crop which normally provides three-fourths of the nation's consumer bread grain.

The Agriculture Department said Monday that winter wheat prospects declined 5 per cent last month. As of June 1, production for 1974 was estimated at 1.53 billion bushels, the Crop Reporting Board said.

Although it would still be a record crop, the new estimate was down 81 million bushels from the government's forecast one month earlier. It means less wheat will be on tap for U.S. consumers and foreign customers than thought previously.

Officials said most of the decline during the month occurred in the southern Great Plains. Kansas, which normally produces the largest harvest, was estimated at 384.2 million bushels. That was down 22.6 million bushels, or 6 per cent from May's estimate.

The board said "lack of moisture and disease" contributed to the decline of the crop in Kansas and elsewhere.

Despite the drought since May, the new winter wheat estimate still could be a record, up 21 per cent from 1973 output as farmers—responding to higher prices—stepped up planting sharply. The crop, however, is sorely needed to replenish dwindling U.S. stockpiles, smallest in 27 years.

But Kansas wheat authorities say the state crop estimate by the USDA is still too high and that it is more likely to total around 300 million bushels.

Meanwhile, according to USDA, the reserve of old-crop wheat on July 1 will dip to 170 million bushels, the lowest level since 1947. Huge export demands have accounted for the shrinkage. Out of a then-record crop last year of 1.7 billion bushels, the most recent USDA figures show some 1.2 billion were exported.

Officials have projected, strictly on probability, that the spring wheat crop will yield 560 million bushels. But Monday's report indicated farmers on June 1 were far behind in spring planting, raising questions that spring wheat output will reach the projected mark.

If it does, total wheat production this year still could be more than 2 billion bushels and supply more than enough for domestic use and expected exports in the year beginning July 1.

"I still think it is too high," said Creel Brock, administrator of the Kansas Wheat Commission, in a telephone interview. "We're going to stick with the 300 million bushels yet for a while."

Tom Ostrander of Wellington, Kan., president of the Kansas Association of Wheat Growers, said the new estimate is "a lot better than they came out with before, but we still think they're too high. I hope they're right, but I just can't see that much wheat in Kansas this year."

Ostrander pointed out that harvesting has started in southern Kansas and farmers who thought they would get 35 bushels per acre are getting 25.

Growers and congressmen from wheat states have protested that the USDA's estimates have driven down the price of the grain unrealistically.

Starting with the Soviet Union's big purchases two years ago, wheat prices rose from $1.30 a bushel to a record high of $5.3 2 last February.

Then optimistic reports of the new crop and predictions of declining exports were followed by a sharp slide in price.

The USDA said the average price on the farm May 15 was $3.52 a bushel, a plunge of nearly 40 per cent in only three months.

An aide to RPE. Keith Sebelius, R-Kan., whose district is the major wheat producer in the state, said Monday "all these predictions have done so far is beat down the price to our farmers."

Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., said "It just isn't the kind of crop we had last year."

The indicated production and average yields for 1974 for other states included:

Arkansas 12,800,000 bushels and 32 bushels per acre; Missouri 44,400,000 and 37; Nebraska 108,300,000 and 38; Oklahoma 147,500,000 and 25.

Calley's freedom is controversy

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A federal appeals court hears arguments today on whether the continued freedom of former Army Lt. William L. Calley could have "an extraordinarily disruptive effect on the military," as government lawyers contend.

But first the panel of three judges on the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals may face a challenge on the propriety of two of them sitting in judgment on the case.

Kenneth Henson, a lawyer for Calley, told newsmen in Columbus, Ga., Tuesday he objected to the assignment of Judges Thomas Gibbs Gee and Elbert Tuttle, whom Henson said are respectively a retired Army brigadier general and a graduate of the U.S. Military Academy and a veteran of the Army Air Corps and the U.S. Air Force.

If Henson decides to raise the issue formally in today's court proceedings, Gee and Tuttle will have to consider whether to excuse themselves from hearing the case.

The third judge assigned is John Minor Wisdom.

Calley was convicted of murdering at least 22 Vietnamese villagers at My Lai and was sentenced to life in prison. That sentence later was reduced to 10 years. He was under house arrest for nearly three years at Ft. Benning, Ga.

Last February, he appealed his court-martial conviction on grounds he was not afforded a fair trial. U.S. District Judge J. Robert Elliott ordered Calley's release on $1,000 personal recognizance bond, pending a decision on the merits of his constitutional complaint.

In 1835, Sen. John C. Calhoun declared: "The very essence of a free government consists in considering offices as public trusts, bestowed for the good of the country, and not for the benefit of an individual or a party," The World Almanac recalls. President Grover Cleveland in his 1885 inaugural address exclaimed: "Your every voter, as surely as your chief magistrate, exercises a public trust."

Deaths

CLETUS E. UMFLEET

BLACK HAWK, Colo. — Cletus E. Umfleet Jr., 16, of St. Louis, Mo. died Monday in Black Hawk.

He was born Oct. 8, 1957 at St. Louis and was a member of Tower Grove General Baptist Church.

Survivors include his father, Cletus E. Umfleet Sr. of St. Louis; one brother, Bryan Umfleet of St. Louis; one half brother, Robert Wilfong of St. Louis; three half sisters, Mary Ventimaglia, Wanda Hagan and Debbie Verling off St. Louis; one stepsister, Pamela Fisher of St. Louis; and his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Umfleet of Advance, Mo.

Services are scheduled at 2 p.m. Thursday at Morgan Funeral Home in Advance. The Rev. Frank Heitman of Dexter, Mo. will officiate.

Burial will be in Morgan Memorial Park Cemetery.

Pallbearers will be Russell, Gary, Donald and Mark Delay and Chester and Lester McCulley.

MICHELLE RAE BRINKER

ORAN — Michelle Rae Brinker, one-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Millard Brinker, died at 10 a.m. Tuesday at Cardinal Glennon Hospital at St. Louis.

She was born May 8, 1974 in Advance.

Other than parents surviving are one sister, Laura Marie Brinker of the home; paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Brinkerof Oran; maternal grandmother, Mrs. Martha Sheeley of Chaffee; and maternal great-grandmother, Mrs. Anna Arnold of Chaffee.

Services were conducted at 2 p.m. today at Amick-Burnett Funeral Chapel in Oran. The Rev. James J. Holmes, pastor of St. Ambrose Catholic Church of Chaffee, officiated.

Burial was in Guardian Angel Catholic Church Cemetery at Oran.

KATIE LEE MCCAULEY

Survivors of Katie Lee McCauley, 51, who died Friday include a son, Sam Grayson of East St. Louis, Ill., whose name was omitted in Tuesday's edition of The Daily Standard.

Clarence Grayson, another surviving son, is of Pittsburg, Kan., rather than East St. Louis as reported.

AARON DANE HURLEY

Pallbearers at services today for Aaron Dane Hurley, eight-month- old son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Hurley, formerly of Sikeston who died Sunday, were John Park, Thelbert Curry, Ronnie Orr and Norman Hurley.

THOMAS STOREY

PERKINS — Thomas Storey, 69, died about 1 a.m. Tuesday at his home.

He was born Sept. 16, 1904 in Polk County, Ill., to the late Joseph M. and Kate Storey.

He was employed by the Manufacturers Railway Co. of St. Louis for 20 years before retiring Sept. 16, 1969 and moving to Perkins Oct. 1 of the same year. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church of St. Louis.

On Sept. 14, 1962 he married Helen Lucille Thompson, who survives.

Also surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Shirley Arnold of Anchorage, Alaska; one brother, Bertis Storey of East St. Louis, Ill.; one sister, Mrs. Lida Hogg of Perkins; and three grandchildren.

Friends may call at Amick-Burnett Funeral Home in Chaffee where services are scheduled at 2 p.m. Thursday. The Rev. W. S. Bailey of Perkins will officiate.

Burial will be in Williams Cemetery at Perkins.

PRIVACY

IN THE SECLUSION of our family rooms we have often witnessed a remarkable phenomenon — the revival of family bonds amid the chaos created by grief. And here, too, the members of the family may obtain a few moments of precious privacy before facing the difficult social burdens which are a part of the trials of bereavement. For these reasons, our family rooms are designed for tasteful comfort and are so situated to prevent accidental intrusions.

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat and soybean futures prices were firm to strong on the Chicago Board of Trade today, but corn and oats were irregular.

On the opening, Chicago wheat futures were 2 to 4 cents a bushel higher, July 3.84; Gulf hard red wheat was not traded early; soybeans were 1/2 to 2 higher, July 5.35; corn was unchanged to 2 lower, July 2.76 and oats were 1/2 lower to 3/4 higher, July 1.39 1/4.

World News in Brief

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressman says he has seen proof that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, despite his sworn denial, ordered national security wiretaps. Rep. Joshua Eilberg, D-Pa., a member of the House Judiciary Committee, said: "Materials have been supplied to us which constitute positive proof that Kissinger did institute those taps." The Senate Foreign Relations Committee decided earlier to take another look at Kissinger's testimony concerning wiretaps last September during his confirmation hearings. Kissinger, at a news conference in Salzburg, Austria, threatened to resign if controversy over his role in the wiretapping is not cleared up.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge says he will issue an order designed to force President Nixon to permit John D. Ehrlichman full access to White House files for his defense in the plumbers case. U.S. District Judge Gerhard Gesell has said he is willing to move under federal contempt statutes. He delayed Ehrlichman's trial in the case while going ahead with the prosecution of three others still accused in the 1971 break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the second straight year, Congress has voted to build additional multimillion-dollar war planes the Pentagon did not request. Ironically, the plane is the F111, which was the target for nearly 10 years of some of the most severe congressicnal attacks ever made against a military aircraft. Opponents used to say it was too costly and technically unsound.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amid charges that the White House was playing impeachment politics, the House has refused to take up land use planning legislation. The bill apparently has been killed for the session. Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., sponsor of one land use bill, said the vote "shows the shabby hypocrisy of the White House...."

CAIRO (AP) — Hundreds of thousands of Egyptians gave President Nixon a wildly enthusiastic welcome on his arrival here today to start a tour of the Middle East.

He is the first American president to visit the country since Franklin D. Roosevelt came in 1943 for wartime conferences.

Nixon arrived from Austria in 90-degree heat at the Cairo airport and was greeted warmly there by President Anwar Sadat, his host for the next two days.

The two presidents then went by motorcade to the city, standing side by side in Sadat's open limousine.

The motorcade passed large crowds lining the roads chanting, "Nixon! Nixon! Sadat! Sadat!"

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler told newsmen later that Egyptian security officials estimated the crowd at at least two million.

However, U.S. officials said the figure was in the hundreds of thousands in their estimation.

After a drive or nearly an hour, Nixon and Sadat arrived at the Kubbah Palace where the U.S. chief executive will stay.

In a brief ceremony the two presidents exchanged remarks. Sadat called Nixon one of the great men and praised his leadership in the world.

As if to give Nixon support in the face of his domestic troubles, Sadat spoke of the necessity for the American president to continue in a leadership role.

Nixon responded by pledging U.S. support for Egypt's economic programs.

Nixon left the plane that brought him from Salzburg, Austria, with his wife, Pat, and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger. They were met by Sadat and his wife.

Governor signs bill lowering majority age

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A bill lowering the age of majority in Missouri from 21 to 18—except to buy and drink liquor—was signed into law today by Gov. Christopher S. Bond.

"I believe 18, 19 and 20-year -olds have to accept greater responsiblities," the governor said.

Bond also signed 10 other bills, including those outlawing pryamid sales schemes, requiring prior notification of property owners' responsibility under the mechanics lein law, expanding state anti-trust laws and providing insurance coverage benefits to new born children.

This leaves 36 bills to be acted on this month.

The pryamid sales act makes it a felony to sell or distribute goods or services, or even make such an offer, through a pyramid sales scheme. It also requires prior notification of cancellation of a franchise unless criminal or financial misconduct is the grounds for cancellation.

Babies will be covered under all individual or group health insurance policies from the moment of birth under another measure signed by Bond with the provision that any additional premiums for such coverage be paid within 31 days after the date of birth.

The medical techniques needed to help prematurely born babies survive are expensive, the governor pointed out, and this bill will insure parents the financial assistance needed to meet such expenses.

The bill to revise the state's antitrust law places enforcement of the act with the attorney general, revises penalties for antitrust violations and provides for witness immunity during both investigations and prosecutions.

This is important to insure business practices are kept competitive," Bond said, adding that the need for revision of the law was seen for some time.

Under the Senate committee substitute for a House-introduced measure concerning the mechanics lein law, property owners must be advised in writing by a contractor that they will be responsible to pay persons supplying materials for the work if the contractor fails to do so.

'Brothel on wheels' search still going on

STEELE — Authorities Tuesday continued efforts to locate a "brothel on wheels" said to have operated for several days at rest areas along Interstate 55 in Southeast Missouri and Northeast Arkansas.

"They've apparently been concentrating on truckers, from the information that's available ... there have been quite a few reports," a Missouri state patrol spokesman said.

Authorities in both states are uncertain whether two reported "carloads" of prostitutes — one vehicle bearing Ohio license plates and the other Tennessee — are operating in unison.

"Altogether, I think we're probably talking about five ladies of the night," a Pemiscot County sheriff's deputy said.

Deputies said they had the description of a car in which two women and three men drove away from a rest area near Holland Tuesday afternoon after a caretaker at the rest area said the women solicited truck drivers.

"They were going from truck to truck and stayed awhile at several of them," he said.

up the entire law to amendments. You have to accept it the way it is."

Kirkpatrick said he supports the petition process but "not in this case."

The petition bill, he said, still would allow subterfuge in that members of corporations and labor unions can form voluntary organizations and contribute to candidates. Or they could contribute individually.

"So the president of a corporation gets a bonus and he gives it to a candidate but the public won't know the company is financing a candidate. It's not going to make dishonest people honest."

Kirkpatrick favors allowing corporations and labor unions to contribute with the contributions being made public.

"Let's not treat them (labor organizations and corporations) as second class citizens," he says.

Some of the reporting provisions on the local level are too stringent, Kirkpatrick says.

"If I were a candidate for the local school board, I would have to report givts to my family if the total were over $100," he says. "Lawyers will have to disclose any retainers of over $500 a year in a provision on economic interest."

Another provision Kirkpatrick opposes would require candidates to report any interest of over $1,000 they hold in any business.

Leible makes All-State unit

Sikeston High School's senior catcher John Leible leads a parade of six Southeast Missouri athletes named to the 1974 2A All-State baseball team named today by the Missouri Sportswriters and Sportscasters Associating.

Leible, who was trailed by a host of major league and college scouts during the past season, was passed over in the recent free agent draft because of his announced intent to attend University of Missouri - Columbia.

"He was a very coachable athlete," his coach, N. P. McDaniel, commented. "He'll be hard to replace."

Leible, probably even more skilled in the classroom than on the field, was a silent leader for the Sikeston team in the recent 18-4 Bulldog season. He was named All-District three years in a row and was generally conceded to be one of the best, if not the best, athletes in the whole district.

"Scouts look at the arm first," coach Mac said And Leible has a fine one, throwing out 22 of 37 prospective base stealers in his three years. At the same time, he senior was a very fleet runner, swiping 22 bases in 22 tries. Recording times between 3.5 and 3.9 seconds for 30 yards, Leible's speed was probably his top asset.

Least mentioned of his talents was the batting talent possessed by the gifted receiver. But, at the same time, he was generally conceded to be the offensive leader for Sikeston. Hitting .390 as a sophomore, Leible added seasons of .424 and .406 in his last two years.

During his three years, Sikeston compiled a record of 35 wins and nine losses.

The five SeMo athletes joining Leible on the All-State included two 1A repeaters from the Kelly Hawks of Benton. Fireballing Jeff Jackson was named for the second straight year after hitting .450 and winning nine of 12 pitching decisions. Also listed among the repeaters was Jackson's teammate, second baseman Kenny Urhahn, a .386 hitter.

Urhahn, who also logged time at shortstop and at pitcher, batted leadoff for the very successful Kelly squad. Jackson, like Leible, was also recently named All-District for the third year in a row.

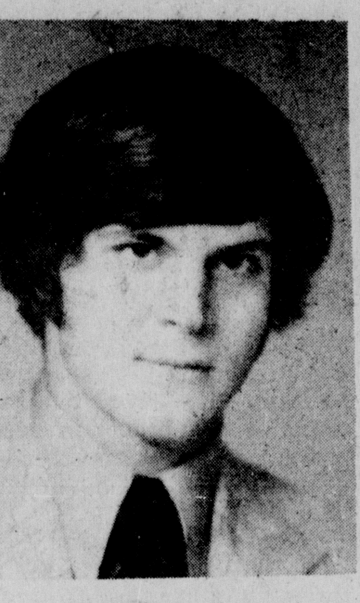
Third baseman Don Young of Poplar Bluff was one of only three underclassmen to be named to the All-State team. The junior third sacker for the Mules compiled a .370 batting mark from the southpaw side of the plate and earned the golden glove, commemorative of the top fielder on the PBHS team.

The final two honorees from the SeMo district were anything but the least impressive. Louie Lucas, one of the district's finest atheltes, was named All-State at thirdbase in Class 1A. After averaging more than 30 points per game and receiving All-State basketball honors, the 6-foot, 170-pounder really turned it on in baseball with a .652 batting average and 26 RBIs in a dozen games. Eighteen of Lucas' 30 hits were for extra bases.

And, Richard Ramsey was generally agreed to be the Parma ball team. Playing for a team that won just once in nine starts, Ramsey hit .580, driving in 19 of Parma's 22 runs on the year.

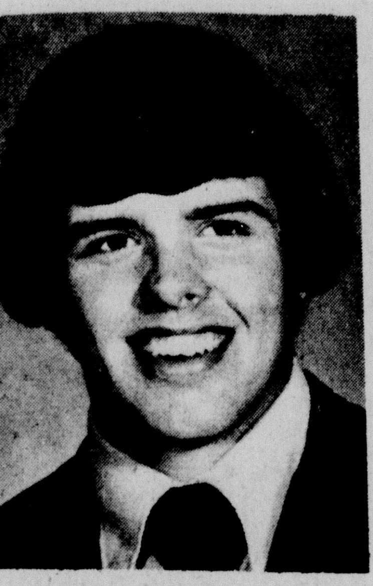
Sikeston's Rick Eisenbach earned the shortshop berth on the 2A second team.

The only other area players to receive All-State recognition in Class 2A competition were first baseman Jim Saulter pitcher Kenny Stokes and outfielder Mitch Walker of Sikeston's district championship team.



John Leible

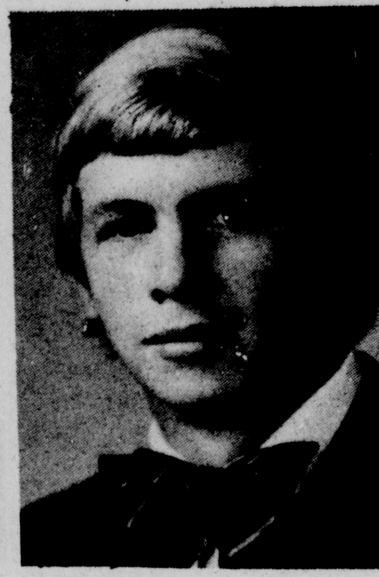
Jeff Jackson



Richard Ramsey

Louie Lucas

Rick Eisenbach



Mitch Walker

pitcher Trae Hasting of Cape Girardeua Central and outfielder Tuttie Hayes of Poplar Bluff, who received honorable mention.

In Class 1A, North Pemiscot's first baseman Rand Jackson and outfielder Jerry Stewart won positions on the second team to give Southeast Missouri schools a total of 14 players receiving All-State recognition.

Security National, Kiwanis cop wins

Rodgers pitched a one-hit shutout at Legion as Security National Bank rolled up an 11-0 win, and Kiwanis trounced A&B 8-2 in National League battles Tuesday night.

Security National collected its 11 runs on only one hit, a double by Rodgers, while a two-base hit by Legion's Tope proved to no avail. Tope also took the mound loss.

Campbell and Meredith led Kiwanis Club's four-hit attack by slugging a home run apiece in the first game. Hampton and Brashears had the only hits for A&B as Campbell outpitched Brashears for the win.

Nunnelee, Fabick capture AL wins

Nunnelee walloped Righter 23-0 in a no-hit shutout and Fabick downed Ziegenhorn 14-11 in American League contests Tuesday night.

Beasly turned in the mound gem and also led Nunnelee's hitting attack with four hits, including a double, scored four runs. Jenkins and K. Howard also cracked doubles for Nunnelee, with Howard racking up three and Howard two more of the runs. Sadler was tagged with Righter's loss.

Watkins cracked a triple and a double to lead Fabick's attack. Garner and Cecil also managed doubles for Fabick as Carnell lost to Watkins in the pitching department. Evans and Drake got the only hits for Ziegenhorn.

AN EARLY OPENING

ELMONT, N.Y. (AP) — The New York racing season for thoroughbreds opened at Aqueduct on Monday, Feb. 25, and many horses saddled by trainer Allen Jerkins were ready for the early season. Jerkins stabled thoroughbreds owned by Jack Dreyfus at Belmont Park during the winter.

Optimist, SNB post victories

Security National Bank edged Leible Implement in a 4-1 pitchers' duel and Optimist outlasted Elks in a 14-13 offensive battle in Senior Babe Ruth League action Tuesday night at VFW Stadium.

Two-hit pitching by Blankenship gave Security National the edge in his duel with Cobb, who permitted four hits in his perforance for Leible.

Two hits by Duncan paced the winners, with Hewitt and Hamra adding a hit apiece. Newton and Colwick collected Leible's only safe blows.

A leadoff home run by Self in the first inning got the Elks off to a booming start in the other game, but three hits and four runs by Miller sparked Optimist to the one-run victory. Self, who had another hit, and Lasters led Elks with two hits each. Eisenbach also had two hits for Optimist, and Lewis scored three runs.

Rodino refuses brief in impeachment defense

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House lawyer James St. Clair has been rebuffed by Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr. in an effort for an early start in presenting President Nixon's impeachment defense to the House Judiciary Committee.

Rodino, D-N.J., told St. Clair it was "entirely inappropriate" for him to offer a 10,000-word defense brief before the committee has received all the evidence in its impeachment inquiry.

St. Clair brought the brief to the hearing Tuesday, intending to give each member a copy. But Rodino refused to accept it. He cited a committee rule that states St. Clair will be invited to respond when all evidence has been presented.

St. Clair would not discuss the incident, but Rodino told newsmen Nixon's lawyer also presented a letter saying he thought it would be helpful for members to get the White House view of the evidence as they go along.

Rodino said individual members could ask St. Clair for his brief but that it would not be accepted formally before the evidentiary hearings are completed, expected to be next Thursday.

St. Clair has been allowed to attend the closed door hearings as an observer, but not to participate.

Committee chief counsel John Doar defended Rodino's ruling and said there is a public misconception about the way the impeachment inquiry is being conducted. He and chief minority cousel Albert Jenner are presenting factual information bearing on presidential conduct without comment or without drawing conclusions, Doar said at a news briefing.

The evidence presented Tuesday dealt with the White House plumbers' break-in of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist's office and the political dirty tricks campaign carried out in 1972. Members received a legal brief on presidential impoundment of funds, another area in the inquiry.

Due today is a brief on the law involved in Nixon's ordering of the secret bombing of Cambodia. The committee also will receive further evidence on the plumbers, and on alleged use of the Internal Revenue Service to harass administration enemies.

Hostages to stand trial

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Ethiopian guerrillas holding six North Americans captive are planning to put two Americans and a Canadian on trial, informed sources in Addis Ababa said by telephone today.

The three, all prospectors for the Tenneco Oil Co. of Houston, Tex., will be charged by the Eritrean Liberation Front with "exploiting the natural resources" of Eritrea, Ethiopia's northernmost province, the sources said.

They are Powers William Cayce, 36, a geologist from Plainview, Tex.; John W. Rogers of New York, on loan to Tenneco from Texaco, and Cliff James, 27, a geologist from Walkerton, Ont., sources said.

The guerrillas' plans for the other three captives are not known. They are Deborah Dortzbach, 24, a pregnant nurse from Freehold, N.J.; Donald Werdefort, 27, a pilot from Calgary, Alta., and Motta Pauela, 52, an American geochemist with the United Nations Development Program.

The five men were captured March 26 when their helicopter crashed in a sandstorm. A second helicopter was sent for them after negotiations between Tenneco and the guerrillas indicated they would be freed. But the guerrillas seized that helicopter and used it to kidnap Mrs. Dortzbach from a mission hospital in the heart of ELF country to treat wounded guerrillas.

Tourists view historic sites

Tourists at historic Arrow Rock take a free walking tour to the Old Saline County Court House, one of nine places to visit on the tour. The walking tours are consponsored by the Missouri State Park Board and the Friends of Arrow Rock. They are given three times daily, seven days a week at 10 a.m., 1 p.m. and 3 p.m. This is the ninth consecutive year for the tours.

Arrow Rock tours planned

JEFFERSON CITY -- Free walking tours of historic Arrow Rock are being conducted again this year by the Missouri State Park Board and Friends of Arrow Rock, James L. Wilson, state parks director, said recently.

The historic community overlooking the Missouri River is the point where the Santa Fe Trail began, and once was the home of the famous Missouri artist, George Caleb Bingham. The town is being restored to the period 1830-1850.

The one-hour walking tours begin at the Dr. Mathew Hall House. They include guided walks through the Hall House, the George Caleb Bingham House, Old Saline County Court House, the Odd Fellows Hall with its exhibition of early printing presses, and the Sites' Gun Shop and residence.

Other points of interest along the tour are the old jail, the Dr. Price home, the Dr. Bradford home, and the Old Seminary Building. Visitors also may tour the Arrow Rock Tavern for a small fee.

Wilson said the tours are given three times daily, seven days a week, at 10 a.m., 1 p.m. and 3 p.m.

They have been conducted for the past nine years and attract more than 8,000 visitors each year, he said.

In addition to the, various historic buildings in Arrow Rock, there are also picnicking and camping facilities available at the Arrow Rock State Historic Site.

Survey to be conducted in Stoddard Co.

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — Interviewers from the Survey Research Center of The University of Michigan will begin contacting families in Stoddard County this week in connection with a national study of general political attitudes and opinions held by citizens in this area and in 73 other area scattered throughout the United States.

Interviewers will contact residents at about 2,700 addresses chosen scientifically to provide an accurate cross section of the American people. This study is part of an international data collection and comparable studies have been completed in Great Britain. The Netherlands, Germany and Austria during the past year.

Survey Research Center interviewers will also be conducting interviews with other families in this area on attitudes toward and patterns of charitable giving.

The results of both studies will be analyzed and published in statistical form. Findings are never identified with any person or address.

The Survey Research Center is a part of the University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research. The Center maintains a staff of professionally trained interviewers in local areas to conduct the interviews in several national surveys each year. Interviewers in this area will be Pauline Dalton and Geneva Eakin.

Fire destroys mobile home

DEXTER — A house trailer rented by Mr. and Mrs. Roger Patterson was totally destroyed by flames Monday afternoon in the west end of Gaslight Village, a trailer park just north of Dexter's city limits.

The trailer, owned by park manager Clyde Vaughn, had been rented by the Patterson's for the past six months.

The cause of the blaze has not yet been determined, Fire Chief Al Banken stated. Banken reported that the blaze was "totally involved" when firemen arrived. "It was way beyond control," he added. "All we could do was watch it burn and protect nearby trailers from the heat and flames."

The fire was controlled after several hours, however nothing remained but the frame.

Sisco waives hearing; bound over to Circuit

NEW MADRID — Charles Michael Sisco of Sikeston re-appeared Tuesday in Magistrate Court and waived a preliminary hearing on a charge of tampering with a motor vehicle. He was bound over to Circuit Court under $500 bond.

Sisco was accused of removing a tire and rim from a truck owned by Ford Motor Co. in Sikeston.

Roy A. Boyd of New Madrid was arraigned Monday on two charges of exhibiting a dangerous weapon. He was released under $500 bond on each charge, pending a preliminary hearing which will be set at a later date.

Boyd is accused of exhibiting a pistol in a threatening manner towards Johnnie Jones on Saturday and also displaying a pistol in a threatening manner in the presence of Robert Wayne Dees.

Benny Woodrow Hendon Jr. pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated. He was fined $125, given six- months suspended jail sentence and placed on probation for one year.

Joe Carter paid a $35 fine on a charge of operating a motor vehicle without a copy of Missouri special fuel user's permit.

Ama Lee Morgan, Robert Lee Akins and Jimmy Dale Hunt were each fined $20 on charges of no operator license.

The same amount of fine was levied against Benjamin Leon Taylor and James Walter Bell, each charged with operating a motor vehicle with out-of-state operator's license while a Missouri resident; and Charles Haywood Tuggle, charged with following too closely.

Fines imposed on speeding charges were against Argel Virdane Morrow, $50; Vernon John Hartman, Paul Edward Hill and John Henry Hatfield, $32 each; Rudy Claude Dodd, $30; Nathan Jay Davis and Larry Dean Smith, $28 each; Larry Gene Hill and H. S. Session, $25 each; and William Hurley Miller, $20.

New member welcome

Rotary Club President Jim Woods, left congratulates David C. Keenan, Monday night on becoming a new member of the Sikeston Rotary Club. John Garrett, right, area agonomist, presented the program. Keenan is employed with Noranda Aluminum Inc. of New Madrid as the general sales manager.

Agronomist discusses crops with Rotarians

John Garrett, area agronomist with the University of Missouri Extension Service, discussed major crops of the area with Rotarians Monday night at the Ramada Inn.

Garrett cited the wheat crop as a possible short yield-per-acre crop this year. He told Rotarians he expected the yield to drop from the 35 to 40 bushels per acre harvested to 30 to 32 bushels per acre.

Garrett said the present cotton price is 44 cents per pound, which is just a break-even price and leaves the farmer no profit for his work.

The soybean price is now $5.10 to $5.40 per bushel, Garrett said. He added that two years ago this would have been a good price, but today with the high cost of production, it is doubtful the farmer will see much profit at the $5 price.

The brightest picture in the future for farmers is corn, Garrett said. He added that the price of corn is about $2.60 per bushel and with an average yield of 125 to 150 bushels per acre the farmer can make a profit this year.

3 officers take 40-hour course

Police Chief Leon Culp today announced that three Sikeston police officers attended the Computer Terminal School June 3 to 7 at the State Highway Patrol Law Enforcement Academy in Jefferson City.

The three officers were John Martin, Tommy Green and John Swinney.

The 40-hour course consisted of training in advanced computer terminal operations, entry and inquiry.

Steel price hike announced

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — U.S. Steel Corp. has announced price increases on a variety of products used in the auto and heavy construction industries.

The nation's largest steelmaker said Tuesday the increases, effective immediately, involve bars, semifinished products, rod, wire and plates.

A company spokesman said the increases move prices "toward the higher levels being charged by other producers." He said the new prices are no more than those of competitors.

Although the size of the increases was not announced, the company said the boosts would result in an increase of less than 3 per cent in overall revenue.

Last year, the company reported total sales of more than $7 billion. The products affected by the price hikes account for about 25 per cent of the giant steelmaker's product line.

U.S. Steel had joined other producers in raising prices after federal wage-price controls were ended in April. The Cost of Living Council had allowed the industry price increases totaling 9.2 per cent during the last phase of controls.

The company spokesman said those increases "were cost-justified under Phase Four.

He said that even with the latest increases U.S. Steel has not fully recovered cost increases incurred while wage-price controls were in effect.

DR LAWRENCE E. LAMB

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Our daughter married a young man who had the mumps go down into his testicles as a young boy. What are the chances of him being sterile? They want a family and so far no conception has taken place. If you feel they have a problem, what steps should they take?

I do not like to see our daughter needlessly upset, but I do not know how to advise them.

DEAR READER — There is no way to tell what the problem is that prevents a couple from having a baby without a careful examination. It can be because of the woman or because of the man. The mistake that is usually made is examining the woman only.

It is true that this complication of mumps can cause a man to be sterile, without affecting his sex drive or capacity. Despite such a complication, many men are fertile.

Some couples have fertility problems because of their habits. Lubricants, for example, may kill live sperm cells and decrease the likelihood of pregnancy.

Your daughter should go see her doctor for an examination. He may want her to go to the obstetrician, and he, in turn, may wish to examine both of them or arrange for your son-in-law to have an examination. Many people with this problem can be helped.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have read dozens of articles on bust development. How about us girls who would like to reduce our busts? I'm a 40C and, frankly, find it very uncomfortable. If it helps, I'm 20, five feet eight, and 144 pounds.

I need to lose about 10 pounds which would help some, but not as much as I would like. Corrective surgery is not possible because my doctor says my bust is not so overly large to require it. Are there any kinds of exercises that would really help reduce the bust? Please help — you are my last resort.

DEAR READER — There are situations where large breasts really need surgical reduction. In some of these instances special medicine is then needed to prevent them from regaining their former size. Most doctors feel as your doctor does, that such operations should be reserved for women who have exaggerated enlargement of the breasts.

Women do complain when their breasts are too large. The weight alone is uncomfortable and in extreme instances can cause support straps to irritate the skin.

The only exercises of use in reducing moderately enlarged breasts are those that help you lose weight. That means endurance exercises such as running, walking, tennis and other competitive sports.

For additional information on losing weight you may want to get the booklet I have prepared for readers on this subject. Send 50 cents to "Losing Weight," in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

You are right, your breasts will decrease in size if you can lose some weight. The fat in the breasts decreases with general body fat loss. If you eliminate 15 pounds it would make quite a difference. Also birth control pills often cause a woman to retain water and will cause some breast enlargement, just in case you are using them.

Dr. Lamb welcomes questions from his readers, but because of the volume of mail he cannot answer personally. Questions of general interest will be discussed in future columns. Write to Dr. Lamb in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

The case of the unsophisticated couple

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Ralph and Anita found that the marital ritual was easier said than done. After a short time, they got a divorce.

Thereafter, however, they discovered their errant ways and went to see a Catholic priest about getting married again.

When he told them that "in the eyes of God" they were still married, they simply set up housekeeping again and, being unsophisticated in such matters, proceeded to live together as husband and wife as if there had been no interruption.

Eighteen years later, Ralph had the ill- fortune of dying as the result of a work- connected injury. When Anita applied for a Workmen's Compensation award, however, she was turned down cold.

"Sorry," she was told, "but since you and Ralph never remarried after your divorce, you're not his widow and you're not entitled to any benffits."

"Of course I'm his widow," responded anita with appropriate indignation. "And, I didn't have to remarry him. The priest said we were still married and that was good enough for me. Besides, we had six kids. With six kids, we were as married as we could be."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you grant unsophisticated Anita a Workmen's Compensation award?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that the Workmen's Compensation laws provide a substitute for the financial support that a working man provided for his dependants during his lifetime.

In this case, concluded the judge, Ralph and Anita lived together for 18 years as husband and wife and, for all intents and purposes they were husband and wife, so she was entitled to the award claimed.

Woman loses home because of failure to pay $59 in taxes

CHICAGO (AP) — The state of Illinois has joined a suburban woman who has been fighting for two years against losing her $25,000 house because she failed to pay $59.81 in taxes and penalties.

The Evanston home of Mrs. Lillian Ware, a 59-year-old practical nurse with a history of heart trouble, was bought by two Chicago real estate brokers who specialize in the purchase of tax delinquent property.

"My life savings are in that home," Mrs. Ware said. "It is paid for completely. I have put so much into it."

Mrs. Ware appeared to run out of luck last week when the Illinois Supreme Court refused to review an Appellate Court decision upholding the purchase.

But Tuesday, Gov. Daniel Walker said he was joining up with Mrs. Ware. Walker contends that Allan Blair and David R. Gray bought Mrs. Ware's home on a tax delinquency technicality, but that they did it through a corporate front which does not have a real estate license. This, "we believe, is a violation of the law," Walker said.

He said the alleged violation would invalidate the purchase of the home and that he will ask the courts to so rule. He said it also established grounds for revoking the individual brokers licenses of Blair and Gray.

The tax delinquency dates to a period in 1968 when Mrs. Ware was convalescing from a heart ailment.

Frankly speaking

Data bank may invade privacy

By THOMAS EAGLETON
U.S. Senator - Missouri

The General Services Administration has announced it will spend about $50 million this year to purchase the first computers in what will eventually become a fullblown national data bank. Their justification for this is greater efficiency in government.

Ultimately, the GSA hopes to link up every major federal agency to a central computer which will store all agency records. Presumably, this could include sensitive data on individuals from FBI files, Internal Revenue Service accounts, and Department of Defense records.

While GSA denies the system will be used in that way, it concedes it central computer system (dubbed FEDNET for Federal Network) would have the capability of retrieving at the push of a single button all the information on given individuals or groups which is today contained in scattered federal records.

Secret Codes

GSA Administrator Arthur Sampson argues that the use of the system to collect government- wide information on individuals would be prevented by assigning each agency using the computer a secret code.

Computer experts, however, say codes provide minimal security at best and can be easily broken by an outsider. Moreover, the proposed FEDNET would be administered by a special computer division under one administrator who would have access to all codes.

The potentials for abusing individual privacy through such a system are enormous. We didn't need Watergate to alert us to the dangers involved in the collection and dissemination of personal data by federal agencies.

Over a period of ten years, Senator Sam Ervin's Subcommittee on Constitutional Rights has put together a veritable catalogue of such abuses including Army surveillance files, passport lookout lists, and Small Business Administration character investigation records.

Ironically, the first department which GSA proposes to link into the system is the Department of Agriculture. That is the department which last year sought access to tax records of individaul farmers on grounds that data could be collected more efficiently in that manner. Only strong opposition from Congress prevented the income tax survey from taking place.

Opposition Lines Up

There is also a question whether FEDNET would result in significant economies in the use of federal computer equipment. The Office of Management and Budget, for example, has publicly opposed the GSA plan and has suggested there are many better alternatives.

Opposition has come, too, from Vice President Gerald Ford, who is currently heading an executive branch study on the threat to individual privacy by government data systems.

I strongly oppose the GSA plan and as a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee I intend to offer an amendment to block implementation of the proposal. Even if it could be shown that such a system would result in savings, I believe the more important consideration is the cost to the rights of the individual.

Store short on pennies; gives candy instead

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Kevin McAuley went to a Greensboro department store and bought $3.72 worth of merchandise.

The clerk gave him change from four dollars—a quarter and three penny pieces of peppermint candy.

It seems the store was short of pennies.

Later Sunday, McAuley's wife and her mother, Mrs. Blanche Simon of Greensboro, decided to find out if the candy was really worth a penny. They went back to the store and made an 80-cent purchase, 84 cents with tax.

They gave the cashier 82 cents in coins and two pieces of peppermint candy.

The cashier didn't know what to do and asked the manager about it. The store had been giving candy in lieu of pennies, but not accepting

Washington report

Economy deserves attention

By STUART SYMINGTON
U.S. Senator—Missouri

WASHINGTON, D. C. — For some time we have expressed the belief that the economic strength of the United States is a vital part of our true national security. In that regard greater attention should be devoted to the problems affecting our economy and the value of the dollar here at home and less to the financial problems of other countries.

For these reasons I opposed the further authorization of $1.5 billion over 3 years for the International Development Association -- the so-called "soft-loan window" of the World Bank. The Senate, however, has approved this funding authority.

IDA was created to permit the more developed countries of the world to provide low-interest, long- term loans to assist emerging nations in the consturction of projects to further their economic growth. It is apparent however, that the goals of IDA have not been fulfilled.

The United States has been called upon to provide the largest share of loan money to IDA. Only a very small number of developing countries have shared the bulk of IDA loans.

It is increasingly clear that our government has come to treat IDA loans more as gifts, because of the little assurance that this money will be repaid when due in 50 years.

In instances, some governments have taken these IDA "credits" and loaned that same money to their own citizens at high interest rates.

As the Chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, Arthur Burns, has so ably pointed out from any standard of fiscal or monetary consideration, the United States is going bankrupt.

We have continuing problems in the fields of both trade and our overall balance of payments. In addition, this year we will have another budget deficit running in excess of $15 billion.

Under such circumstances, it is important to heed the warnings from the Federal Reserve Chairman, from housewives, from people who operate farms, and businesses and put an end to expenditures which only further damage the strength of our economy.

SOLAR HEATING FOR HOMES -- Because the current and anticipated needs for energy are rising, the Senate has directed a firm commitment to the development of solar energy under the Solar Heating and Cooling Demonstration Act of 1974 whch passed theSenate May 21.

This bill would allow federal agencies to fund projects that could demonstrate the use of solar heating and cooling in specially designed homes.

These homes will be located in different geographical areas to achieve fair test results and will be constructed to specifications intended to make efficient use of the solar heating and cooling systems. The bill, if finally passed by the Congress, would direct the houses to be sold to and operated by individuals and families who would monitor the house's energy producing performance over a 5- year period.

NEIL TISE RECEIVES AWARD — Last month, in a ceremony here in Washington, Neil Tise with the Farmers Home Administration in Columbia, Missouri received a Superior Service Award from the Secretary of Agriculture The award to Mr. Tise, a native of Pleasant Hope, Missouri, and a life- long resident of our State, was in recognition of his work in the area of rural community development.

We are indeed pleased that Neil Tise was honored for his good work for so many rural Missourians.

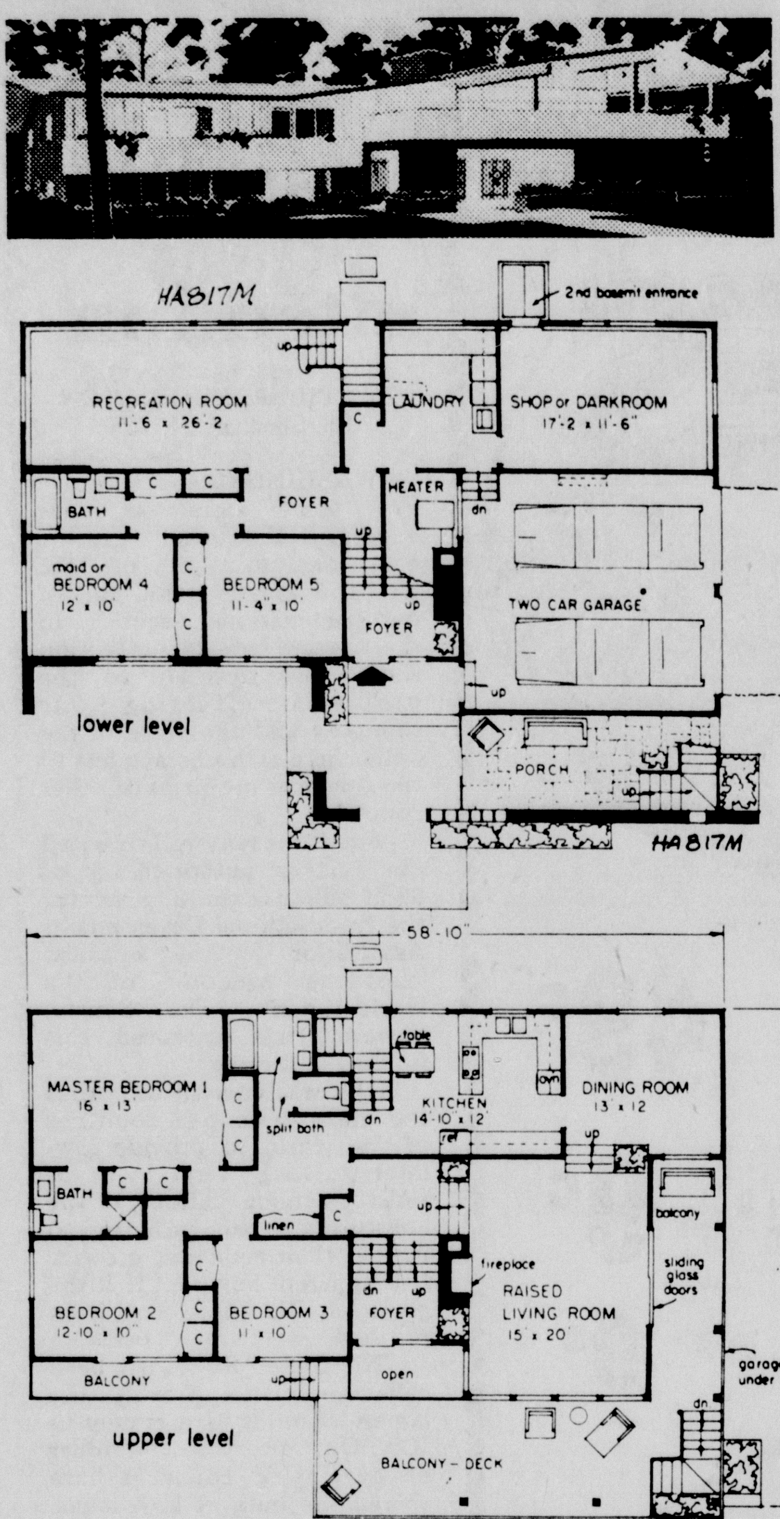
At the height of her fertility, a queen bee lays 3000 eggs daily for five years. Such little- known and remarkable facts about the honey bee are revealed in BEEKEEPING, John F. Adams' complete guide to maintaining a colony of these industrious, indefatigable, socially complex and totally dedicated insects.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS



HOUSE PLAN HA817M, a five bedroom Contemporary split level-split entry home features a raised living room perched above the two-car garage which is located on ground level. There is a large balcony deck in front for outdoor living; the balcony structure and the brick wall enclose another outdoor living area. A lower level balcony is also provided off the front bedrooms which connects by steps to the main deck. To enter this home one must walk through wrought-iron gates in the pierced masonry wall, under the protective balcony and up to the front door. There the balcony opens up to a two-story shaft above. A rear set of stairs, for its slight additional cost, completes traffic control throughout the home. The lower level, excluding the garage, is 1246 square feet; the upper level, excluding the deck, is 1689 square feet. Rudolph A. Matern, 89 E. Jericho Tpke., Mineola, N.Y. 11501, designed the home. Anyone interested in learning the cost of the blueprint can write to Matern, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

VEGETABLE OF THE YEAR

America's leading seedsmen, meeting at Atlanta, Georgia, voted looseleaf lettuce "Vegetable of the Year." Easy-to-grow and early-to-mature are some reasons for its popularity among homeowners.

When seedsmen meeting at Atlanta, Georgia, were asked to name a "Vegetable of the Year," the voting was almost equally divided between Swiss chard and looseleaf lettuce, but looseleaf lettuce finally gained the vote, taking the title away from the hybrid tomato, which won the previous year.

The seedsmen decided on looseleaf lettuce for three main reasons:

1 — It's so easy to grow even a beginner gardener can expect good success with it. The seeds can be direct sown straight into the garden, and the mature lettuce leaves will be ready to pick in just 50 days.

2 — Heads of lettuce in the store are never cheap, yet a 35c packet will produce hundreds of plants if a gardener has the space for them all — and this will help him save substantially on food bills.

3 — No garden should be without lettuce — even a flower garden, since the frilly-leaved looseleaf kinds can be planted among flowers to look decorative.

A seed display, seed catalog or garden center will offer a wide assortment of looseleaf lettuce to choose from, and selection is purely a matter of personal taste. Some reliable varieties include Black Seeded Simpson, an old-fashioned kind that shows no sign of diminishing in popularity, and Oak Leaf, which is a useful variety because it withstands heat better than most other varieties of lettuce. Also, you can pick the outer leaves of several plants, and more inner leaves will grow to take their place. Another interesting variety is Ruby, an All-America winner. It is tinged red on the outer edges, while the inner part of the leaves is a bright green.

Sow all varieties of lettuce in early spring. They tolerate light frosts and do best in cool weather. Plant again in midsummer for another crop in the fall.

Watch what happens...

Your family, like most, is experiencing a little pinch with the high cost of living. Your idea has been to round up a number of items around the house that you no longer need, but which you know would be valuable and useful to someone else.

And your idea now is to call the Classified Department and place an ad offering these items for sale.

Now . . . watch what happens!

In a day's time you'll begin receiving phone calls from people interested in buying the things you no longer need. And before you know it, you'll have that little extra cash in your hand we can all use.

That's exactly how it happens to lots and lots of homemakers . . . every day!

Doctors accused of manslaughter in fetus research

BOSTON (AP) — Around Boston City Hospital, Dr. Kenneth Edelin is known as one of the good guys.

There is a lot of talk about his skill, his interest in the black ghetto community surrounding the hospital, and his compassion.

And so, Boston's medical community is asking why the district attorney is accusing Dr. Kenneth Edelin of manslaughter in the death of a fetus he aborted in a legal operation.

The indictment of the 35-year-old doctor, the first black chief resident in obstetrics and gynecology at Boston City Hospital—BCH, could make medical and legal history, but Dr. Edelin says he would prefer that someone else have the historical recognition.

The rugged-looking, mustached physician finds himself, along with several colleagues, in the middle of separate, but related legal actions concerning legalized abortions, the rights of the fetus and fetal experimentation.

No stranger to revolutionary confrontation, Boston is bracing itself for a precedent-setting legal battle that could lead to a new legal definition of a human person and challenge the U.S. Supreme Court's abortion rulings.

When after conception does the growing mass of cells in a woman's womb become a human with a right to life and the legal protection entitled a human being? This and related questions have divided society's thinkers for centuries.

The Supreme Court last year struck down restrictive state abortion laws, but left unanswered the basic question of when a fetus becomes a human being capable of life and entitled to legal rights.

For the nation's medical community, the question came dramatically before them on April 11 when the "Boston Indictments," as they've become known in medical circles, were handed down by a Suffolk County grand jury.

Dr. Edelin was indicted for manslaughter in connection with the death of a 22-to 24-week-old male fetus. In separate indictments, delivered the same day, four other BCH doctors were indicted for research conducted with fetuses aborted at the hospital. The two cases are not directly related.

Charged under an 1814 state law designed to curb grave robbing were Drs. Leon D. Sabath and Leonard Berman and two others who had left the hospital, Dr. David Charles, now in Newfoundland, and Dr. Agneta Philipson, now in Sweden.

The doctors are not charged with grave robbing, but with carrying away bodies—aborted fetuses—for the purpose of dissection without authorization. Dr. Berman, a BCH pathologist, supplied fetal material to the other doctors for their study.

That study, published in the June 7, 1973 issue of the New England Journal of Medicine, described the doctors' experiment to determine how well two antibiotics passed through the placenta from mother to fetus. The antibiotics were given to 33 mothers before their abortions.

Dr. Sabath said in an interview that all 33 gave their informed consent to participate in the study. He asserted that the abortions would have been performed anyway, even if the women had not participated in the study.

Using small amounts of tissue from aborted fetuses was "the safest and most moral way" to conduct the study, Dr. Sabath said, rather than using full-term babies who might have been harmed by the drugs.

The Committee of Human Studies at BCH, which sees that proper safeguards are followed in human experiments, approved the study beforehand, Dr. Sabath added.

"It's rather paradoxical that this study has attracted so much nonprofessional interest after we went through so much trouble to do everything properly."

The study attracted the attention of Right-to-Life committees in heavily Roman Catholic Boston. The city council held hearings on the BCH research and after strong anti-abortion sentiment was voiced, the council called for a criminal investigation.

Dist. Atty. Garrett Byrne's eight-month investigation culminated with the grand jury indictments. During the investigation, the hospital records of the 33 mothers were examined by the grand jury. Numerous hospital staff members were called to testify.

The grand jury became aware of the Dr. Edelin abortion as a result of the investigation of the BCH research project.

Critics of the indictments charge they were politically motivated. They say the doctors are being used as scapegoats to challenge the U.S. Supreme Court abortion rulings, which permit abortion almost on demand during the first six months of pregnancy.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Newman A. Flanagan, chief prosecutor in the doctors' cases, heatedly denies the indictments have anything to do with politics, although Byrne, a 22-year incumbent, is running for re-election this year.

The district attorney's office released few details of the indictments, and the defendants say they are not sure what, specifically, they are charged with. Lawyers for Dr. Edelin and the doctors in the other case say they must get more details before they can prepare a defense.

As a result of the BCH controversy, the Massachussetts Legislature is considering bills increasing controls over abortion and fetal research.

The results of the Boston cases could determine if similar restrictive legislation is introduced elsewhere in the country. Researchers say such measures could stifle medical progress. But critics of fetal research say medical progress should not come at the expense of mothers or fetuses, which they consider human.

4 hospitals exempt from tax collection

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Supreme Court upheld Monday a lower court ruling that four Missouri hospitals are not required to obtain sales tax licenses or collect sales taxes in the operation of their food service facilities or gift shops.

The opinion agreed with Cole County Circuit Judge James T. Riley that the four hospitals were no-for-profit institutions, which have no capital stock and do not pay dividends.

Quoting an earlier opinion in a similar case, the court said the income from such operations "is not to make profits but to devote any income in its operation to the charitable purpose of operating a hospital for the benefit of all who come to its doors."

The ruling came in the case of St. John's Medical Center, Inc., of Joplin; Lester E. Cox Medical Center of Springfield; St. Joseph Hospital of Kansas City and the Pemiscot County Memorial Hospital of Hayti, all of which Riley said were exempt from the collection or payment of sales tax on the sale of food or gifts.

The three private hospitals, the court noted, each operate a gift shop through auxiliaries of volunteers, but added that such shops are customary in Missouri hospitals and do not constitute competition for commercial establishments since their prices "tend to be higher than outside stores."

The court also said the revenue from the gift shops goes for use in "the accomplishment of its charitable purposes."

The ruling comes in the wake of a Kansas City area court ruling that private hospitals are subject to property taxes. Hospital officials around the state have said, however, that the Supreme Cojrt will be asked to rule on that question.

COOKING-UP

By NADINE TOWNSEND

NEW MADRID — This week's recipes are tried and true favorites of Mrs. Louis F. Jones and family of New Madrid Route One.

The elegant hash casserole remains hot for a long time if baked in a heavy earthenware dish, Mrs. Jones said, which makes it ideal for carry-in potluck meals.

Inexpensive and a great cold drink, easy fruit punch will make a hit with the kids at a picnic or birthday party.

Mrs. Jones said the boiled cookies are so quick and easy she often makes them in the time it takes a pot of coffee to perk.

Chocolate pie lovers will find Dorothy's chocolate cream pie just scrumptious, but for those who prefer coconut, the recipe is easily altered for an equally good coconut cream pie.

Look for more good recipes featuring pickles and relishes by Mrs. Jones in The Daily Standard's annual cookbook section scheduled for publication later this month.

ELEGANT HASH

1 lb. ground beef
1 cup finely grated carrots
3 cups grated raw potatoes
1 onion chopped
1½ cups milk
½ cup bread crumbs

Mix together meat, carrots, potatoes and onions. Add milk, salt and pepper to taste. Turn into buttered casserole dish. Cover with crumbs and dot with butter. Bake at 375 degrees for two hours or until done.

SAUSAGE CASSEROLE

1 lb. bulk sausage
1 cup chopped onion
2 cups cooked macaroni
2 cups canned tomatoes
1 tsp. salt
½ cup grated cheese
½ cup bread crumbs

Brown sausage and onion in frying pan. Drain off excess fat. Add macaroni, tomatoes, salt and one- half of the cheese. Put into baking dish and sprinkle top with crumbs and remaining cheese. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes.

PORK CHOPS AND RICE

4 to 6 pork chops
½ cup raw quick rice
1 cup tomato juice
2 cup boiling water
small onion, chopped
small green pepper, chopped
salt and pepper to taste

Mix rice, juice, water, onion and green pepper. Place in baking dish and lay seasoned chops on top. Cover and bake at 425 degrees until mixture boils, then reduce heat to 325 degrees and bake for about one hour.

EASY FRUIT PUNCH

2 pkgs. any flavor powdered soft drink mix
2 cups sugar
2 qts. water
1 qt. pineapple juice
1 qt. ginger ale

Mix and stir in order given. Refrigerate until cold or pour over crushed ice.

BOILED COOKIES

1 stick oleo
2 cups sugar
4 tbsp. cocoa
½ cup milk
2½ cups quick-type oats
1 tsp. vanilla
2 tbsp. peanut butter
½ cup nuts (optional)

Combine oleo, sugar, cocoa and milk in sauce pan; bring to boil and cook two minutes. Take off heat and add oats, vanilla, peanut butter and nuts. Drop by tablespoon on wax paper.

DOROTHY'S CHOCOLATE CREAM PIE

1/3 cups cocoa
¾ cup sugar
1/3 cup flour
¼ tsp. salt
2½ cups diluted evaporated cream (1¼ cups cream mixed with equal amount of water)
2 eggs beaten or 3 yolks beaten
1 tablespoon butter
1 tsp. vanilla

Mix cocoa, sugar, flour and salt in a heavy saucepan. Add small amount of cream and stir to make a smooth paste, then add remainder of cream, eggs, butter and vanilla. Cook over medium heat and stir until thick.

Pour into baked pastry shell. Top with meringue and brown lightly. The recipe doubled will fill three regular nine- inch shells or one deep shell.

For coconut cream pie, omit cocoa, reduce sugar to one half cup and add one cup of coconut to the cream filling before pouring into baked pastry shell. Top with meringue and brown lightly.

EGG CUSTARD

2 cups scalded milk
¾ cup sugar
3 eggs beaten
1 tsp. vanilla
pinch of salt

Combine ingredients and pour into nine- inch deep pie shell. Sprinkle top with nutmeg. Bake at 450 degrees for 10 minutes, reduce oven to 325 degrees and bake for 25 minutes or until inserted knife blade remains clean.

CREAMY FROSTING

2½ tbsp. flour
½ cup milk
pinch of salt
½ cup sugar
½ cup vegetable shortening
1 tsp. vanilla
1 cup powdered sugar

Cook and stir flour, milk and salt mixture until thick. Remove from heat and let cool completely. Add sugar, shortening and vanilla; beat until sugar is dissolved, then add powdered sugar. Beat until creamy and holds stiff peaks. This frosting is excellent for cake decorating tubes and may be tinted with desired food coloring.

FOR FATHER'S DAY—Serve roast beef and super mashed potatoes

Look what's cooking for this Father's Day

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

For Father's Day on June 16, cook a dinner that Pop will be sure to enjoy. In other words, plan a main course of beef and potatoes. Add a vegetable or a salad and a dessert that he particularly likes and he's bound to be appreciative of your efforts.

For the meat choose a standing beef rib roast weighing 6 to 8 pounds and including the first two or three ribs. Place the roast, straight from the refrigerator and fat side up, in a shallow roasting pan. Roast in a 325-degree oven to desired doneness. The meat thermometer will register 135 degrees for rare (20 to 25 minutes per pound); 155 degrees for medium 25 to 30 minutes per pound); and 165 degrees for well-done (30 to 35 minutes per pound). Let the roast stand in a warm place for 15 to 20 minutes after removal from oven and before carving.

For the accompanying potatoes, you may want to use the following luxurious recipe.

SUPER MASHED POTATOES

Salt
1 clove garlic, peeled
3 tablespoons butter
1 egg yolk
¼ cup light cream
¼ pound mushrooms, sliced and sauteed in butter
2 tablespoons minced parsley
White pepper

Boil potatoes in boiling water to cover with ½ teaspoon salt and the garlic; drain. Mash potatoes well and add 3 tablespoons butter, egg yolk and cream. Fold in mushrooms and parsley. Add salt and pepper to taste. Keep warm in oven until ready to serve. Makes 4 to 6 servings. Recipe may be doubled.

STEAK PERFECTION

The best for Dad on his special day is beef. The ultimate is a special steak — Porterhouse, T-bone, sirloin, rib eye or tenderloin. Requiring no preliminary preparation, these are favorites of chefs as well as diners. Each does merit careful attention to be presented at its best. Most important is broiling at a moderate temperature. When cooking on an outdoor grill, this means waiting until the coals are covered with gray ash. Steaks cut at least an inch thick are best for the grill. Take care not to overcook. Since time estimates cannot be exact in variable outdoor conditions, check steaks frequently.

Coffee Corner

by Cherie

Well, school is out and already I feel like I'm a ripe candidate for the boobey hatch!! How does one ever lull oneself into thinking that summer vacation is vacation? Whoever dubbed it that must have either had rocks in their head, or been a teacher without any children at home. Glory be, I haven't had a chance to even sit down in the morning and have a cup of coffee before the constant cry begins — "Quick mom, I've got to meet so and so on the golf course by 7:30," (they only played 88 holes the day before). Or, "Get those pants washed and ironed mom, they're the only ones I've got to wear to work this morning!" They may be the only ones he's got to wear, he thinks, but frankly, I'm a little curious as to what he's planning on using the other five pair he has hanging in his closet for — do men and little boys always prefer the worn out clothing or chairs, or whatever? Boy, all three of them should just be mad about me, cause I'm firmly convinced I'm the most worn out item anywhere around our house!! And then, when you're not taking them somewhere, or picking them up from somewhere, you're shouting at them to walk the dog, feed the dog, practice the piano, mow the yard, and half a dozen other things you usually end up doing yourself because it's so much easier that way. However, in the winter you can excuse yourself on the grounds that with school and all they don't have time to get everything done; whereas, in the summer all of this makes my conscience hurt because I know the little twirps should really be doing it themselves, but hurt conscience or not, I find I'd rather do it myself!! Oh well, it's less than three months till school starts again, and maybe if I put in an extra supply of tranquilizers I just might (barely) make it!

"Mommy has an upset head."

Today in U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, June 12, the 163rd day of 1974. There are 202 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1665, New York City was incorporated under English law.

On this date—

In 1630, the first governor of the Massachusetts Bay Company, John Winthrop, sailed into Salem Harbor.

In 1838, the Iowa Territory was organized.

In 1940, Japenese planes bombed Chungking, China.

In 1943, the Trans-Canadian Highway was opened to traffic.

In 11963, civil rights leader Medgar Evers was shot to death in Jackson, Miss.

In 1970, Palestinian guerrillas burned Jordan's embassy in Beirut, Lebanon.

Ten years ago: West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard and President Lyndon Johnson met in Washington and reasserted the rights of the Western Powers in Germany and Berlin.

Five years ago: A 15-year-old Brooklyn, N.Y., boy who had lied about his age to join the Marines at 14, Dan Bullock, became the youngest American serviceman to be killed in Vietnam.

One year ago: Italy's Premier Giulio Andreotti and his Cabinet resigned during a political crisis.

Today's birthdays: Banker David Rockefeller is 59. Singer Vic Damone is 46. Singer and actor Jim Nabors is 41.

Thought for today: I am part of all that I have met — Lord Alfred Tennyson, English poet, 1809-1892.

OPERA COMES TO SARATOGA

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP) — The Saratoga Festival will have a first this summer, an opera, "Boris Godunov" on Aug. 27 and 29.

Dear Mr. Blanton:

I appreciated your coverage of our recent awards program. Your reporter for this area, Mrs. Shirley Pritchett, is most cooperative and avails herself often. I realize that priority publications and deadlines are major items of concern for you. Your Southeast Missouri Graduation Coverage was excellent. We were aware of this section, but could not meet the deadline due to our photographer not having completed our Senior composite. I do sincerely appreciate your publishing material in a later issue.

Sincerely
Lawayne Law,

THE SECRET
(By Ralph S. Cushman)

I met God in the morning
When the day was at its best,
And His presence came like sunrise,
Like a glory in my breast!

All day long His presence lingered,
All day long He stayed with me,
And we sailed with perfect calmness
O'er a very troubled sea.

Other ships were blown and battered,
Other ships were sore distressed,
But the winds that seemed to drive them
Brought to us a peace and rest.

Then I thought of other mornings,
With a keen remorse of mind,
When I too had loosed the moorings

So I think I know the secret,
Learned from many a troubled way,
You must seek Him in the morning
If you want Him through the day.

(Submitted by C.D. Wright)

THINKING OF YOU
By: Lisa Roslen

Yesterday I just sat thinking of you.
And how I am always alone and blue.
When we were together things were bright and gay.
But now I am alone
without you and things are dark and gray.
I want you to know
and remember:
I am always thinking of you.

I CAN'T HATE SOMEONE I LOVE VERY MUCH
By: Lisa Roslen

I know we broke up and you found a new love. I know its not right to let my love for you show, but I can't help it. People say I shouldn't still feel this way but I can't help it. I tried to love another but it didn't work, I can't forget you or my love for you. When I am around you, you acted like you wished I hated you. Well I have to tell you this. I can't hate someone I love very much!

Dear Editor:

(NOTE: A copy of the following letter has been sent to all your Senators and Congressman.)

Recently, Sakharov, Russia's nuclear scientist, and nine other dissidents, who wholeheartedly support Alexander Solzhenitsyn, called for an international investigation of the crimes against innocent Soviet citizens. This is being well documented by Solzhenitsyn, Nobel Prize winner, who was forcibly arrested, imprisoned and exiled from Russia on February 13, 1974 without a trial.

Failure, through the years, to investigate the Russian horror and terror lies at the door of the United Nations. Its "Declaration of Human Rights" is proven to be a big lie by the United Nations' failure (since 1945) to condemn Soviet inhumanities and atrocities. The United Nations has, by its inaction, actually been siding with the Russian terrorists thus confirming that the United Nations is apparently controlled by the Communists.

What is your opinion?

Sincerely,
C. C. Moseley, President
and Chairman of the Board

Dear Editor:

On behalf of the officers, members and volunteers of the St. Louis Area Chapter, National Multiple Sclerosis Society, I wish to thank you, your staff and everyone in the Sikeston area who aided, contributed or worked on the 1974 MS Hope Chest Campaign.

The cooperation from the volunteers and contributors were so heartwarming that we are deeply gratified.

Your continued efforts to widen public understanding of the multiple sclerosis problem, make it possible to fund the Society's programs of patient services, pubic and professional educational and the vital National and International research programs that will eventually attain the goal that is a universal one: Conquering MS through research.

Sincerely,
Algie A. Hendrix, Chairman

USDA approves grant for Missouri

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The U.S. Department of Labor has approved Missouri's $3.1 million grant application to operate a summer youth employment program, Gov. Christopher S. Bond said Monday.

The funds will be used to provide income to youth along with work experience to improve their future employment opportunities, Bond said.

The major metropolitan areas of St. Louis, Kansas City, and Springfield will receive direct federal funds to operate their summer youth programs, he added.

Approximately 6,200 economically disadvantaged persons will be served throughout the state during the program's nine weeks of operation which begins this month, the governor said.

WONDERING WHAT HAPPENED to what was billed as "the greatest show of the century" when the comet Kahoutek was expected to illuminate the Christmas heavens last December, scientists are currently analyzing color-coded photographs of the comet to determine why it fizzled out long before reaching predicted brilliance. By coloring photos according to light wavelength and exposure, scientists have tracked the growth and collapse of Kahoutek to within 19 million miles of the Sun.

Highway department needs formal approval

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The state Highway Department must get the formal approval of the state commissioner of administration before letting contracts for repair or construction of buildings, an attorney general's opinion said Monday.

However, the opinion said, the highway department does not have to obtain approval before letting contracts to repair or construct highways.

The opinion was asked by Gov. Christopher S. Bond regarding language in the law setting up the office of administration, the state's primary housekeeping agency under control over the governor's office.

Another opinion said gasoline tax revenue could not be used to finance courses in driver education in schools.

The constitution says part of the money can go toward administering and enforcing state motor vehicle laws.

State Rep. Eugene Lang, R-Warrensburg, asked if the money could be used for such classes if a law were passed making such a class a prerequisite for issuing drivers' license to persons under the age of 18.

In that case, Lang asked, would the class be part of the administration or enforcement of a state motor vehicle law? The opinion said no.

Removal of coal pollutants sought

COLUMBIA — An inexpensive chemical means of removing impurities from coal, making it more efficient as a fuel and at the same time reducing its ecological damage, is the goal of Sandra J. Harlan of Clifton Hill, a graduate student at the University of Missouri-Columbia.

Her project is known as cleaning coal with coal and involves chemically removing metals and acidity from coal. She has developed a simple and inexpensive method that is so promising she has been granted $15,110 by the National Science Foundation to direct further studies during the three summer months, working with 11 other UMC graduate and undergraduate students of chemistry, physics and biology.

In one sense her project is not related to coal per se but to pollutants developed in its burning. To remove pollutants, her approach is to treat the gases in smokestacks with chemicals that remove the sulphur and metallic pollutants. Water used in the "scrubbing" absorbs the pollutants and in effect becomes a corrosive sulphuric acid solution. Miss Harlan, as a consequence, is searching for a method of cleaning up the water or of finding some use for the concentration.

Since Missouri has large reserves of coal, estimated at 80 billion tons and mostly of high sulphur content, it is of economic interest to the state if a solution is found to make the energy reserve more available.

Miss Harlan began on the project last year and worked during the school year with three or four other graduate students in coal-related research. The Science Foundation grant has a requirement that its funds be student-originated. She filled out the application forms which the Foundation approved and agreed to finance further studies.

While the United States has adequate coal reserves, most is of high sulphur content that would play havoc with the atmosphere, she explains. "A lot has to be done in the near future with coal or we'll be in trouble."

The summer research program likely will include field trips -- some of her laboratory mates haven't even seen a strip mine in operation -- as well as some outside speakers. The trips will include a visit to a coal company laboratory, she hopes.

Miss Harlan doesn't consider it odd that a woman is interested in coal. She was reared in coal country of Randolph county. Her late father, and now her brother, works for a coal company. She came to UMC to study chemistry and asked her professor for graduate studies relating to coal.

She doesn't consider science as a field limited to man. "Woman can function as well as a man in chemistry and other sciences," she said. "I like it. No one has ever discouraged me from becoming a scientist." She hasn't made up her mind whether, after getting her master's degree in August, she will go into research or management.

Her interest in chemistry stems from a high school teacher, Mrs. Marjorie Ruffner, teacher in the Salisbury school district. She recalls that of 50 graduates in her high school class, six enrolled at UMC, including another woman classmate who majored in chemistry and now is in medical school.

The summer project of the students will be assisted by Dr. Stanely E. Manahan, associate professor of chemistry, and Dr. Louis V. Holroyd, professor and chairman of physics.

Students involved in the project include Michael R. Sante of Kansas City; Robert Brown of Creve Coeur; Matt Pross of Lindbergh; Bruce Davis of Manchester; John Tenny of Raytown; Rex Berney of Cummins, Ga.; D. R. Jones of Albuquerque, N. M.; Les Isselhardt of St. Louis; John Green of Independence; Al Smith of Helena; and Phil Knutson of Spring Grove, Minn.

Cline presents legislative report

Rep. C. F. Cline of Sikeston presented his annual legislative report to the Kiwanis Club Tuesday morning at Ramada Inn. This report, which is presented to all area civic clubs, was followed by election of new officers.

Cline said the census of the 159th District, which he represents, was taken in 1970 and it states the total population to be 28,363. Of that number, he said, 14, 390 are in the corporate area and 13,996 in rural area; 5,157 have homes in the corporate area and 5,077 homes are in the rural area. There are also 14,200 registered voters, he added.

Cline said that in his two years, there have been 1,711 recording votes to be answered and he had answered 1,568 of those.

His office averages 12 letters per day Monday through Friday and his Sikeston office averages seven telephone calls per day.

Cline added that he served on three committees on the state level- Agricultural, Roads and Highways and State Parks and Recreation.

He said it was very interesting to represent rural Missouri as it is a constant battle with metropolitan Missouri.

Last year, the Missouri Legislature introduced 1,250 bills and passed 208 of them, he concluded.

Cline was introduced by Don Pratt.

New officers elected were announced following Rep. Cline's speech. They are: Bob Wright, president; Tom Lambert, first vice president; Gary Chullino, second vice president and secretary and Gilbert Hopper, treasurer.

Four new board members were elected for two year terms. they are Roy White, Dale Hill, John Nunnelee and Jim Wills.

A special board meeting was called following the announcement of new board members.

Charles Ainsworth was a guest of the club.

TORONTO (AP) — Impressed by the programs operated by five workshops in Toronto where 450 mentally retarded persons are employed under the auspices of Arc Industries, the Canadian Association for the Mentally Retarded plans to launch an appeal campaign here in May and collect $3 million to establish more facilities such as Arc throughout the country. There are 650,000 persons in Canada classified as mentally retarded.

Former commander honored

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark. - Col. Jean M. Crance, former commander of Blytheville Air Force Base, was honored May 31 on his retirmenet after 32 years of Air Force service.

During ceremonies here Col. Crane received the Meritorious Service Medal and a certificate of appreciation signed by President Richard Nixon for his Air Force service. His wife Sunny was presented a certificate of appreciation from the Air Force for her devotion as an Air Force wife.

Col. Crane commanded the base and the 97th Combat Support Group from July 1972 to early this year. He was assigned to the 42nd Air Division here during his last tour of duty.

His Air Force career began in 1942. After completing flight training in Florida he went to India to fly the famous "hump" from India to China.

Colonel Crane has spent 11 of his 32 years at Blytheville. He was formerly assigned here from 1961 to 1970, Other assignments have taken him to Rickenbacker AFB, Ohio; Chanute AFB, Ill., East Carolina University at Greenville, N.C., as an Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps instructor; and Barksdale AFB, La.

Under the Capitol dome

State budget work begins

JEFFERSON CITY — Preliminary work on the 1975-76 state budget already has started and already some storm warnings are flying.

Unless the problem is approached carefully with a view to having a meeting of the minds, the 1975 legislature could wind up in a tangle similar to the one this year, when the House and Senate were locked in combat up to the very last over the detailed, down to the penny system used by the House in the appropriation bills.

Now some sage advice has come from Charles F. Sturtz, director of the Budget Bureau in Michigan, who has been through the mill on similar problems.

In a joint letter to Rep. James "Jay" Russell, House Appropriations chairman; Arthur Betts, Senate appropriations consultant, and Mark Edelman, Missouri Comptroller and Budget Director, Sturtz pointed out some of the dangers involved.

He said it was his "unalterable belief that the consideration and embarkation on a program budget system must be a joint legislative-executive endeavor. There is nothing quite so discouraging, debilitating and, in the end, disastrous as one party jamming the system down on the other participants in the budget decision system."

He warned that detailed allocation such as the House supported this year lead to problems in managing appropriation deficiencies. He noted Michigan has the machinery to handle these problems. But Missouri does not.

"The transfer authority we have," Sturtz explained, "enables us to adjust budgets as required to affect several thousand transfer requests in any year. We have extensive computer assistance in this management effort. The executive must be able to manage within the bounds of legislative intent without gaining approval of every nickel and dime shifted.

"I encourage your interest in program budgeting but must suggest that an appropriation bill is not the appropriate means to that end. It is the end result, not the prime mover ..."

This may seem pretty complicated to the average person. What it means in plain language is that if Missouri appropriation bills were written in this form, the Legislative Fiscal Affairs Committee would have to be in session constantly to handle transfers from postage accounts, to telephone accounts, to travel accounts, to equipment repair accounts and so on down the line.

And there is some doubt, under Missouri's Constitution, whether the Fiscal Affairs committee would have the authority to do this. Even if it did have such power, it would take a huge staff to handle all the detail.

Sturtz expresses the strong belief that the executive branch must take the lead in establishing program budgeting, but that the Legislature must be brought into the process. He says it's a matter of give and take.

"Knowledge of the right response does not lie totally within the executive branch. To assume so is gross arrogance and results in an irreconcilable schism with the Legislature. However, I do strongly believe the executive must take the lead in translating the values and their measurement into a program structure for legislative reaction."

Maybe it's a little early to worry about this developing problem, but it's not too early to keep an eye on it.

The first use of lenses to form a telescope is attributed to Roger Bacon of England, who died in 1292.

Teen loses job after aiding in drug arrest

BIG CABIN, Okla. (AP) — A Big Cabin teen-ager is without his job at an interstate truck stop after he helped officers make a drug arrest.

Mark Chasteen, 17, was handed his last paycheck less than 12 hours after he had been sold a plastic bag full of a substance alleged to be marijuana.

Mark went to authorities and they arrested C.R. Henry, a Kansas City, Kan., truck driver. He was to be arraigned today on charges of possession of marijuana and distribution of marijuana to a minor.

Mark's last paycheck was waiting for him Wednesday morning when he went into work at (Argene) Clanton's truck stop. It is just off the Big Cabin exit of the Will Rogers Turnpike.

"I went into work and he (Clanton) told me to come to his office, Mark said. "I went in and he picked up a check and handed it to me."

Clanton says "he came in and told me he was going to work to the end of the week. I told him he could just quit now."

Asked about the timing of the check, Canton said "I don't know how to explain it. I didn't know anything about an arrest until it was all over. There were a lot of tickets on his shift with mistakes on them." Mark pumped gas.

Mark's parents say, however, that Clanton never had anything but praise for Mark.

"I was in last week talking with Clanton and he told me Mark was a "good worker," one of them said.

Mark says he told Clanton he was "going to quit anyway" only after seeing the check on Clanton's desk. It had "final paycheck" written across it.

Mark's involvement in the arrest began about 11 p.m. Tuesday when a truck driver asked him if he'd like to buy some marijuana.

"He offered me enough for nine or 10 cigarettes," Mark said. "Then he went out to his truck and put something in his pocket. He came back in, went into the bathroom and then brought me a plastic bag."

Mark took the material, got the man's name and number of his truck.

10-cent phone call may be near end

NEW YORK (AP) — Tourists in Louisiana may be surprised to learn the dime they deposited for a pay phone call was a nickel too much. And phone booths don't make change.

Travelers at the Dallas-Fort Worth regional airport have been known to respond angrily upon discovering a pay phone call costs a quarter.

The two areas represent the apparent extremes in a nation full of phone companies beginning to raise the prevailing 10cent rate for local pay phone calls, a rate that has endured nearly everywhere for more than 20 years.

The first statewide 20-cent pay phone rate went into effect May 15 in North Carolina. Washington has a 15-cent rate. Requests are pending in several other states.

When Ma Bell seeks an increase, so normally do the more than 1,700 independent phone companies, the largest of which is General Telephone & Electronics Corp.

A General Telephone & Electronics subsidiary, General Telephone Co. of the Southwest, has the 25-cent rate at the Dallas-Fort Worth airport and at 16 communities in the metropolitan areas of the two cities and of Houston. Texas is the only one of the 50 states where phone rates are set by municipality.

Hawaiian Telephone Co., another GT&E subsidary, is seeking increases to 15 or 20 cents on various of the islands.

Why do the phone companies want to do away with the dime rate?

Simply because pay phone calls "cost more to carry through than is paid," says Robert D. Lilley, president of AT&T.

The commission approved a 10-cent rate in 1952 but ordered a rollback five years later, leaving the Bayou State with a rate first established 68 years ago in New York.

Albino toad is rare find

WARREN, Mich. (AP) Research scientists at the University of Michigan Amphibian Facility are excited by a backyard find—Charlie the albino toad.

Charlie, who has transparent skin, was found last week by 4-year-old Joey Strain in a backyard near his home.

"He's really ugly looking," says Martha Koza, Joey's mother. "He has bulging, pink eyes and transparent skin. You can see his organs.

Charlie may have company at the laboratory. Another apparently albino toad was reported Sunday by a woman who lives a couple of blocks from Joey's home.

Mrs. Beverly Cornish said her 8-year-old daughter, Gail, found a white, pink-eyed frog she named Albie in her backyard.

She called the Amphibian Facility, which wants to study the rare animals and breed them for research.

Albino toads or frogs are "a one in a million" occurrence, said a facility scientist.

Dr. George W. Nace, a zoology professor, says the transparent skin on albino frogs and toads makes it possible to observe their bodily functions.

"Frogs have many features like those of man," he said. "We study them to try to learn how the genes control the developmental process."

At first Joey was reluctant to part with his pet, his mother said. But now he approves.

Dr. Christina Richards, coordinator of the Facility, said since both amphibians were found in backyards, they are probably toads, which live farther away from their ponds than frogs.

"There is a possibility that they are just toads who have recently shed their skin," Dr. Richards said. "That kind is usually quite light. But the people say these toads have pink eyes. That would make them albinos."

Young executive heads bank money market

CHICAGO (AP) — Jim McCormick makes about $20,000 a year, but he has the authority to invest $200 million any day for his employer without anyone's permission.

McCormick, 27, is head of Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust's money market. He deals in fixed-income, short-term IOUs or other valuables— such as bonds—issued by banks, corporations and various government bodies.

On any given day, his department will buy or sell $100 million or $200 million worth of these money-market instruments for the nation's ninth largest commercial bank. The bank's entire bond department buys and sells more than $1 billion worth any day.

The same institutions that use the market as buyers also use it to sell IOUs. The market is primarily a place for them to put a large amount of cash to work for them for a short period of time. IOUs have a life span of from one day to one year, but most are for 90 days and less.

For McCormick, the money market "is the only place where the action is." He came to the bank from Miami University of Ohio four years ago.

At Miami, he obtained bachelor's and master's degrees in business administration. For a year, he worked as a trainee in the bank's bond department, then turned to specialization and the money market. Recently he was named a second vice president.

From an airy, well-lit room on the fifth floor of the huge bank building in Chicago's financial district, McCormick directs operations of a staff of about a dozen men and women. While he generally deals in many millions of dollars each day, the size does not disturb him.

Whether he deals in $100 million or $200 million "it's a few more zeroes," he said.

Wheat harvest begins

Two hundred acres of wheat started going under the thresher this week on the James Pobst farm north of Sikeston on Tanner Road. This wheat is located on higher and drier ground than other fields in the Sikeston area in which harvest should be starting later in the week. (Daily Standard photo)

Kirkpatrick thinks he's getting bum rap

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Missouri's three-term secretary of state, James C. Kirkpatrick, has worked for reform of the state's election laws and as president of the National Association of Secretaries of State, he is recognized as a national leader in the election process.

But Kirkpatrick, who will be 69 Saturday, finds himself on the unpopular end of the snowballing petition drive to get on the November ballot a proposition strengthening the state's laws on financing of election campaigns.

He has been criticized for his opposition to the initiative petition bill, and he thinks he's getting a bum rap.

So far, Kirkpatrick is the only elected state official opposed to the petition bill, similar in many respects to a compromise bill that ran out of time as the legislative session ended at midnight April 30. The Republican House leaders and some Democrats have supported the petition drive, while Democratic legislative leaders have neither publicly opposed it or supported it. The House speaker and Senate president pro tem, both Democrats, have said campaign reform will again be a high priority item in the next legislative session.

Today, Gov. Christopher S. Bond planned to sign the petition. State treasurer James I. Spainhower, a Democrat like Kirkpatrick, signed it last week.

Petition organizations are at work in Columbia, Springfield, St. Louis and Kansas City. Tony Hiesberger, presiding judge of the Cole County Court, announced Tuesday formation of a petition campaign group in Cole, Osage, Miller and Moniteau counties.

"It's hysteria," says Kirkpatrick. In the wake of Watergate, campaigning for election reform is the popular thing to do but mistakes can be made by rushing things, says Kirkpatrick.

He opposes the proposed law for several reasons.

The compromise bill that failed in the legislature had the secretary of state on the six - member bipartisan elections commission that will enforce the law, but the secretary of state would vote only in case of ties. Kirkpatrick agreed with that.

The petition bill leaves him off the commission altogether.

"Being on that commission would be a damn headache," Kirkpatrick says, "but as the state's chief elections officer I think I should be on it and have a vote. As of now, how are you going to break ties?"

Just as with the Election Laws Study Commission, Kirkpatrick said, "my office will be doing most of the work."

The petition bill calls for nearly all reports from candidates and committees to be filed with the secretary of state.

"I have no burning desire to be on that commission," Kirkpatrick said, and said the fact that he is not on it is not the main reason he is opposing the petition bill.

Groups such as Common Cause don't want an elected official on the commission.

"They are theorists and not administrators," Kirkpatrick says.

The secretary of state said he resented statements at last weekend's state Republican party meeting in Clayton that his office would be extra diligent in throwing out questionable signatures to prevent the petition backers from reaching the 65,000-signature deadline by 5 p.m. July 5.

Missourians for Honest Elections in Clayton is heading the petition drive.

The group says it will collect signatures only from registered voters. Kirkpatrick says his office will throw out signatures if the signers are not registered. Pending in the state Supreme Court is a case to determine whether petition signers have to be registered.

"One of the first projects when I came into this office was improving the election laws," Kirkpatrick said. "I've been advocating full disclosure for a couple of years, rather than limitations."

Kirkpatrick said his office is studying the petition bill and would issue a full statement on what is found wrong with it.

"The legislature has narrowed the differences and a bill could be passed next year," he said. "We should leave it to the legislature."

"Some legislators may try to amend the bill if the voters approve it," he said, "but I doubt that will happen because it will open

Hospital bomb threat hoax

An anonymous caller telephoned a bomb threat to Missouri Delta Community Hospital at 11:45 a.m. Tuesday.

A search of the building by police and hospital personnel turned up nothing.

The caller telephoned hospital director Harold Jones and said there were three bombs placed in the building. The caller did not say when the bombs were supposed to explode.

Transformer explodes today

A Sikeston Light and Water Co. transformer, located on South Ingram Road near the sewage treatment plant, exploded about 7:50 a.m. today.

The cause of the explosion is unknown and company officials are still unsure of the total damage, according to Dick Inman, director of the Board of Municipal Utilities.

The explosion blew the top off a regulator and created a fault in the power transformer. The unit is being by-passed completely and the area is being serviced by the steam plant.

Inman said his office is trying to locate a new or used transformer as a replacement. A new unit would cost between $65,000 - $85,000.

Firemen extinguished a fire in the unit with dry chemicals.

Dog thieves strike; callers may give clue

Sikeston has been hit recently by a number of dog thefts in which the thieves call the owners and offer to return the dogs for a reward.

The thieves generally steal purebred dogs.

Scott County Deputy Sheriff Bud Jones said today several such thefts have been reported, but he thinks there are many more which have gone unreported.

Jones said if the reward is not paid or contact is not made with the owner, the dogs may either be killed or shipped out of town.

Residents whose dogs is stolen and who receives a call from someone offering to return the dog for a reward should call the police or the sheriff's department, Jones said.

He said they should try to get the caller's name or a time and place for a meeting with the person and then relay that information to police.

Workers return to jobs at Cape, Chaffee plants

CHAFFEE — Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America Union members at Thorngate Ltd. plants in Chaffee and Cape Girardeau returned to work today, ending a two- week strike.

Union members have been participating in an industry- wide strike called June 1 by the men's and boy's field of the AFL-CIO union.

William C. Hall of St. Louis, director of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of American Union St. Louis district joint board, told the Daily Standard today that employes of the plant will be receiving a 30 cent per hour increase which became effective June 10.

According to Hall, an additional 15- cent increase will be granted to employes on Sept. 30. On June 2, 1975 a 27½- cent raise will be issued and May 31, 1976 another 27½- cent increase will be granted.

Hall said that if, during the second and third year of the negotiated contract, the cost of living exceeds the amount agreed upon, a four per cent increase will be granted each one per cent rise in the cost of living.

Changes were also made in the pension and insurance programs, Hall said, and an additional holiday was added.

Dupont urges swimmimg as new school sport

Improvement of the school district's athletic program and inclusion of swimming as a sport were urged by Dr. Jean R. Dupont Tuesday in a speech to the Sikeston R-6 School Board.

Dupont said he was in favor of a joint city- school district swimming proposal that has been studied by the city and school district for three years. The pool would be used during school hours by students and be open to the public at night.

Dupont pointed out that most of America's great swimmers come from small midwestern towns.

Swimming has great health benefits, Dupont said. Swimming and rowing are the best sports for the cardiovascular system and for overall muscle development, he added.

"The exciting thing about swimming is everyone can do it," Dupont said. Unlike football or basketball, swimming requires no special body type for the participant to excell.

Swimming could also become a major spectator sport, Dupont said.

Dupont also suggested the girls' athletics programs be expanded along intermural lines. In all sports except contact sports girls, after puberty, can compete with men, Dupont said.

Swimming would be a major outlet for the girls, he said. He also suggested basketball and track.

In other matters before the board, Supt. Sam Harbin told the board that the district will probably lose $36,000 in state aid because of a decrease of 87 students in the average daily attendance.

Last year the district lost $15,000 because of a decrease of 40 students.

Harbin said the transportation department will show a deficit next year and for several years to come. Next year's deficit will be $9,000, with $4,000 going to gasoline and salaries and a $5,000 paper deficit on bus costs the district cannot get subsidy for.

Harbin said gasoline costs have nearly doubled from 30 cents a gallon to 36 cents. The district uses 80,000 gallons of gasoline a year.

The school system retained its AAA rating, the highest possible, after an inspection by members of the State Department of Education.

Harbin said the inspection report found the school system had three over-crowded classes, was short a guidance counselor, and needed another art teacher and elementary librarian.

However, Harbin said, the system had a better than average response to the

Malden defeats 1-cent sales tax

MALDEN — Voters elected Sparrel Davis as mayor and narrowly defeated the proposed one- cent sales tax in Tuesday's special election.

Davis, who is a former mayor, will fill the unexpired three- year term of G. H. Anderson who resigned May 1 due to ill health. Davis received a total of 707 votes with opponents Les Heise receiving 456 votes and Harold White polling 94 votes.

The proposed one-cent sales tax, which was to provide additional revenue to meet mounting costs of operations, was defeated by only 48 votes as 604 cast votes in favor of the measure and 652 were opposed.

Davis operates an insurance and real estate business and is currently president of the Chamber of Commerce. He was mayor of Malden prior to April 1973 when he was defeated by Anderson in his bid for re-election.

WAS YOUR CAR RECALLED?

More than seven million vehicles were recalled last year by foreign and domestic manufacturers because of defects.

If your car was not one of them, perhaps you would like to know why the others were recalled and how the system works.

The recall campaigns of the manufacturers result from the National Traffic and Motor Vehicle Act passed in 1966. This law requires that manufacturers must notify owners of any safety- related defects found in their vehicles. The requirement covers defects discovered by the manufacturers as well as those found by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

In the annual report for 1973, the U. S. Department of Transporation announced that during the 251 recall campaigns carried out during the past year, 6,667,000 domestic vehicles and 334,000 foreign vehicles were recalled.

There is some consolation in the report that this figure shows a drop of 5,000,000 below the 1972 total.

Twenty- seven of the recall campaigns in the past year were directly connected with the safety defect and standards enforcement investigations of the NHTSA. These 27 recalls involved approximately 4,000,000 vehicles or about 56 per cent of the total number. In 1973, there were more than 1.3 million items of equipment such as tires and child seats recalled.

Although the 1973 figures show a decrease, it is shocking to know that since the law went into effect in 1966, 43.8 million vehicles have been recalled.

The recall campaigns presumably are giving motorists some feeling of security against mechanical defects while also furnishing customers information on which to base their purchase of new equipment. Logically, the law also encourages manufacturers to increase their efforts to remove all defects from their products.

The report, entitled "Motor Vehicle Safety Defect Recall Campaigns," can be purchased for $1.30 from the U. S. Government Printing Office. It contains the models involved, a description of the defects, and the action taken by the manufacturers.

We recommend the report as valuable reading.

AMTRAK ON THE WING

Employes of Amtrak, the federally- subsidized national passenger railroad system, spent more than $600,000 on airplane tickets last year despite the fact that they could have traveled free on Amtrak trains.

According to an Amtrak spokesman, it is company policy that employes are to take trains on business trips, but sometimes other modes are preferable. For instance, it makes little sense for an Amtrak executive to spend three nights and two days taking a train to the West Coast for a one- day meeting, although this has been done.

Also, during the summer and holiday seasons Amtrak trains are full and employes must seek other types of transportation.

Anthony Haswell, chairman of the National Association of Railroad Passengers, agrees that due to time constraints and the sketchy nature of service on many of Amtrak's routes there will have to be some flying by Amtrak employes.

"But my general observation," he says, "is that if responsible Amtrak management officials rode the trains more often, the public would soon get better service. Amtrak's upper management is really very unaware of the situation on the trains they are responsible for running."

Amtrak had 5,384 employes on Dec. 31 and operates an average of 225 passenger trains daily, serving every major city in the United States except Cleveland, Toledo and Des Moines, either directly or through connections with the few remaining non-Amtrak railroads. It is expected to receive a federal subsidy of $155 million in the coming fiscal year.

The Automobile Club of Oregon offers some excellent driving tips in its publications, "The Oregon Motorist": "Had your oil checked lately? Anybody taken a look at your battery recently? How about your radiator and anti-freeze? One result of the long lines at service stations and generally shorter hours of operation has been that service station personnel rarely check the things they used to look after regularly. Thus, says the AAA Auto Club, it behooves the motorist to check these things himself to make sure everything is well under the hood. Here's a list of things that you might check yourself if service stations don't do it for you: Oil level, at least every 1,000 miles. Battery, water level, once a month. Radiator, coolant, every two weeks. Automatic transmission fluid, every 4,000 miles. Fan belts and other belts, for tightness when you check the oil. Windshield- washer fluid, when you check the battery. Tires, check pressure every 1,000 miles. And for good measure, take a walk around the car once in awhile to check lights, stop and turn signals."

NOTHING 'FLIGHTY' ABOUT DIRIGIBLES

An idea whose time may be coming back is the dirigible.

Not those "little" ones of the 1920s and 1930s like Germany's Graf Zeppelin or Hindenburg or America's Akron or Macon but giant airships longer than three city blocks, powered by steam or nuclear engines, with cargoes weighing as much as a million pounds.

The day of the dirigible supposedly ended in the hydrogen fire that destroyed the Hindenburg at Lakehurst, N.J., on May 6, 1937, as it was completing its 37th commercial ocean crossing. But immense advances in technology have been made in the past four decades and engineers are beginning to take a second look at this form of aerial transportation, say scientists Kurt R. Stehling and J. Gordon Vaeth, writing in NOAA, the magazine of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

Among the things the dirigible has going for it, at least theoretically:

— It needs no costly runaways. It can "land" without landing. Passengers could be taken off by means of onboard shuttle helicopters or airplanes; cargo could be winched up and down while the dirigible hovers.

— Using large steam-driven, slow- turning propellers, the dirigible would be exceptionally clean and quiet and have a range of 10,000 miles. With nuclear power, its range would be unlimited.

— Using helium instead of inflammable hydrogen and with radar and the ability to fly around or over storms, it could be as safe and reliable as the modern jet liner.

— The dirigible is attractive, also, in light of the energy crisis. Because its lifting gas is what enables it to fly , it needs propulsive power only to move it through the air. Thus its energy needs are remarkably low.

A dirigible of the 1970s would not simply be an enlarged version of the 1930s model. Utilizing recent advances in propulsion, materials, guidance, navigation and electronics, it would be on the order of 25 million cubic feet (the Hindenburg was seven million) with a prestressed metallic or plastic skin and a minimum of internal girderwork. Such as a vehicle, capable of 100 to 150 miles an hour, and measuring something like a thousand feet long and 300 feet in diameter, would have a useful lift of 400 to 500 tons.

The slow- moving dirigible could not compete with the jet, of course. Rather, it would be a luxury liner of the skies, carrying 200 to 500 passengers in stateroom comfort on leisurely sightseeing cruises, able to pause in mid-air for close-up views of spectacular scenery through picture windows.

It would also have more practical uses: As a scientific platform for studying the earth, as a pollution monitor, as a transporter of perishable foodstuffs, as an emergency relief vehicle carrying great quantities of aid to disaster areas. An aerial version of the medical ship HOPE could go places where the HOPE cannot go.

The first step, however, should be construction of a training airship of perhaps three million cubic feet to develop the critical piloting and ground- handling skills required. This scaled- down craft, which would also serve as a flying testbed for developmental items, might be put in the air in two years at a cost of $50 million.

It, and the larger ships that would follow, could be built in the 13 airship hangers still standing in the United States.

Is it possible that the dream vehicle of tomorrow may not be the supersonic transport or the rocket but the dirigible? There's increasing reason to believe that it may, say the authors.

Learn to like what doesn't cost much.

Learn to like reading, conversation, music.

Learn to like plain food, plain service, plain cooking.

Learn to like fields, trees, woods, brooks, fishing, rowing, hiking.

Learn to like life for its own sake.

Learn to like people, even though some of them may be as different from you as a Chinese.

Learn to like to work and enjoy the satisfaction of doing your job as well as it can be done.

Learn to like the song of the birds, the compansionship of dogs, and laughter and gaiety of children.

Learn to like gardening, carpentering, puttering around the house, the law, and the automobile.

Learn to like the sunrise and sunset, the beating of rain on roof and windows and the gentle fall of snow on a winter day.

Learn to keep your wants simple. Refuse to be owned and anchored by things and the opinions of others.

WHAT ABOUT OUR ALLY OPPRESSORS?

By Don Oakley

At about the same time as Russian author Aleksandr Solzhenitsyn was under seige in his Moscow apartment and the world waited to see what punishment the Kremlin was planning for him, a score or more of dissidents in another country were under arrest for the same crime — daring to speak out for human liberty.

Solzhenitsyn's travail and his subsequent exile from his totalitarian home made headlines in the Western press. The fate of the dissidents in supposedly democratic South Korea was reported in the back pages, if at all.

In January, some 19 persons were arrested in South Korea for violating two emergency decrees issued by President Chung Hee Park forbidding opposition to the 1972 constitution which was promulgated under martial law and ratified without debate in a national election. The new constitution gives virtually unlimited powers to the president.

In early February, five South Korean literary figures were arrested as "spies" for North Korea because they called for revision of the constitution. Since then, seven university students have been given five-to-10 year sentences; a publisher and former member of the national assembly has drawn a 15 - year sentence and numerous prominent citizens have been put under investigation as espionage suspect.

Most recently, four Christian clergymen were sentenced to 15- year prison terms for defying the presidential ban on criticism of the constitution.

None of these people, of course, is a famous, Nobel Prize-winnign author, and South Korea is a small country that counts for little in international affairs— although only two decades ago the United States expended billions of dollars and the lives of 50,000 of its sons to secure that nation's independence.

Nor is what has happened to democracy in South Korea greatly different from the situation in Greece, which gave the word democracy to the language, or in South Vietnam where, despite even greater American sacrifice and continuing financial and military support, anyone daring to criticize the regime - even from the highest patriotic motives— is swiftly sent to join the many thousands of political dissidents cramming that country's prosions and detention camps.

During the time that Solzhenitsyn's future remained in doubt, there were any number of calls, some of them heard in the halls of Congress, for the United States to use what leverage it had with the Kremlin on this brave man's behalf. Fortunately for the sake of "detente," the necessity did not arise.

But indeed, how could we have presumed to speak in defense of freedom in Soviet Russia when we seen unable, or unwilling, to use our vastly greater influence over certain of our allies where governmnet oppression is no less an affront to human dignity?

CANNED MUSHROOMS ARE CALLED SAFE

In response to consumer inquiries, stemming from recent recalls of canned nushrooms, the American Mushroom Institute has issued the flollowing advisory:

The botulism problems which have been associated with canned mushrooms cannot possibly develop in fresh mushrooms, or any other fresh vegetable. A botulin toxin is only produced when the organisms can grow in the absence of air, such as a sealed, airtight can.

Thus, as the Food and Drug Adminsitration stated recently, "No health problems have developed from fresh, frozen or dehydrated mushrooms."

Canned mushrooms have been produced for over 50 years and in the last decade alone, 2½ billion cans of them have been marketed with no record of illness resulting from eating them.

WITH KNOWLEDGE AND CANDOR

A congressional hearing on the energy situation has produced some unusually blunt testimony from highly authoritative sources-- a spokesman and a naval officer widely credited with being the "Father" of the nuclear submarine.

The latter, Admiral H. G. Rickover, called for a tax penalty on families with more than four children as a way of conserving power. He also said that builders should be encouraged to use natural lighting, drivers of high-powered cars should be taxed extra, and families should be required to pay extra taxes for buying a second car, etc. He added that the American people do not have a "realistic picture of the energy problem..." The Admiral said the country must choose between curtailing power usage or going nuclear.

A top government official, Treasury Secretary John Connally expressed a similar opinion. He advocated using untapped energy resources to keep vital domestic industries operating rather than increasing the nation's importation of fuel. He criticized "over-zealous" conservationists for blocking the search for more domestic energy sources. He placed the blame for a possible but avoidable energy crisis on such ecological tactics.

The testimony of these experts is refreshing. No miracle environmental solutions were demanded of power companies, nor was the investor-owned electric industry chosen as an environmental scapegoat merely for endeavoring to do its job of meeting the vital energy needs of a growing nation-- a nation that would be faced with catastrophe, both economically and environmentally, if there is failure to meet basic energy requirements.

"He said a big bear was going to get me."

"That's nonsence. There are no bears within a hundred miles of this house. Go back to sleep like a good boy."

This time dad took the stairs two at a time. It sounded serious.

SURVEY SHOWS CONTROLS ARE FUELING INFLATION

Price and wage controls are not only failing to contain inflation, but they are helping to fuel its fires, a recent comprehensive survey of manufacturers by the National Association of Manufacturers revealed.

The survey results showed that controls are hurting capital expenditures, causing shortages of products and raw materials, damaging for foreign trade, lowering corporate outlays, furthering inflation, and adding to the costs of consumer products.

The survey was sent to approximately 2,300 firms, and some 23 per cent responded.

Highlights of the survey disclosed:

Almost two out of three companies indicated that removal of price controls would encourage them to increase their productive capacity.

Approximately 50 per cent of all firms acknowledging cutbacks indicated that production was interrupted or curtailed because of the unavailability of raw materials.

A total of 89.1 per cent of small firms (under $50 million in annual revenues) and 97 per cent of large firms reported that they have experienced unusual difficulty in obtaining their requirements of important materials or supplies.

The largest single factor contributing to the supply shortage situation has been the price control program itself.

Some 45 per cent of the firms said controls are damaging the United States competitive position in foreign trade, and 85 per cent of the firms responding to the survey said that there would be a serious worsening of shortages if controls are continued.

More than half of the respondents said that controls did not reduce the level of inflation. More than three-quarters of the small firms feel that, in the long run, consumers will end up paying more for products on account of controls. This view was expressed by 87 per cent of the large companies.

TAKING STOCK

Immense changes have swept across our country during the past 20 years. In fact, it would be hard for a citizen of 1954 -- who had fallen asleep like Rip Van Winkle and only woke up again today -- to recognize where he was.

The principal architects of these changes have been men and women who believe in change with an almost religious fervor. Change, to them is good for its own sake, regardless of where it leads. Yet perhaps the time has come for others not so bemused to take stock and see where all of this has led us.

Are we really a stronger, sounder, happier nation than we were twenty years ago? Have the glowing promises of the world- changers been fulfilled? Is there more brotherhood of man, less suffering and anger, more hope and understanding of truth, than there was 20 years ago?

It would seem that almost any fair- minded man must admit that the answer to all of these questions is "no." Reasonable men may differ over how good the United States of the early 1950s really was. Certainly it had its evils. But it is hard to see how anyone can now seriously maintain that the United States of 1974 is better.

It was these twenty years which were dominated by people who were sure they could make us better through the vast changes they brought about. It is their leadership which has brought us to today's difficult and deeply trouble times. By their own standards, their leadership has failed. A wholly new leadership is badly needed. HLH

Washington-Merry-Go-Round

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
Agnew's Commerce Contact

WASHINGTON — In his fall from power, Spiro Agnew left behind a valuable contact who is now helping him find business deals.

The former Vice President during his glory days arranged a job for one of his supporters, Tilton H. Dobbin, as Assistant Commerce Secretary in charge of domestic and international business. This has put Dobbin in touch with some of the world's most powerful businessmen. Inside sources say he has used his position to open doors for the deposed Agnew.

A forlorn figure, Agnew has lost his political career. He has been disbarred from practicing law. The Internal Revenue Service is squeezing him for back taxes. The Justice Department is considering a suit to recover the bribe money allegedly paid him while he was a government official. Some firebrands at Justice even want to sue to recover his vice-presidential salary.

Agnew tried to raise money by writing a novel. But after the reviews appeared, this no longer seemed a promising career. Almost in desperation, he turned to wheeling and dealing.

He has just returned from a swing through the Middle East in search of deals. He visited his Greek homeland, Amman and Beirut, and then hit the petroleum capitals, Tehran and Kuwait.

The former Vice President still had enough political glamor to gain audiences with the Crown Prince in Jordan and the shah in Iran. But Agnew's main stop, in Saudi Arabia, had to be cancelled because his wife became ill.

On the business side, according to our sources, Dobbin helped pave the way. He admitted to us that he does financial favors for his former mentor. Agnew has called on him, Dobbin said, to "get a rundown on a person or a company or to do a bank or credit check."

But Dobbin denied that he arranged business contacts for Agnew on his latest odyssey. "I didn't even know he was going until I read about it."

CUTTING CORNERS: Under pressure from House Speaker Carl Albert, Small Business Administrator Tom Kleppe violated regulations to bail out an electronics firm from Albert's home state of Oklahoma.

The struggling company, Oklahoma Aerotronics, didn't qualify for a minority- business government contract The firm also had money problems, not the least of which was a negative worth of $900,000.

"To place contracts with Oklahoma Aerotronics under existing conditions," Kleppe notified the Speaker on August 17, 1971, "we would have to violate Federal Regulations and our National Directive."

Nevertheless, Albert called Kleppe up to Capitol Hill for a personal meeting and repeated his hope that Kleppe "could find some way" to provide the electronics firm with minority-business help.

Despite the federal regulations, Kleppe caved in. He dispatched an aide to Oklahoma with orders to make the company fit the requirements, cosmetically if not legally.

Not long afterwards, Oklahoma Aerotronics got its minority- business approval and landed a whopping $4 million worth of contracts.

Footnote: Albert told us he had relied upon an aide who had handled the Oklahoma Aerotronics case for him. The Speaker said he didn't intentionally seek to run roughshod over federal regulations. An SBA spokesman said that the company became qualified in October of 1971 when a majority control was transferred to an employe trust.

MILITARY SPENDING: The idea that boosting military spending creates jobs and is good for the economy, according to an unreleased report, is a myth.

On the contrary, for every billion dollars spent by the Pentagon, the nation actually loses 20,000 jobs. This is the finding of a four- month study by the Public Interest Research Group in Michigan, a Ralph Nader offshoot headquartered in Lansing.

The researchers, directed by Marion Anderson, used the government's own figures and found that the Pentagon generates fewer jobs per billion dollars than any other form of private or government spending with the single exception of the space program.

Translating these statistics into jobs, the researchers discovered there is a net loss in employment when money is spent for military purposes, as compared with civilian spending or spending by state and local governments.

The average Pentagon budget of $80 billion, the study alleges, results in the loss of at least 1,600,000 jobs each year across the nation.

The logical conclusion, therefore, is that the economy would benefit from a slash in the military budget. "It would make no difference," the study states, "whether the cut was all in defense contracts going to civilian industry or military personnel going to state and local governments, the trade-off would still mean a net increase of jobs for the economy."

Footnote: A Pentagon economist acknowledged that the "arithmetic" used by the research group was good but argued that the statistics didn't support the conclusions. "About the only thing you can conclude from these figures," he said, "is that employes of state and local governments and in the civilian economy earn smaller salaries than do defense workers." The figures don't "realistically reflect" what would happen, he said, if highly skilled defense workers were let off as a result of the

NEW MADRID — Revocation of probation for two men was ordered Tuesday by Circuit Judge William L. Ragland who granted probation to a third man and suspended sentencing against another on criminal charges.

Probation was revoked for Harold Ray Smith of Sikeston who was sentenced March 16, 1973 to two years in the custody of the Department of Corrections on a forgery charge. Smith is to serve his two- year sentence consecutively with a sentence imposed against him in Scott County.

He was accused of forging the signature of Al Skinner to a $35 check on Jan. 17, 1973 and cashing it at the Sikeston IGA Foodliner.

A warrant was ordered for the arrest of Marvin Lee Edwards of Lilbourn upon revocation of his probation. He was sentenced May 14 to two years on a forgery charge and place on supervised probation. He has failed to report to the probation officer since then. Edwards was charged with forging the signature of Jim Doster to a $73 check.

Probation without supervision was granted Ricky Walker when he received a two- year sentence on a cheat and defraud charge. Walker was accused of writing a $15 check on April 12, 1972 to Taylor's MFA Service Station whrn he had no bank account.

Sentencing was suspended against Charles M. Sisco of Sikeston and he was placed on probation for two years. He was charged with tampering with a motor vehicle on May 28 by removing a tire rim from a vehicle owned by Sikeston Motor Co.

A decree of annulment was granted to Shelby Jean Hamlett West of Holcomb Route One against Larry Wendell West and 10 other decrees for dissolvement of marriages were granted.

Marriages dissolved included: Shirley Irene Haynie of Morehouse and Michael Draton Haynie. Custody of one child and $159 per month for child support were awarded to Mrs. Haynie. Delois J. Gowan and Harold D. Gowan of Portageville, with Mrs. Gowan receiving custody of two children and $75 per month per child for support; Troy Wayne Davidson of Portageville Route Two and Olene Davidson with Mrs. Davidson restored to her former name of Cochran.

Richard W. Trum of New Madrid and Rebecca B. Trum with custody of two children awarded to Trum; Janice Marlene Jackson of New Madrid and Teddy Lee Jackson. Mrs. Jackson was awarded custody on one child and household furnishings.

Glenda Faye Hornburg Lawrence of New Madrid was restored to her maiden name of Hornberg and received household furnishings when her marriage to Charles Junior Lawrence was dissolved. Dorothy Mae Mims of Gideon and Carl Raymond Mims marriage was dissolved with Mrs. Mims receiving custody of four children.

Charlotte Faye Hagan of Parma and Clarence Dickie Hagan with custody of one child awarded to Mrs. Hagan; Junior Arvil Weaver of Malden Route One and Nancy Kay Weaver. Judy Ann Boldt of New Madrid and James Albert Boldt with custody of two children awarded to Mrs. Boldt and $25 per week for each child for support.

By stipulation, a $2,717.15 judgment for damages in a condemantion suit filed by Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. was awarded to Mary Marguerite Stites, E. M. Stites, Nancy Hutson, John W. Hutson II and Willie Shaw.

Jack W. Hunt was granted a $6,146 judgment in a note suit against L. B.and Virginia Wolfe.

A change of venue to Cape Girardeau County was ordered in a personal injuries damage suit filed by Alvin Wesley Hicks and Betty Hicks against Jerry Lee Williams and Olen Burrage Trucking Co.

Boy hurt when he runs into auto

David C. Mitchell, two-year-old son of Mr.and Mrs. Jim Mitchell, 230 Harry St., was slightly injured about 9:30 p.m. Tuesday when he ran into the side of a car on Garwood Street.

He was treated for scrapes and bruises at Missouri Delta Community Hospital and released.

Police said the boy ran into the side of a car being driven westbound on Garwood by Darlene Lynda Stevens, 27, of 517 Coleman St.

The boy reportedly darted into the street from the side of the road and hit the left front of the car.

Police said no arrests were made.

Scottish Scout plans summer at Lewallen

SILVA — Boy Scouts at Camp Lewallen this summer will have an opportunity to meet Ronald Cresswell from Falkirk, Scotland when camp opens Sunday.

Cresswell arrived in Cape Girardeau recently after a 26-hour bus ride from New York City. About 200 counselors arrived in New York by plane to visits summer camps in the United States. He will serve as a camping skills counselor for the seven- week camping period and will take part in the week long canoe trip at the end of the camping sesson.

Cresswell, 18, was a Cub Scout and a Boy Scout for 6 years. He served as patrol leader and earned the first class badge. He now attends Falkirk Technical College where he is studying accounting.

Twenty- nine staff members are employed by the Southeast Missouri Boy Scout Council of CapeGirardeau to work with scoutmasters who bring their troops to camp. More than 850 campers are expected this year in the 65 troops that have made reservations.

Gene Cook, principal of Marquand School, has been employed as camp director and Fred French of Sikeston, is the professional camp staff advisor.

2 injured in auto accident near Piedmont

PIEDMONT — Two persons were injured in a one- car accident at 9:45 p.m. Tuesday eight miles west of Piedmont on Lake Road No. 3, the highway patrol reported today.

The accident occurred when Timonty Howard Watson, 16, of Ironton swerved his car to avoid hitting a dog. The car slid off the road and struck a tree.

Watson and a passenger, Earl Duane Jones, 17, of Middlebrook, received minor injuries and were taken to Wayne County Medical Center in Piedmont.

Fire damages Jackson home

EAST PRAIRIE — A fire at 10:12 p.m. Tuesday heavily damaged the six-room frame home of the Hershel Jackson family at 508 C St.

The fire, of undetermined origin, began in the utility room where it was confined.

Fire Chief Frank King said the utility room and adjoining bathroom were heavily damaged by the fire. Smoke and water damage was reported to the remainder of the home.

Cunningham is arrested for theft in Miner

Kenneth Allen Cunningham, 18, of 234 Dorothy St., was arrested at 12:05 a.m. today by Miner City Marshal Andy Freeman and his deputy Glen Alsup for allegedly siphoning gasoline out of a pick-up truck.

Freeman and Alsup staked out Leible Implement Co. and C & S Ford Tractor Inc. on Highway 62 East, after someone had stolen gasoline from the companies three or four times in the past four weeks.

Freeman said he and Alsup arrested Cunningham after they watched him begin siphoning gasoline from a pick-up parked behind the Leible Implement Co.

Ann Landers

Girl has mixed-up feelings for Dad

Dear Ann Landers: Why my mother and father got married in the first place is beyond me. How they stuck it out for 14 years is even a bigger mystery. I am the product of that unhappy marriage.

Two years ago my mother met and married a widower. He is a fabulous person and he and Mom are crazy about each other. My friends love to come to our house and listen to him play the guitar. Everyone thinks he's the greatest.

I should be happy, but I'm terribly mixed up about my feelings regarding my real father. I love him, I think -- or am I just saying I do because I'm ashamed that I don't?

Whenever I go to visit him he sits there with a three- day beard, dirty shirt and a can of beer in his hand. All he can talk about is how much rotten luck he has had. I get sick to my stomach listening to him complain. Actually he disgusts me.

Am I a bad daughter because I hate to go see my father? I make myself go because I know I'll feel guilty if I don't.

Is it normal to feel disgust for your own flesh and blood? Or maybe what I really want is for you to tell me it would be O.K. if I stopped seeing the self- pitying slob. Straighten me out, Ann. I'm a - Mixed Up Kid

Dear Kid: You are torn by conflicting emotions. Your feelings of loyalty for your dad are pitted against the disgust you describe, which is understandable Then there's the guilt that haunts you because you feel deep down that children should love their parents.

The candor with which you write indicates you are an honest girl who wants to do the right thing. My advice is to keep seeing your dad, even though he disgusts you. Try to substitute some of your negative feelings with compassion and understanding. He knows he's a slob and a weakling and I'm sure his life is empty and he's leading a miserable existence.

It might help you to reconcile your conflicting emotions if you had a little counseling. I recommend it.

Dear Ann Landers: My boyfriend and I plan to get married soon. We've been dating steady for two years. Some serious questions have come up about our wedding ceremony.

Roy believes in God, but he doesn't believe in preachers. He thinks we sould go to a chapel and be married by God. We would each have a witness and write our own marriage vows. There would be no license or legal papers signed, but God would know we were married.

When I told Roy I didn't think I would be confortable with this sort of marriage, he said we could have a legal ceremony three months later if I still felt the same way. I really love this guy, but I'm beginning to wonder about his love for me.

My best friend says he is a jerk and that he just wants to shack up for awhile. What do you think, Ann Landers? -- Doubtful In Davenport love is ...

Dear Doubtful: I think your best friend has things pretty well figured out. I hope you will listen to her. God has nothing against legal ceremonies, and believe me, those are the best kind.

Seminar leader says yes to sex

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (AP) — Sex after 60? At least twice a week for longer, happier and healthier lives, says a leader of a seminar on the sexual behavior of the elderly.

"It is completely normal for men in their 70s or 80s to be capable of normal, pleasurable sexual relations, and for their partners to respond equally as well," says Helen Parsons, a social worker who leads a series of seminars on the concerns of senior citizens.

But most elderly people repress their instincts because of the "puritanical attitude of society which makes the public think that older people don't have sexual desires," Mrs. Parsons said.

About 30 persons attended a recent seminar that was advertised throughout the city. Many senior-citizen clubs refused to listen to "such dirty things," she said.

"It is terribly wrong what society has done," said Mrs. Parsons. "Of course sexual desires and ability for sexual intercourse live in every man and woman — regardless of their age."

One elderly woman blushed daintily and rushed out of the room when she discovered the topic to be discussed was sex.

Society's adulation of youth, dirty-old-men jokes and the snickers that accompany news that an elderly man has wed a woman less than half his age reinforce guilt older people have toward sex, Mrs. Parsons said.

Sexual inhibitions in older people are strengthened by other impediments to an active sex life, she added.

There aren't enough elderly men to go around, she pointed out, because men tend to marry women younger than themselves. She said 57 per cent of those over 65 are women and two-thirds of the women are widows.

Many of those widows never have sex after their husbands die because they feel guilty about pursuing a man, she said.

A lack of privacy also hampers sexuality, Mrs. Parsons said. Nursing home patients can't visit privately with their spouses. And many older couples live with their children or grandchildren and don't have many chances to be alone.

STREAKING is not confined solely to running in one's altogether. General Electric publicist Debbie Rawlings did some streaking recently to illustrate the brilliance of a new lightbulb that burns Krypton gas rather than the usual Argon gas which is not as bright. Debbie wielded the 50 watt bulb, as brilliant as most ordinary 75 watt bulbs (at left), as a time-elapsed photograph showed her "streaking" across the stage to dramatize the new bulb. Apparently Krypton has another purpose besides serving as the birthplace of Superman.

Bussey home reflects friendly personalities

Spending an afternoon with Mrs. Henry (Lila) Bussey, interior decorator, turned out to be a highlight and quite an adventure for this reporter, when I ventured last week to the newly- redecorated Bussey home at 407 S. Kingshighway.

Not knowing the type of work Mrs. Bussey did, I felt like I was stepping out of reality into the types of pictures one sees in magazines; a world of color, furnishings and friendliness everyone strives to achieve in his own home, no matter how big or how small.

Mrs. Bussey has been in the interior decorating business before in Memphis, Tenn., but when she and her husband moved to Sikeston, she wasn't really wanting to go into a business here, but she began helping some of her new and close friends to "redo" their homes and word spread faster than she realized it would.

The Busseys have remodeled the old Kendall Sikes home into quite a showplace. The house, known once as Sikeston Tourist Center, was like a hotel and housed 22 men ... in 22 separate sleeping rooms. That meant a lot of work tearing down walls and partitions to make rooms suitable for their family.

The Busseys haven't done a lot of entertaining yet in their new home, but plan to as soon as the remodeling is finished, "There are some little things yet I want to finish and I want to make sure I'm satisfied with the rooms as they are before we open our doors," Mrs. Bussey said.

The thing to keep in mind when decorating, whether it's her own home or someone else's, is to make the home radiate with the family's personality(ies), she said. The furniture and even appliances should reflect the kind of life the family leads, and the kitchen should be made simple and allow the "chief cook and bottle washer" to move freely and fast.

Pictures abound on the walls of the Bussey home, and in the main hall is a built-in wall unit which houses intercoms throughout the house, AM and FM radios and a small tape recorder unit for leaving messages.

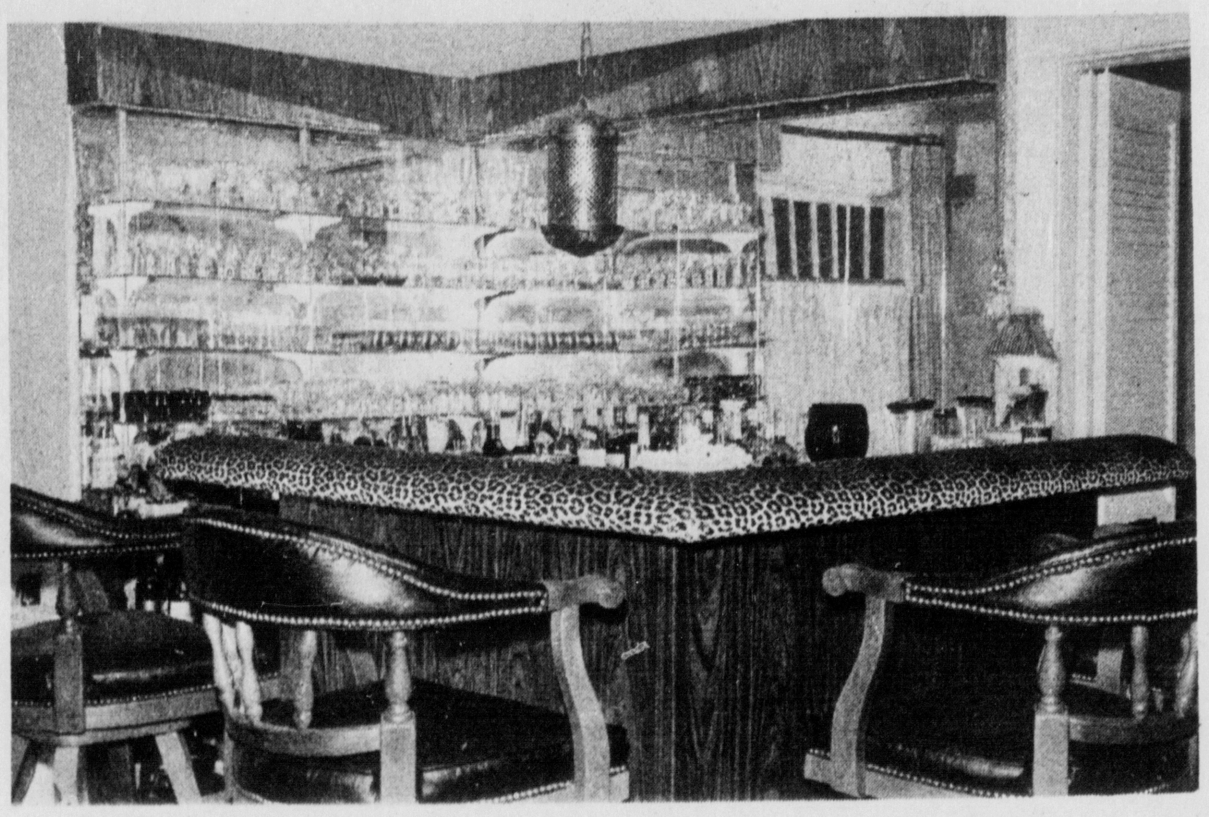
The Busseys haven't finished their formal living room yet, but Mrs. Bussey has a small room downstairs she especially likes to relax in which is lined with family pictures (why take them if you aren't going to use them, and the couple has a family room upstairs next to their bedroom.

The four bathrooms were remodeled, but as Mrs. Bussey explained, remodeling was done around the original pipes so that fewer walls and floors would have to be disturbed.

The entrance hall has a small garden to its right, underneath the stairway, and off of the couple's bedroom upstairs is a small porch which they enjoy when the weather is nice. There is also an efficiency kitchen upstairs so that "running up and down isn't necessary ... and it would be in a house this size," Mrs. Bussey explained.

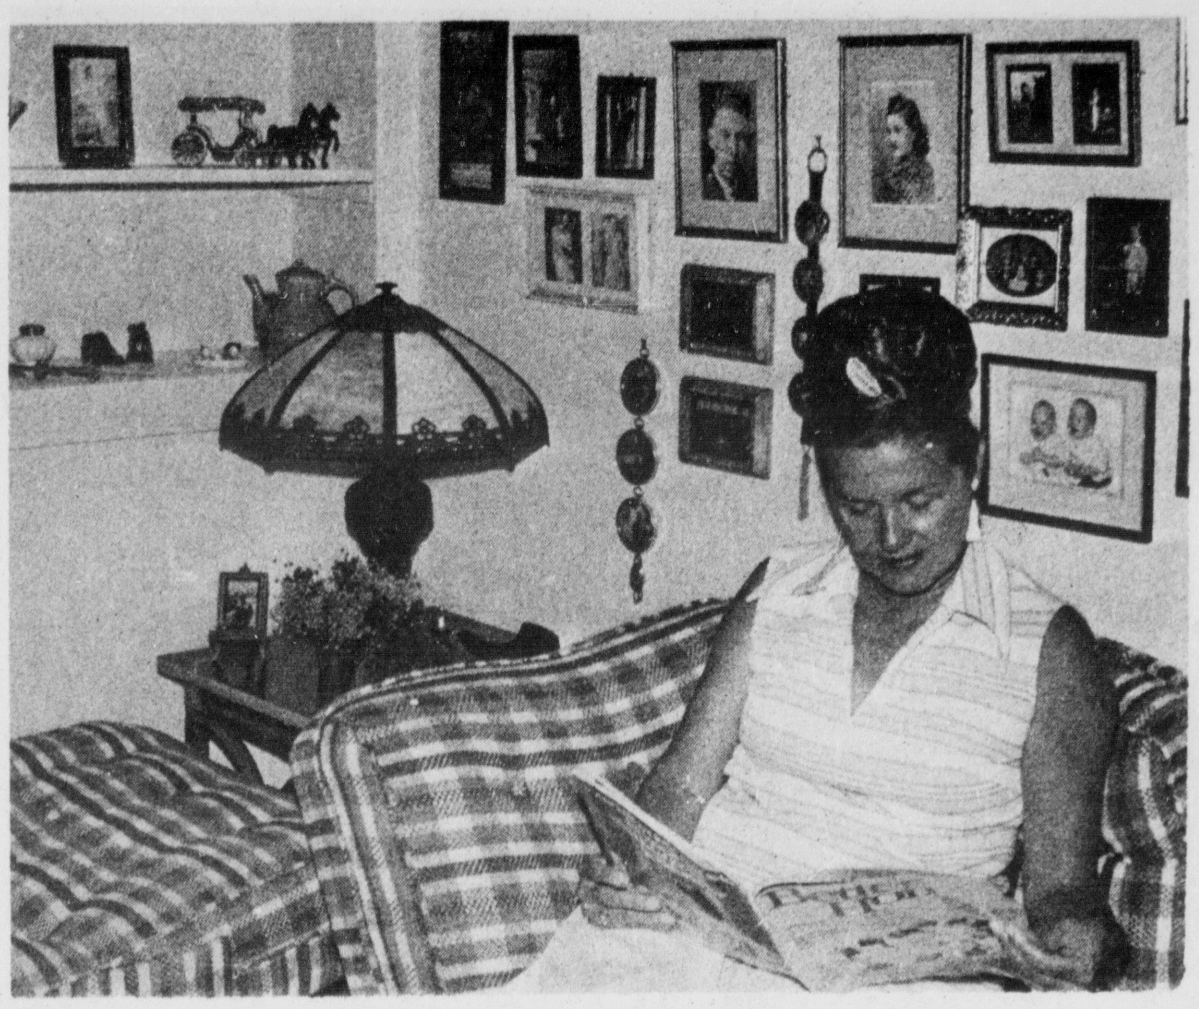
A fireplace was moved from one of the bedrooms into the dining room "where it would be enjoyed more"; and a butler's stairway, located inside the back door of the house, was remodeled and lighted so that it could be frequently used.

In all, the house truly personifies the friendly and warm personalities of the Busseys, and is definitely one of thy most beautiful homes in Southeast Missouri.



Upstairs bar centers hallway

This unique bar, commonly referred to as the "golden hour bar" because of two giant hourglasses, is located upstairs in the Bussey home.



Mrs. Bussey relaxes in "her" room

Mrs. Henry Bussey relaxes in a small room downstairs where she is among family pictures and momentos.

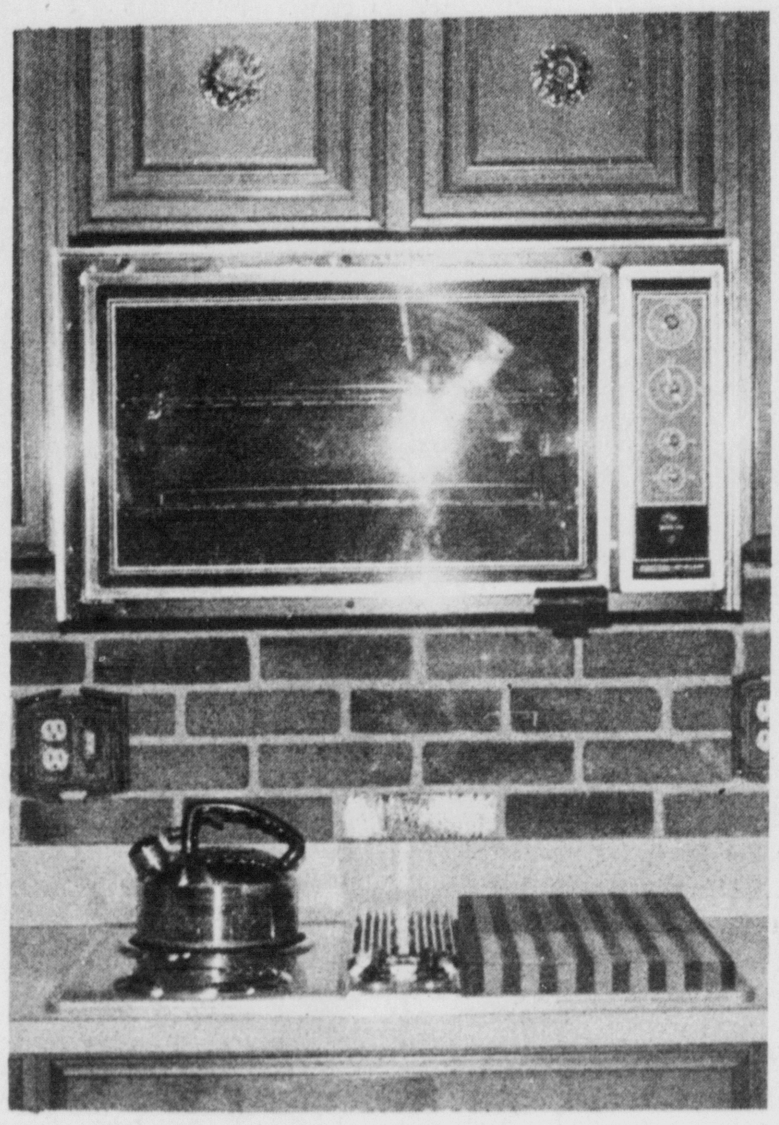
Stone walls and handles

Stone walls surround a bathtub in one of the upstairs baths. The tub features handles on either side for ease in entering or leaving the tub.



Stove features charcoal grill

Kitchen appliances in the Bussey home include this charcoal grill (under wooden block on bottom right) on which one can grill steaks, hamburgers, etc., without the mess of an outdoors grill, and with no lingering odors indoors.

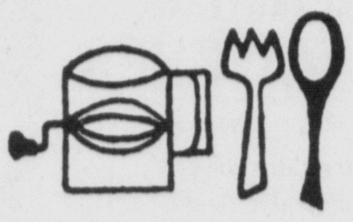
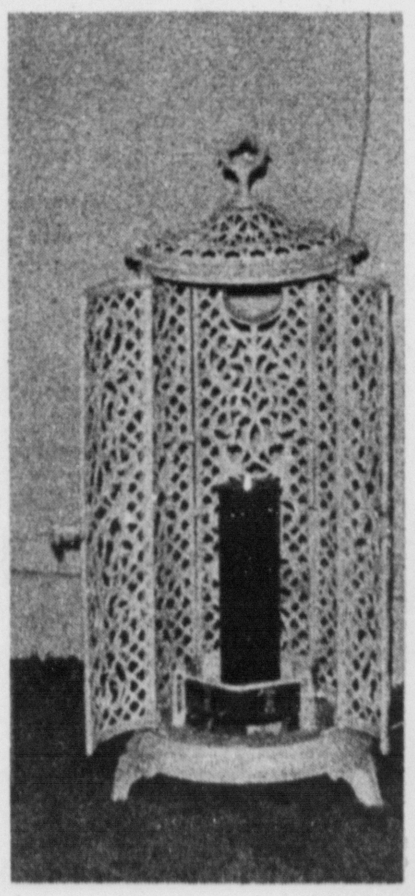
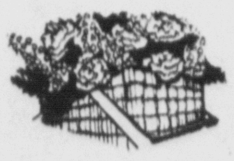
This table, located in one of the upstairs bedrooms, has a gingham cloth and is covered with momentos from the Busseys' pasts. One rather unusual attraction is a pair of reading glasses (on top of Bible) which belonged to Mrs. Bussey's brother when he was three years of age.

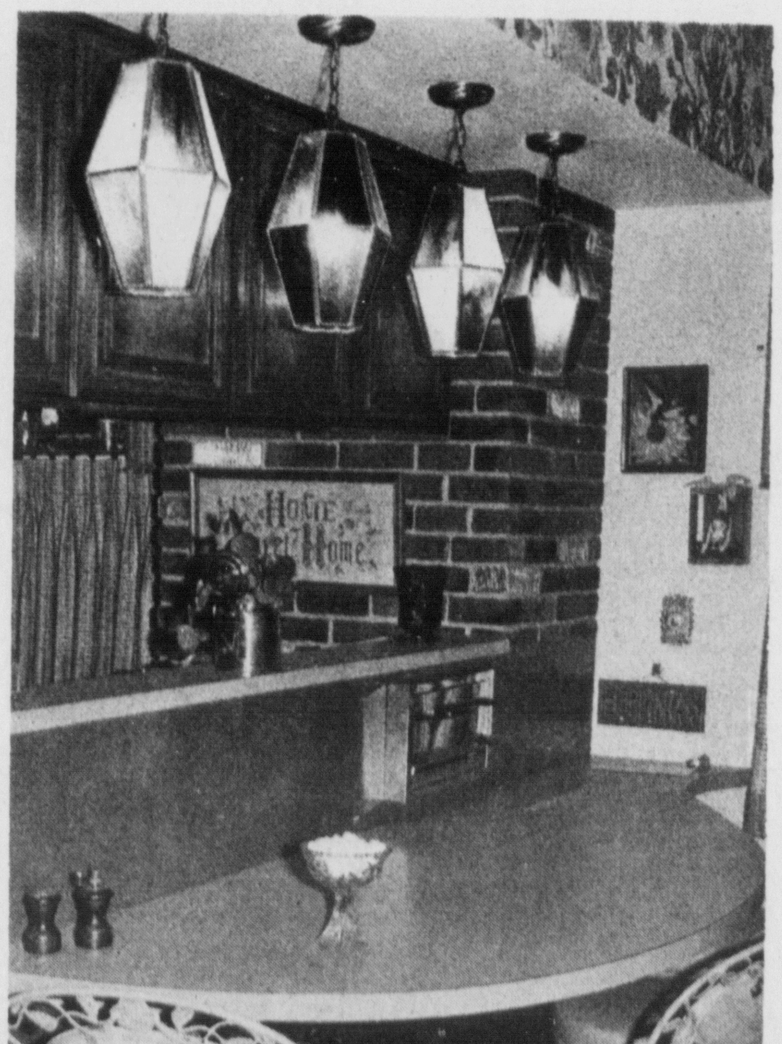




English stove redone

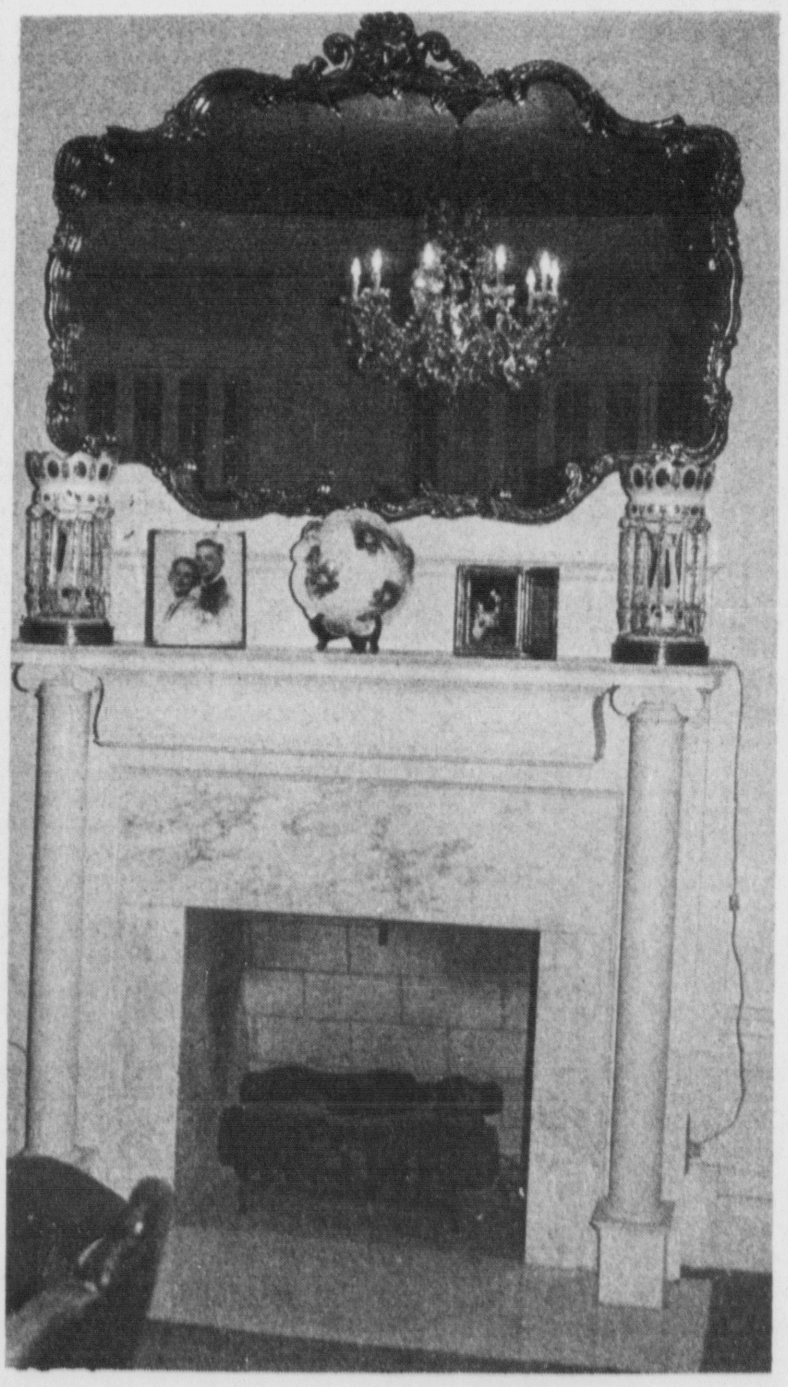
An old English stove sits in the family room of the Henry Bussey home and is often the topic of conversation. The stove uses a candle inside and years ago was used to keep hands warm on chilly nights.





Kitchen bar is unusual

Among unusual features in the Henry Bussey home is this semi-circular bar which swings out as it meets the wall. Gayly lit lamps, wrought iron chairs and a built-in toaster (center of the bar over the table, are also unusual. Mrs. Bussey feels kitchens should reflect the tastes of individual families.



Dining room is formal

The Bussey dining room is quite formal with its chandelier and fireplace. The fireplace was removed from one of the home's bedrooms and placed where the family could better enjoy it.

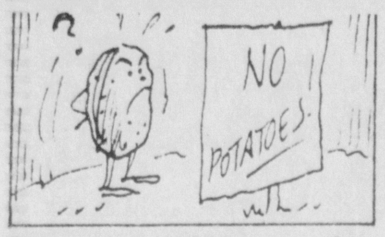
Charleston approves waste plan



Potatoes in 1728 were forbidden by law in Scotland because the potato was an unholy plant of the nightshade family and not mentioned in the Bible.

CHARLESTON — An ordinance setting the city's tax levy at $1.50 per $100 assessed valuation for 1974-75 was adopted Tuesday night by the City Council and resolutions pertaining to a solid waste disposal plan, the 1974 street paving program and the Neighborhood Development Program were approved.

The adopted $1.50 tax levy, five cents lower than the 1973-74 levy, will be distributed to the following funds: $1 to general revenue fund; 30 cents to the public improvement fund and the remaining 20 cents to the water and sewer extension bond fund.

A resolution calling for the adoption of an ordinance for a solid waste disposal plan to be in operation by Sept. 1 was approved. In the proposed plan, cost for the trash collection service to residents was estimated at $2.50 to $4.50 per month with billing to be included on the water and sewer bills. The city will collect fees.

The council agreed that if the service is contracted and not handled by the city, a three- year contract should be given. Under a state law the proposed plan must be filed with the state by June 30 and the city is responsible for providing a refuse collection service by July 1. If the city operates the service, it must be in operation within six months after July 1 and if contracted, it must be in operation 60 to 90 days after July 1.

The council also approved a resolution calling for paving of portions of Cleveland, Bondurant, Danforth, Virginia and Fassett streets and Byrd Avenue. A separate resolution for the paving of Green Street from south of Lafayette Street to south of the center of line of the railroad was also approved. The city will pay any excess costs over $5.85 per front foot for the paving on Green Street.

Also approved was a resolution endorsing an application for a $98,050 grant for the extension of the Neighborhood Development Program. The application will be made by the Land Clearance for Redevelopment Authority to the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development and Upon approval and funding, will cover the period of July 1 to Dec. 31 for five areas outside the urban renewal area.

City Manager Willis Downs informed the council that the city has received a report from the State Division of Health and the Clean Water Commission on the water treatment facilities. Downs said about 35 recommendations for improvement were listed in the report, but that many of the problems were minor and the city crew is now in the process of making corrections.

Sandblasting and repainting of the sewer plant building and equipment was discussed. Downs told the council he had a cost estimate of $1,900 from Adams and McCord Painting Contractors of Dexter for the job. The council voiced the opinion that the cost was too high and instructed Downs to contract L. D. Davis of East Prairie Lumber Co. about using his sandblaster for the job with the city crew providing the labor.

Following discussion on the sale of a portion of A. D. Simpson Park on south Main Street to Lou Moore, the council decided not to sell the property and agreed the city should not consider selling any portion of the park to any other interested persons unless other property was available for relocation.

Downs reported that the mobile home owned by Carl Cates, located in Hill House Park, had been placed in the lowest part of the park and must be moved since problems with standing water were occurring and the septic tank was not working properly. Downs also said that vandalism in the Hill House Park was down since the home had been set up.

Police Chief Bob Ritchey informed the council that he had received a request from the superintendent of the State Highway Department and the construction contractor, for assistance in keeping cars off the overpass at the east city limits where construction of Interstate 57 is underway.

Following discussion, the council instructed the city attorney to draw up an ordinance prohibiting automobiles on construction areas until it is open to the public. It was agreed that city police should cooperate if adequate barricades were erected and proper signs put up so that traffic could be re- routed at Gilmore Street. At present many motorists are not aware that HIghway 61, near the Interstate 57 overpass, is closed and are using private drives in which to turn around.

Charles Williams, co-owner of Sparks Funeral Home Inc., asked the council if it would be receptive to modification of a city zoning ordinance, in which the funeral home could be relocated in a residential area. Williams said the funeral home would be moved about 50 feet from its present location on South Locust Street. Williams was told the council would be receptive to a special use zoning ordinance if it was approved by the planning and zoning commission.

The resignation of Mrs. Louise Cope, who has been employed as city clerk for five years, was accepted effective July 15. The council agreed to pay Mrs. Cope her accumulated sick leave and two weeks vacation.

Following the council meeting, the liquor committee approved issuance of the following licenses: Grace Layton, five per cent beer license for The Bootheel Lounge; Alvina Stader, package liquor license for the Highway Market; Wilbur French, five per cent beer license for Budweiser Cafe; Ray Bruenderman, package liquor license for Bruenderman's Grocery and Tobacco Store; Joe W. Layton, package liquor license for Layton's Package Liquor Store; and Verlon Uthoff, liquor by the drink license for the Crystal Inn.

14 accident patients treated

Fourteen accident patients were treated Tuesday in the emergency room of Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

David C. Mitchell, 2, Sikeston, scratched and bruised when hit by car; Delotes Durton, 20, Sikeston, cut right hand on tin; and Sandra Rogers, 34, Morehouse, cut left index finger washing dishes.

Child hostage freed

NEW YORK (AP) — A 5-year-old girl was yanked to safety today from the Queens housing project apartment where she had been held hostage with her father since late Monday. Her father was found dead, his chest punctured by a bullet.

The gunman had allowed her to open the apartment door to retrieve food set in the hall by a special police hostage team and had kept a revolver trained on her.

Detective Lt. Frank A. Bolz Jr. handed her a cup of hot coffee for the gunman. Then with one hand he offered a glass of a soft drink. As she reached for it, he grabbed her with the other hand and left the former convict and mental patient without a hostage.

A medical examiner was en route to the building to examine the body of the girl's father, Fred Kinsler, 34, whose motionless form had been spotted on the floor since Tuesday.

Several hundred neighbors cheered as the girl was taken to an ambulance. She appeared to be unharmed.

In bullet-proof vests and carrying rifles and shotguns, the police said they told the gunman, Floyd Steele, 56, to "take it easy."

With a shotgun trained on him, Steele surrendered.

The drama ended shortly after 9 a.m.

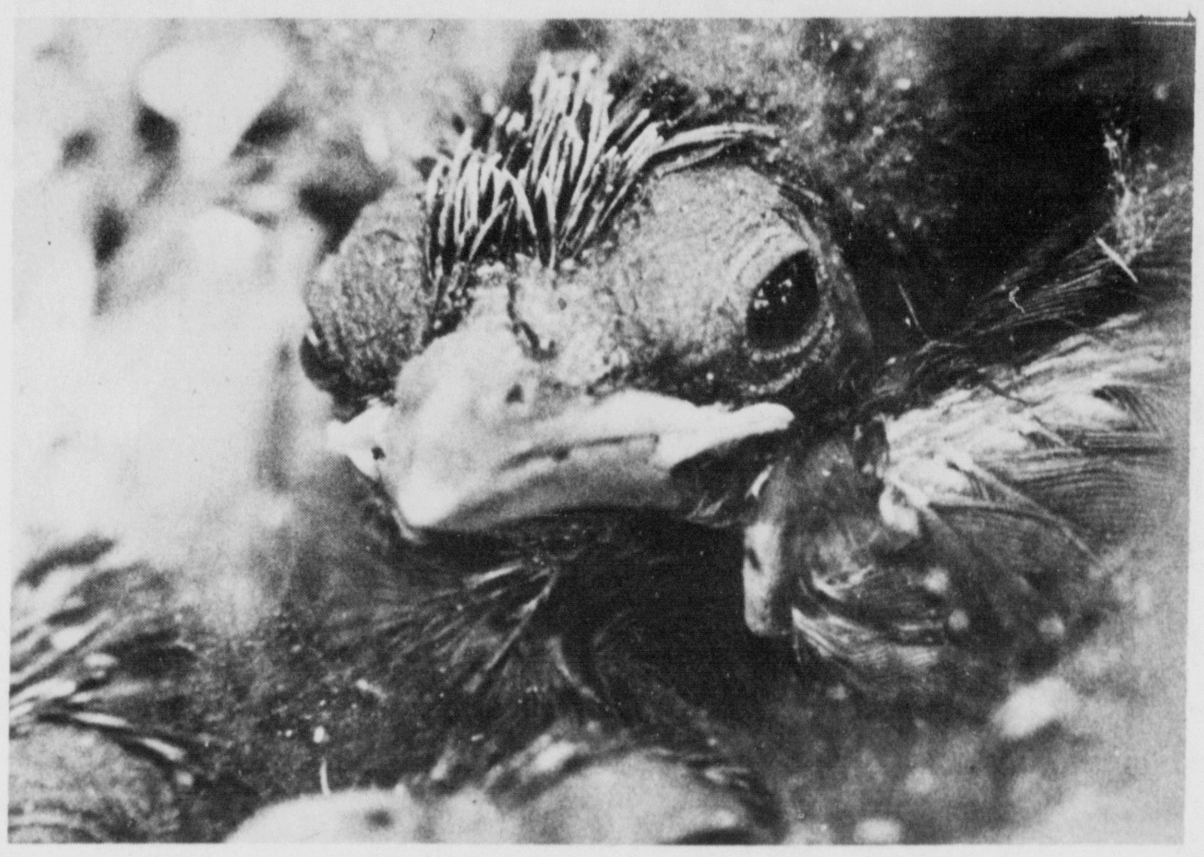
Port authority meeting tonight

A meeting to establish port authorities in Pemiscot, New Madrid, Mississippi, Scott, Cape Girardeau and Perry counties will be held at 7 p.m. today at the Ramada Inn.

Dinner will begin at 7 p.m. and a business meeting at 8 p.m.

Mayors and county judges in the affected counties are being asked to attend the meeting.

Guy Jaffee of Jefferson City, director of the Missouri Division of Commerce and Industrial Development; John Brawley of Jefferson City, state director of transporation; and state senators and representatives are also expected to attend.



Birds of a feather

Where does U.N. get acronyms?

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Staring into his alphabet soup in the U.N. cafeteria the other day, one diner said to another, "This must be where the United Nations gets the letters for all those acronyms it makes up for new operations."

The latest acronym to come out of the pot is "UNDOF,' for the new U.N Disengagement Observer Force being deployed in the Syria-Israeli buffer zone in the Golan Heights.

The initials in such a combination are not pronounced one after another but spoken as a single word.

Accordingly, care must be taken not to produce the wrong combination. There was some panic at an advance report, which turned out to be false, that the new operation would be the U.N. Disengagement Observer Group, or UNDOG. If there is anywhere that "dog" is a bad word, it is the Middle East.

There have been similarly strange though not quite so embarrassing U.N. acronyms. What was known as the U.N. Relief Office in Dacca, or UNROD, until the United Nations recognized Bangladesh, thereafter had to become the U.N. Relief Operation in Bangladesh, or UNROB.

One acronym has outlived the name it was created to convey. UNICEF came into use as the symbol for Fund. When the name was changed to just U.N. Children's Fund, the old initials were kept because they had become so well known around the world.

LONG TIMERS RETIRE FROM PHILHARMONIC

NEW YORK (AP) — Four members of the New York Philharmonic retired at the end of the season, having played in the orchestra for a combined total of 116 years.

House refuses to take up land use legislation

WASHINGTON (AP) Amid charges that the White House was playing impeachment politics, the House has refused to take up land use planning legislation.

Tuesday's all-day vote apparently kills the legislation for the session.

Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., sponsor of one land use bill, said the vote "shows the shabby hypocrisy of the White House. They said they were for land use legislation but they did not send a word ... no lobbyists."

House Majority Leader Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., said "they pulled the rug from under us. They helped construct the legislation—and then 136 Republicans voted against the rule."

Udall said President Nixon played impeachment politics on the bill, deliberately withdrawing support for the measure his Interior secretary helped write to court conservatives to stay with him on impeachment.

The Sierra Club agreed, and said that by Tuesday's vote Congress "has mortgaged America's future to haphazard and chaotic development."

The sponsors of a weaker bill, House Minority Leader John Rhodes and Rep. Sam Steiger, both R-Ariz., voted against allowing the House to debate any land use bill.

Steiger denied Udall's charge of impeachment politics, saying he had made no trade-offs with the White House on the issue.

He said he had been advised by a White House lobbyist not to oppose a full House debate on the land use bill but he did anyway, telling the House that to consider it would mean wrangling through dozens of amendments.

The bill would have provided $800 million to help states and local governments devise means for planning the wisest use of their land and other resources.

President Nixon had called land use legislation his top environmental priority four years ago in a message to Congress. His Interior Secretary, Rogers C. B. Morton, worked closely with the interior committees in shaping the legislation most of last year.

Steiger took credit for Nixon's reversal in February, made known only when the House Rules Committee blocked the bill from coming to the House floor. Steiger said then Morton had misled the President into thinking the bill would be good for the country.

By last week, Morton had switched positions himself, supporting only the Steiger-Rhodes bill rather than the one he helped draft.

Conservation needed, says energy chief

HOUSTON (AP) — The new chief of the Federal Energy Office says there is vital need for continued emphasis on energy conservation despite the end of the Arab embargo.

John C. Sawhill said Tuesday he plans to start this week a series of conferences designed to encourage industry to formulate efficient conservation programs.

"Industry consumes 41 per cent of our energy and we must start conservation with them," he said.

Starting with the automotive industry, Sawhill plans summer conferences with such industries as aluminum, steel, and paper, and, later, take up the discussions with the residential construction industry.

Sawhill outlined his plans during a news conference while in Houston to speak at the annual meeting of the Texas Independent Producers & Royalty Owners Association.

"We are to meet with Chrysler and General Motors this week to seek goals to make automobiles more efficient," he said.

He said one objective is to increase automobile efficiency from an average of about 13.9 miles per gallon of gasoline to 17 miles by 1980 and 19 miles by 1985.

"That would conserve as much energy as we would gain by way of the Alaskan pipeline when it is completed," he said.

"Then, this summer, we'll ask aluminum, steel paper, and other industries to set goals. Then will come residential."

Sawhill said he has set Nov. 1 as the target date for completion of the energy self-sufficiency plans for President Nixon's Project Independence.

"Then we will hold public hearings around the country ... on these plans for Project Independence and our plans for balancing supply and demand," he said.

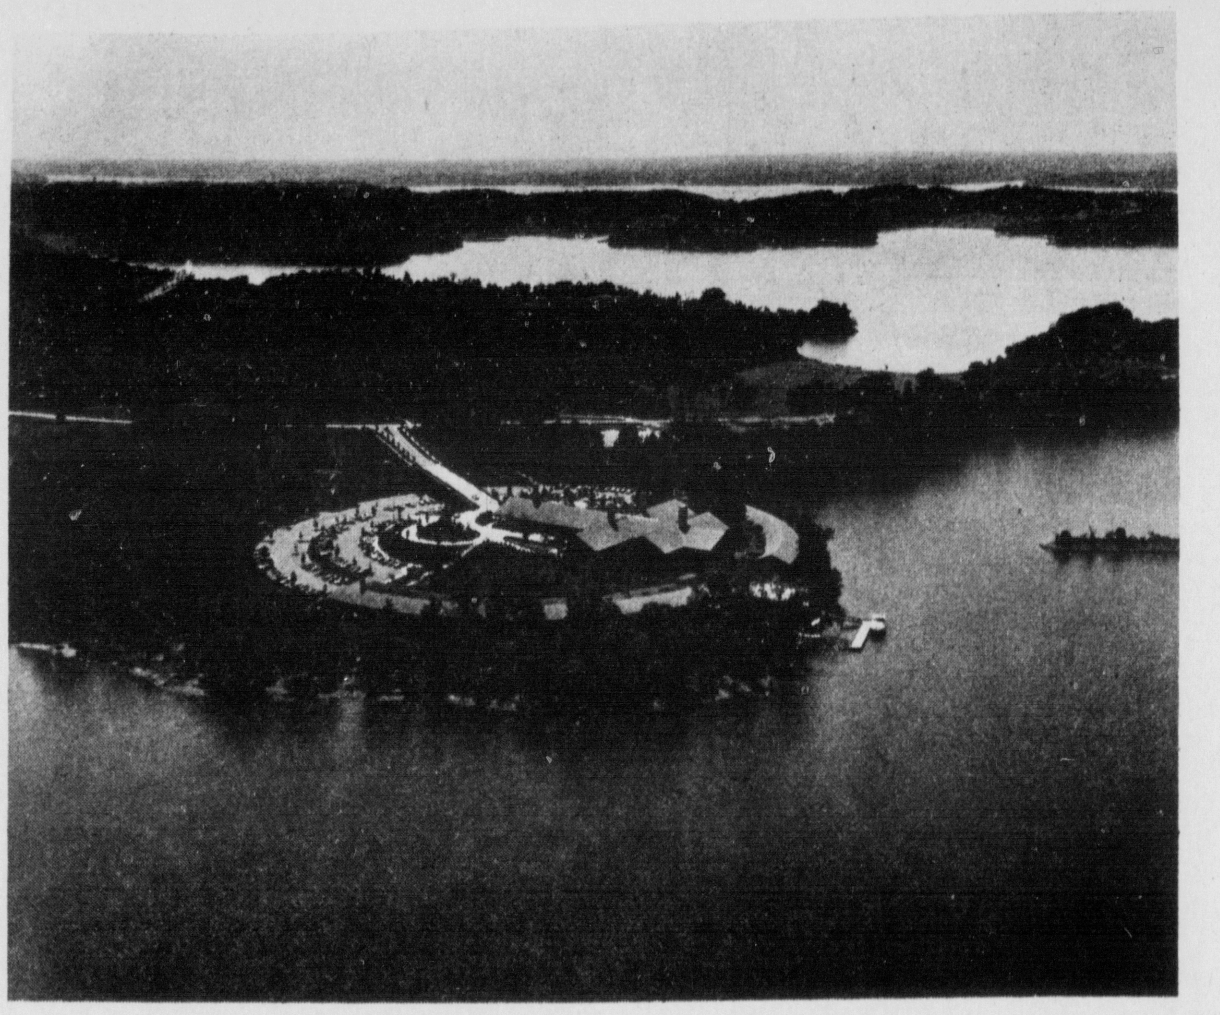
"Walking Tall," starring Joe Don Baker, is held over at Malco Twin Cinema II.

Held over for the sixth week at Mall Theatre, Kingsway Plaza Mall, is "The Bootleggers", rated PG.

Showing at the Delta Drive Inn Friday and Saturday nights are the films "A Man Called Horse", starring Richard Harris and "Little Big Man", starring Dustin Hoffman. Both films are rated PG.

Delta Drive Inn Sunday night features "Dirty O'Neal" and "Dagmar's Hot Pants", two R-rated movies.



Fun, relaxation offered here

For a change of scenery and a weekend of fun, camping, boating, fishing, golf, or just relaxing, consider making a trip to the Land Between the Lakes in Kentucky. At each of the four entrances to Land Between the Lakes is a luxurious state resort park. To the north is Kentucky Dam Village; to the west, Kenlake State Park; to the East, Lake Barkley State Resort Park (not pictured here); and near the southern entrance is Paris Landing State Park.

Weekend of leisure only 2 hours away

By ALLEN BLANTON
Editor

GOLDEN POND, Ky. — Leisure- time enthusiasts who are looking for a change of scenery and a weekend of fun, camping, boating, fishing, golf or just relaxing, are only a two- hour drive away from such a place --- Kentucky's Western Waterland.

Kentucky and Barkley Lakes offer ample space for boat riding and fishing. For the angler who doesn't have a favorite fishing hole a professional guide is recommended. Carl Hamilton, former owner of the Sportsman Lodge and Marina at Benton, Ky., can show fishermen some action from crappie or large mouth bass to stripes (white bass).

Several weeks ago Hamilton took me to the mouth of Jonathan Creek where we plugged for stripes and came back with a nice catch. Trolling also proved to be productive in this area. While Hamilton and I were plugging for stripes with a solid lead lure, a small cabin cruiser came by trolling a bomber with a single spinner and a small bush tail trailing about one and one-half foot behind the bomber. They made 10 or 12 passes trolling over the ledge we were fishing and netted around 35 nice stripes.

If fishing doesn't interest you, maybe one of the golf courses will. There is a nine-hole course at Kenlake State Park, an 18- hole Boots Randolph championship course near Lake Barkley State Resort Park on Land Between the Lakes and an 18- hole championship course at Kentucky Dam Village.

For those who enjoy camping, there are major family campgrounds along the Kentucky Lake shoreline. Other sites are in planning stages.

Camp Energy, the first reservation group camp developed in Land Between the Lakes, is located on Energy Lake, a 370 acre subimpoundment of Lake Barkley. Brandon Spring, a major group camp with indoor housing and dining facilities, is located on Bards Lake. Additonal camping, picnicking, boat launching and other day- use facilities are available at 24 lake access areas along the Kentucky Lake and Lake Barkley shoreline in Land Between the Lakes.

Although the entire Land Between the Lakes project is an experience in environmental education, the focal point is the Environmental Education Center, a 5,000- acre wooded area near the Lake Barkley shoreline. Features of the center include the Center Station, an interpretive facility where displays and a color film can be seen; Silo Overlook, a high platform atop a silo overlooking Lake Barkley; Hematite and Honker Lakes, two scenic internal lakes; miles of trails in an area full of wildlife and plant life; Empire Farm, where children can see farm animals and learn about life on the farm; and the Youth Station, where classroom groups can go to live and study in the out- of- doors.

Dormitories, cafeteria, resource materials building and nature trails are all part of the youth station. An audio- visual resource management trail within the Environmental Education Center called the Trail of These Hills tells the story of forestry and wildlife management in Land Between the Lakes. New programs are being planned.

Visitors can enjoy the quiet countryside and see a wide variety of wildlife, including deer, wild turkey, geese and ducks on the many miles of trails, old logging roads and back- country drives throughout Land Between the Lakes.

Wildlife and forestry management programs have made is possible to have a hunting season for several types of game. The largemouth bass and crappie fishing in Lake Barkley and Kentucky Lake is considered to be among the best in the nation.

No commercial overnight facilities are located in Land Between the Lakes. However, there are scores of fishing camps, state resort parks, resorts, motels, boat docks and restaurants in the surrounding twin lakes area.

For information on the Land Between the Lakes area write Land Between the Lakes, Tennessee Valley Authority, Golden Pond, Kentucky, 42231. The telephone number is 502/924-5602

Disney's 'Alice' returns to screen

After 23 years, Walt Disney's cartoon version of "Alice in Wonderland" is returning to enchant and amuse the young in heart. The movie starts Friday at the Malone Theatre, 107 W. Malone Ave.

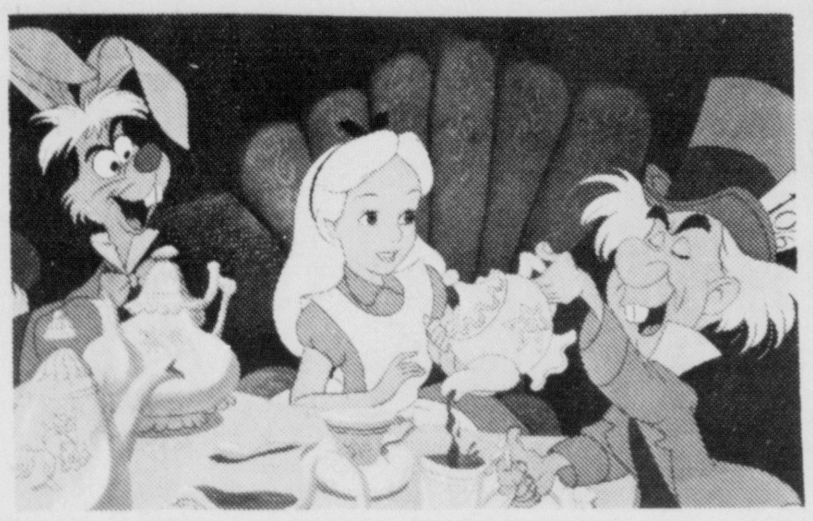
A musical fantasy on one level, the picture also is faithful to author Lewis Carroll's satire on education, politics, literature and Victorian life in general.

Although it premiered in 1951, "Alice in Wonderland" -- with its absurd characters, astonishing adventures and epic nonsense -- somehow seems highly contemporary.

All the great and fabulous figures are depicted, among them the Caucus Race which has neither a beginning nor end, the Cheshire Cat, who bewilders Alice with double talk and annoying fadeouts, the Caterpillar whose words literally go up in smoke, and the royal croquet game which ends with Alice on trial for her life.

Twenty- six artists lend their voices to the Technicolor production including Ed Wynn, Richard Hadyn, Sterling Holloway, Jerry Colonna and Kathryn Beaumont as Alice.

The movie is being re-released by Buena Vista.



'Have a cup of tea'

"Have a cup of tea!" the Mad Hatter and March Hare keep insisting at the famous party in Walt Disney's all- cartoon version of "Alice in Wonderland", based on Lewis Carroll's classic fantasy. The movie starts Friday at the Malone Theatre.

Jaffee named ex-officio member of finance board

JEFFERSON CITY — Guy Jaffee, director of the state Division of Commerce and Industrial Development, has been named an ex- officio member of the Board of Directors of the First Missouri Development Finance Corp.

In announcing the appointment, Jerry F. Stegall, executive vice president of the privately- owned organization, said, "The bylaws of First Missouri place the Governor on our Board as an ex-officio director however, a recent resolution of the shareholders authorized the Governor to delegate his position to the director of the Division of Commerce and Industrial Development."

According to Stegall, the prime purpose of the First Missouri Development Finance Corporation is, "to supplement existing sources of credit within the state in order to promote more business and industrial activity aimed at expanding the economy."

"I feel Jaffe's appointment to our board will add significantly to our program and bring particular expertise to our statewide operations," Stegall concluded.

Surgeons to meet Friday

BRANSON - The Missouri Chapter of the American College of Surgeons will hold its seventh annual professional meeting June 14 and 15 at Rock Lane Lodge in Branson.

Opening-day guest speaker will be John W. Pompelli of Chicago, assistant director of the American College of Surgeons.

State Sen. William J. Cason of Clinton, will speak at the Saturday closing luncheon. Sen. Cason is president pro tem of the Missouri Sentate and serves as chairman of the committee on public health, welfare and environment.

During the two-day professional meeting some of Missouri's outstanding surgeons will present papers. There will be 31 presentations ranging from new and established surgical procedures to academic and legislative topics.

Ark-Mo cited for cash prizes

JEFFERSON CITY - Twenty organizations have been awarded certificates of appreciation by the Missouri Division of Commerce and Industrial Development for providing the cash prizes distributed in the 1973 Missouri Community Betterment awards competition.

In the annual awards competion, communities are judged according to population for their degree of accomplishments on economic development projects. A total of $10,500 in prize money was distributed.

Arkansas-Missouri Power Co. of Blytheville, Ark., which provides electrical power service to Southeast Missouri was among those presented certificats.

Sikeston men in Florida

Two Sikeston men are attending a Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. business conference at Florida's Disneyworld this week.

Beatty Miller, 706 Courtney Drive, and Terry Coleman, 413 Illinois St., are employed by Metropolitan Life in Poplar Bluff.

Miller, sales manager, and Coleman sales representative, had exceptional sales and service records last year and are among the top- ranking members of Metropolitan's staff in the United States and Canada.

Bell hired more women, minorities during 1973

More women began working on central office equipment, while more men became telephone operators for Southwestern Bell during 1973, according to Mike Smith, manager of the Sikeston office.

He based the statement on a report filed with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission April 1 by Southwestern Bell and other Bell companies.

"The company made significant progress last year in providing employment and advancement opportunities for women and minorities," he said. "Traditional male and female job roles continued to disappear, and we hired more minority people than in any previous year. Also, the number of women and minority people in management continued to climb."

Smith said the progress reports filed under Bell's Affirmative Action Program reflected the first year's results under an agreement reached in January 1973 between American Telephone and Telegraph and the federal government.

He explained that the plan keys hiring and promotion of women and minorities to specific goals in each of 15 job classifications. The objective is to make the work force eventually reflect, by race and sex, the profiles of available labor markets in areas served by Bell.

One of the 1973 goals met by both Southwestern Bell and the Bell System as a whole was in minority hiring. "Of the 1,038 new employees hired in the Kansas City area, which includes most of Missouri outside metropolitan St. Louis, 168 -- or 16.2 per cent -- were from minority groups," Smith said.

"We made particularly significant gains in moving minorities into management," he said. "At the end of 1972, 2.7 per cent of our management people in the area were from minority groups. By last December, 3.8 per cent were from minorities."

The report to the EEOC showed that both Southwestern Bell and the Bell System exceeded goals for moving women to inside craft jobs and placing men in operator jobs. Smith said the Kansas City area exceeded the goal for moving women to inside craft jobs by 18.4 per cent and the goal for male operators by 6.4 per cent.

"At the same time," he said, "we found it difficult to place women in traditionally male outside craft jobs, like cable splicer and installer. In the Kansas City area we had ten women in such jobs. That was eight more than at the end of 1972, but we're still far short of our goal of 32. We find that many women job applicants are not interested in heavy outside work."

He reported similar problems in placing men in some clerical jobs. Although the area exceeded its goal for 1973, Smith said shortage of available talent is a problem. "Men who know shorthand seem to be in short supply," he said.

Osco Drug honored by chain drug stores

PALM BEACH, Fla. - Osco Drug Inc. was honored May 9 by the National Association of Chain Drug Stores Inc. (NACDS) as a recipient of the association's Gold Link Award.

Eight national awards were presented during a ceremony which took place May 9 during the association's annual meeting in Palm Beach, Fla.

Osco Drug Inc. received two NACDS Gold Link Awards for their excellent programs on community relations and the pharmacy profession. The NACDS Gold Link Awards program gives recognition to those chain drug corporations that have enhanced their public image and also strengthened those industry programs which would help create a continuous, positive, profile of their business and employes.

The National Association of Chain Drug Stores Inc., headquarters in Washington D. C., represents the management of 230 chain drug corporations and more than 175,000 chain drug employes, of which 28,000 are registered pharmacists, throughout the United States, Canada, Mexico, Puerto Rico, Australia and Venezuela.

Wheeler slated for Bootheel Jamboree

BERNIE — Onie Wheeler of Mt. Juliet, Tenn., formerly of Senath and Sikeston and now a country music star, will appear June 15 at the Bootheel Jamboree in Bernie.

The jamboree begins at 8 p.m.

Wheeler has been one of the professionals of country music for 25 years and he has been described as "A man who is ahead of his time."

Born in Senath and raised in Sikeston, Wheeler was winning contests and was on his way to a career as an entertainer by the time he was in the ninth grade. In 1940 he joined the Army for a two year- hitch, during which time, he continued singing and winning contests.

Following his years in the service, Wheeler went to work at radio station KWOC in Poplar Bluff, formed his own band, had his own radio show and began playing at dances. In Poplar Bluff he met his future wife.

After moving around for awhile, Wheeler signed his first recording contract and worked with Elvis Presley for five months.

As early as 1949, Wheeler made his first guest appearance on the Grand Ole Opry in Nashville, Tenn., and was a frequent visitor there. Then in 1957, he was asked to become a regular on the Flatt and Scruggs television show, so he moved to Nashville.

In the next few years, he worked TV shows and personal appearance dates with many of the stars in the industry.

Onie Wheeler

In recent years, Wheeler and his band have performed in all 50 states, England, Germany and the Far East. He has made a number of appearances on the Opry and has performed on TV on the Jackie Gleason Show, Porter Waggoner, Wilburn Brothers and Good Ole Nashville Music Shows, among others.

Wheeler has a string of hits over the past 20 years. They include, "Too Hot to Handle," "Mother Prays Loud in Her Sleep," "Go Home," "Closing Time," and "I Saw Mother with God Last Night".

One of his newest hits is "Shuckin' My Way to the Hall of Fame.

Wheeler is also one of the great harmonica players of all time.

Prayer for Today

from The Upper Room

"If I take the wings of the morning and dwell in the uttermost parts of the sea, even there thy hand shall lead me, and thy right hand shall hold me." (Psalm 139: 9- 10)

PRAYER: O Lord, we seek Thy uplifting hand all the day long and in the darkness of the night. Ever reach us even in the depths to which we sometimes plunge. Amen.

The first railroad in the United States was built in 1830 from Charleston to Hamburg, S.C. The first passenger train, "The Best Friend", made its initial trip in 1831, flying "at the fantastic speed of 15 mph."

Assistant manager named

Lou Ann Presley has recently been employed as assistant manager of Lee's Shoe Store in Kingsway Plaza Mall. Before coming to Lee's, she was employed by her father, Calvin Presley, owner of Presley Travel Trailer Sales and Service, Highway 62 East, as parts saleswoman and assistant bookkeeper. She began her new position May 25.

View optimistic

By CROCKETT SCOTT

The decline in commodity prices hass encouraged some St. Louis and Memphis investment banking houses to take a more optimistic view of both the economy and the stock market.

They note most recently the probable significance of the easement in metals prices, following the dip in agricultural products.

Many of their number are critical of the Nixon administration for the Russian grain deals which they assert set off sharp rises in agricultural products by taking such huge quantities out of the market.

And though happy to see the current downturn in commodities, they are skeptical of the future levels of commodities, near term and long term.

Unless wet weather abates, cotton and soybean futures will take off again, most concur.

Wheat and corn prices too will rise or ease in accord with prospects for the growing season, they note.

Progress in the Mid- East, the end of the oil embargo and a return to a so called norm in international affairs bodes well for the stock market, members of the investment community concur; -- Watergate notwithstanding.

An immediate concern of investment bankers is of course short term interest rates.

And Federal Reserve Board Chairman, Arthur F. Burns, is getting his share of criticism. Mr. Burns, investment bankers say, talks one way -- supporting and speaking out for a relatively tight money supply but when one looks at the Federal Reserve Board's action these investment bankers note that the board has not acted like Mr. Burns talks.

The money supply in this nation, note investment houses, has increased at an annual rate of 8.1 percent since October, 1973.

Comparing this growth in the money rate, to that of the past few years, it is way out of line, as a look at statistics indicates.

The Federal Reserve Board must get the growth in the money rate down two or three percentage points, if runaway inflation is to be thwarted.

To do this the Federal Reserve would have to curtail sharply the growth of bank reserves. Thus the doubt exists that short term rates are going to come down very much very quickly.

Some investment houses see current high short term interest rates as an over- reaction to the oil embargo.

Industry pulled in its expansionary horns with the advent of the oil embargo last October.

The Federal Reserve trying to stimulate business borrowing at the time initiated an easier money policy. But industry delayed expansionary moves pretty much until the oil embargo was lifted. Then many large companies wanted money simultaneously, and demand exceeded supply.

Interest rates went up, spurred in part by inventory build-up as businessmen feared prices would be higher tomorrow than they were today.

Investment bankers say that a favorable omen presently may be the fact that the monetary base has been relatively stable since April 24.

May, yearly sales up at Big K Stores

NĀSHVILLE, Tenn. -- Kuhn's - Big K Stores Corp. reported today its sales for the first five months of the year increased 29 per cent over the comparable period of 1973, and that May sales were up 25 per cent.

Jack W. Kuhn, president, said sales in the company's seven- state chain of Big K discout department stores and Kuhn's variety stores were $49,379,758 in the January-May period, compared with $38,333,167 for the first five months of last year.

C. H. Lancaster

Lancaster to be new manager at oil mill

C. H. Lancaster, 907 Patricia Drive, will become the new manager and secretary-treasurer of Sikeston Cotton Oil Mill June 30 when E.O. DeField, 723 Taylor St., retires from that position.

Lancaster has been an employe of the mill since 1944. He began as cashier and has served as assistant manager for the past eight years.

Leonard B. Colley, of 305 Edmondson Drive will act as cashier for the mill beginning July 1.

DeField was elected May 14, 1973 to the Old Guard, an honorary society of the cottonseed industry. He served as assistant cashier and cashier of Roberts Cotton Oil Mill in Cairo, Ill. from 1929 until 1935. He has also served as secretary of Kennett Oil Mill, Inc., in Kennett,nd director of Mississippi Cottonseed Products Co. in Jackson, Miss.

DeField came to the Sikeston cotton Oil Mill in 1935 when it was built. During his 30 years here he acted as cashier, assistant manager, manager and secretary-treasurer.

He is a member of the First Christian Church in Sikeston.

DeField says he wants to relax, but has no special plans for retirement.

Disaster victims may not have to repay aid grants

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the first time, people who lost a car or a roof in a natural disaster may apply to the federal government for a grant of money they won't have to repay.

The weekend tornadoes and floods in the Midwest will provide a test of the Federal Disaster Relief Act of 1974, which went into effect last month.

Under it, a traveling salesmen could ask for up to $5,000 to replace his car and get him back on the road, or a family might seek a $2,500 minigrant to patch its roofs.

The $2,500 grants are available to individuals who need funds quickly for home repairs.

Some minigrants would be available within two weeks after an application is submitted, but three to four weeks would be needed in most cases, a spokesman said.

The grants generally are available only after a storm victim has applied for loan, but can be awarded in addition to the loan, she added.

Criteria for receiving the grants include a victim's financial status and the extent of damage.

This new program is one of a number of assistance programs available to individuals ranging up to $50,000 in Small Business Administration loans for major construction, she said.

"One-stop" centers are being set up throughout Minnesota, Missouri, Illinois, Oklahoma and portions of Kansas area that President Nixon declared disaster areas on Monday. The new act is being applied retroactively to all but Oklahoma.

These centers will permit the storm victim to apply for assistance without visiting various agencies throughout a city.

One program could be used to pay a family's rent for up to one year if it cannot find suitable replacement housing.

Drought, disease reduce winter wheat harvest

WASHINTONG (AP)— Drought and disease has reduced the nation's expected harvest of winter wheat, a crop which normally provides three-fourths of the nation's consumer bread grain.

The Agriculture Department said Monday that winter wheat prospects declined 5 per cent last month. As of June 1, production for 1974 was estimated at 1.53 billion bushels, the Crop Reporting Board said.

Although it would still be a record crop, the new estimate was down 81 million bushels from the government's forecast one month earlier. It means less wheat will be on tap for U.S. consumers and foreign customers than thought previously.

Officials said most of the decline during the month occurred in the southern Great Plains. Kansas, which normally produces the largest harvest, was estimated at 384.2 million bushels. That was down 22.6 million bushels, or 6 per cent from May's estimate.

The board said "lack of moisture and disease" contributed to the decline of the crop in Kansas and elsewhere.

Despite the drought since May, the new winter wheat estimate still could be a record, up 21 per cent from 1973 output as farmers—responding to higher prices—stepped up planting sharply. The crop, however, is sorely needed to replenish dwindling U.S. stockpiles, smallest in 27 years.

But Kansas wheat authorities say the state crop estimate by the USDA is still too high and that it is more likely to total around 300 million bushels.

Meanwhile, according to USDA, the reserve of old-crop wheat on July 1 will dip to 170 million bushels, the lowest level since 1947. Huge export demands have accounted for the shrinkage. Out of a then-record crop last year of 1.7 billion bushels, the most recent USDA figures show some 1.2 billion were exported.

Officials have projected, strictly on probability, that the spring wheat crop will yield 560 million bushels. But Monday's report indicated farmers on June 1 were far behind in spring planting, raising questions that spring wheat output will reach the projected mark.

If it does, total wheat production this year still could be more than 2 billion bushels and supply more than enough for domestic use and expected exports in the year beginning July 1.

"I still think it is too high," said Creel Brock, administrator of the Kansas Wheat Commission, in a telephone interview. "We're going to stick with the 300 million bushels yet for a while."

Tom Ostrander of Wellington, Kan., president of the Kansas Association of Wheat Growers, said the new estimate is "a lot better than they came out with before, but we still think they're too high. I hope they're right, but I just can't see that much wheat in Kansas this year."

Ostrander pointed out that harvesting has started in southern Kansas and farmers who thought they would get 35 bushels per acre are getting 25.

Growers and congressmen from wheat states have protested that the USDA's estimates have driven down the price of the grain unrealistically.

Starting with the Soviet Union's big purchases two years ago, wheat prices rose from $1.30 a bushel to a record high of $5.3 2 last February.

Then optimistic reports of the new crop and predictions of declining exports were followed by a sharp slide in price.

The USDA said the average price on the farm May 15 was $3.52 a bushel, a plunge of nearly 40 per cent in only three months.

An aide to RPE. Keith Sebelius, R-Kan., whose district is the major wheat producer in the state, said Monday "all these predictions have done so far is beat down the price to our farmers."

Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., said "It just isn't the kind of crop we had last year."

The indicated production and average yields for 1974 for other states included:

Arkansas 12,800,000 bushels and 32 bushels per acre; Missouri 44,400,000 and 37; Nebraska 108,300,000 and 38; Oklahoma 147,500,000 and 25.

Calley's freedom is controversy

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A federal appeals court hears arguments today on whether the continued freedom of former Army Lt. William L. Calley could have "an extraordinarily disruptive effect on the military," as government lawyers contend.

But first the panel of three judges on the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals may face a challenge on the propriety of two of them sitting in judgment on the case.

Kenneth Henson, a lawyer for Calley, told newsmen in Columbus, Ga., Tuesday he objected to the assignment of Judges Thomas Gibbs Gee and Elbert Tuttle, whom Henson said are respectively a retired Army brigadier general and a graduate of the U.S. Military Academy and a veteran of the Army Air Corps and the U.S. Air Force.

If Henson decides to raise the issue formally in today's court proceedings, Gee and Tuttle will have to consider whether to excuse themselves from hearing the case.

The third judge assigned is John Minor Wisdom.

Calley was convicted of murdering at least 22 Vietnamese villagers at My Lai and was sentenced to life in prison. That sentence later was reduced to 10 years. He was under house arrest for nearly three years at Ft. Benning, Ga.

Last February, he appealed his court-martial conviction on grounds he was not afforded a fair trial. U.S. District Judge J. Robert Elliott ordered Calley's release on $1,000 personal recognizance bond, pending a decision on the merits of his constitutional complaint.

In 1835, Sen. John C. Calhoun declared: "The very essence of a free government consists in considering offices as public trusts, bestowed for the good of the country, and not for the benefit of an individual or a party," The World Almanac recalls. President Grover Cleveland in his 1885 inaugural address exclaimed: "Your every voter, as surely as your chief magistrate, exercises a public trust."

ORAN — Michelle Rae Brinker, one- month - old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Millard Brinker, died at 10 a.m. Tuesday at Cardinal Glennon Hospital at St. Louis.

She was born May 8, 1974 in Advance.

Other than parents surviving are one sister, Laura Marie Brinker of the home; paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Brinker of Oran; maternal grandmother, Mrs. Martha Sheeley of Chaffee; and maternal great-grandmother, Mrs. Anna Arnold of Chaffee.

Services were conducted at 2 p.m. today at Amick-Burnett Funeral Chapel in Oran. The Rev. James J. Holmes, pastor of St. Ambrose Catholic Church of Chaffee, officiated.

Burial was in Guardian Angel Catholic Church Cemetery at Oran.

KATIE LEE MCCAULEY

Survivors of Katie Lee McCauley, 51, who died Friday include a son, Sam Grayson of East St. Louis, Ill., whose name was omitted in Tuesday's edition of The Daily Standard.

Clarence Grayson, another surviving son, is of Pittsburg, Kan., rather than East St. Louis as reported.

AARON DANE HURLEY

Pallbearers at services today for Aaron Dane Hurley, eight-month- old son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Hurley, formerly of Sikeston who died Sunday, were John Park, Thelbert Curry, Ronnie Orr and Norman Hurley.

THOMAS STOREY

PERKINS — Thomas Storey, 69, died about 1 a.m. Tuesday at his home.

He was born Sept. 16, 1904 in Polk County, Ill., to the late Joseph M. and Kate Storey.

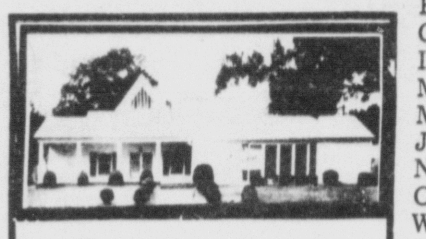
He was employed by the Manufacturers Railway Co. of St. Louis for 20 years before retiring Sept. 16, 1969 and moving to Perkins Oct. 1 of the same year. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church of St. Louis.

On Sept. 14, 1962 he married Helen Lucille Thompson, who survives.

Also surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Shirley Arnold of Anchorage, Alaska; one brother, Bertis Storey of East St. Louis, Ill.; one sister, Mrs. Lida Hogg of Perkins; and three grandchildren.

Friends may call at Amick-Burnett Funeral Home in Chaffee where services are scheduled at 2 p.m. Thursday. The Rev. W. S. Bailey of Perkins will officiate.

Burial will be in Williams Cemetery at Perkins.



PRIVACY

IN THE SECLUSION of our family rooms we have often witnessed a remarkable phenomenon — the revival of family bonds amid the chaos created by grief. And here, too, the members of the family may obtain a few moments of precious privacy before facing the difficult social burdens which are a part of the trials of bereavement. For these reasons, our family rooms are designed for tasteful comfort and are so situated to prevent accidental intrusions.

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat and soybean futures prices were firm to strong on the Chicago Board of Trade today, but corn and oats were irregular.

On the opening, Chicago wheat futures were 2 to 4 cents a bushel higher, July 3.84; Gulf hard red wheat was not traded early; soybeans were 1/2 to 2 higher, July 5.35; corn was unchanged to 2 lower, July 2.76 and oats were 1/2 lower to 3/4 higher, July 1.39 1/4.

World News in Brief

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressman says he has seen proof that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, despite his sworn denial, ordered national security wiretaps. Rep. Joshua Eilberg, D-Pa., a member of the House Judiciary Committee, said: "Materials have been supplied to us which constitute positive proof that Kissinger did institute those taps." The Senate Foreign Relations Committee decided earlier to take another look at Kissinger's testimony concerning wiretaps last September during his confirmation hearings. Kissinger, at a news conference in Salzburg, Austria, threatened to resign if controversy over his role in the wiretapping is not cleared up.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge says he will issue an order designed to force President Nixon to permit John D. Ehrlichman full access to White House files for his defense in the plumbers case. U.S. District Judge Gerhard Gesell has said he is willing to move under federal contempt statutes. He delayed Ehrlichman's trial in the case while going ahead with the prosecution of three others still accused in the 1971 break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the second straight year, Congress has voted to build additional multimillion-dollar war planes the Pentagon did not request. Ironically, the plane is the F111, which was the target for nearly 10 years of some of the most severe congressional attacks ever made against a military aircraft. Opponents used to say it was too costly and technically unsound.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amid charges that the White House was playing impeachment politics, the House has refused to take up land use planning legislation. The bill apparently has been killed for the session. Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., sponsor of one land use bill, said the vote "shows the shabby hypocrisy of the White House...."

CAIRO (AP) — Hundreds of thousands of Egyptians gave President Nixon a wildly enthusiastic welcome on his arrival here today to start a tour of the Middle East.

He is the first American president to visit the country since Franklin D. Roosevelt came in 1943 for wartime conferences.

Nixon arrived from Austria in 90-degree heat at the Cairo airport and was greeted warmly there by President Anwar Sadat, his host for the next two days.

The two presidents then went by motorcade to the city, standing side by side in Sadat's open limousine.

The motorcade passed large crowds lining the roads chanting, "Nixon! Nixon! Sadat! Sadat!"

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler told newsmen later that Egyptian security officials estimated the crowd at at least two million.

However, U.S. officials said the figure was in the hundreds of thousands in their estimation.

After a drive or nearly an hour, Nixon and Sadat arrived at the Kubbah Palace where the U.S. chief executive will stay.

In a brief ceremony the two presidents exchanged remarks. Sadat called Nixon one of the great men and praised his leadership in the world.

As if to give Nixon support in the face of his domestic troubles, Sadat spoke of the necessity for the American president to continue in a leadership role.

Nixon responded by pledging U.S. support for Egypt's economic programs.

Nixon left the plane that brought him from Salzburg, Austria, with his wife, Pat, and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger. They were met by Sadat and his wife.

Governor signs bill lowering majority age

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A bill lowering the age of majority in Missouri from 21 to 18—except to buy and drink liquor—was signed into law today by Gov. Christopher S. Bond.

"I believe 18, 19 and 20-year -olds have to accept greater responsiblities," the governor said.

Bond also signed 10 other bills, including those outlawing pryamid sales schemes, requiring prior notification of property owners' responsibility under the mechanics lein law, expanding state anti-trust laws and providing insurance coverage benefits to new born children.

This leaves 36 bills to be acted on this month.

The pryamid sales act makes it a felony to sell or distribute goods or services, or even make such an offer, through a pyramid sales scheme. It also requires prior notification of cancellation of a franchise unless criminal or financial misconduct is the grounds for cancellation.

Babies will be covered under all individual or group health insurance policies from the moment of birth under another measure signed by Bond with the provision that any additional premiums for such coverage be paid within 31 days after the date of birth.

The medical techniques needed to help prematurely born babies survive are expensive, the governor pointed out, and this bill will insure parents the financial assistance needed to meet such expenses.

The bill to revise the state's antitrust law places enforcement of the act with the attorney general, revises penalties for antitrust violations and provides for witness immunity during both investigations and prosecutions.

This is important to insure business practices are kept competitive," Bond said, adding that the need for revision of the law was seen for some time.

Under the Senate committee substitute for a House-introduced measure concerning the mechanics lein law, property owners must be advised in writing by a contractor that they will be responsible to pay persons supplying materials for the work if the contractor fails to do so.

'Brothel on wheels' search still going on

STEELE — Authorities Tuesday continued efforts to locate a "brothel on wheels" said to have operated for several days at rest areas along Interstate 55 in Southeast Missouri and Northeast Arkansas.

"They've apparently been concentrating on truckers, from the information that's available ... there have been quite a few reports," a Missouri state patrol spokesman said.

Authorities in both states are uncertain whether two reported "carloads" of prostitutes — one vehicle bearing Ohio license plates and the other Tennessee — are operating in unison.

"Altogether, I think we're probably talking about five ladies of the night," a Pemiscot County sheriff's deputy said.

Deputies said they had the description of a car in which two women and three men drove away from a rest area near Holland Tuesday afternoon after a caretaker at the rest area said the women solicited truck drivers.

"They were going from truck to truck and stayed awhile at several of them," he said.

up the entire law to amendments. You have to accept it the way it is."

Kirkpatrick said he supports the petition process but "not in this case."

The petition bill, he said, still would allow subterfuge in that members of corporations and labor unions can form voluntary organizations and contribute to candidates. Or they could contribute individually.

"So the president of a corporation gets a bonus and he gives it to a candidate but the public won't know the company is financing a candidate. It's not going to make dishonest people honest."

Kirkpatrick favors allowing corporations and labor unions to contribute with the contributions being made public.

"Let's not treat them (labor organizations and corporations) as second class citizens," he says.

Some of the reporting provisions on the local level are too stringent, Kirkpatrick says.

"If I were a candidate for the local school board, I would have to report givts to my family if the total were over $100," he says. "Lawyers will have to disclose any retainers of over $500 a year in a provision on economic interest."

Another provision Kirkpatrick opposes would require candidates to report any interest of over $1,000 they hold in any business.

Leible makes All-State unit

Sikeston High School's senior catcher John Leible leads a parade of six Southeast Missouri athletes named to the 1974 2A All-State baseball team named today by the Missouri Sportswriters and Sportscasters Associating.

Leible, who was trailed by a host of major league and college scouts during the past season, was passed over in the recent free agent draft because of his announced intent to attend University of Missouri - Columbia.

"He was a very coachable athlete," his coach, N. P. McDaniel, commented. "He'll be hard to replace."

Leible, probably even more skilled in the classroom than on the field, was a silent leader for the Sikeston team in the recent 18-4 Bulldog season. He was named All-District three years in a row and was generally conceded to be one of the best, if not the best, athletes in the whole district.

"Scouts look at the arm first," coach Mac said And Leible has a fine one, throwing out 22 of 37 prospective base stealers in his three years. At the same time, he senior was a very fleet runner, swiping 22 bases in 22 tries. Recording times between 3.5 and 3.9 seconds for 30 yards, Leible's speed was probably his top asset.

Least mentioned of his talents was the batting talent possessed by the gifted receiver. But, at the same time, he was generally conceded to be the offensive leader for Sikeston. Hitting .390 as a sophomore, Leible added seasons of .424 and .406 in his last two years.

During his three years, Sikeston compiled a record of 35 wins and nine losses.

The five SeMo athletes joining Leible on the All-State included two 1A repeaters from the Kelly Hawks of Benton. Fireballing Jeff Jackson was named for the second straight year after hitting .450 and winning nine of 12 pitching decisions. Also listed among the repeaters was Jackson's teammate, second baseman Kenny Urhahn, a .386 hitter.

Urhahn, who also logged time at shortstop and at pitcher, batted leadoff for the very successful Kelly squad. Jackson, like Leible, was also recently named All-District for the third year in a row.

Third baseman Don Young of Poplar Bluff was one of only three underclassmen to be named to the All-State team. The junior third sacker for the Mules compiled a .370 batting mark from the southpaw side of the plate and earned the golden glove, commemorative of the top fielder on the PBHS team.

The final two honorees from the SeMo district were anything but the least impressive. Louie Lucas, one of the district's finest atheltes, was named All-State at thirdbase in Class 1A. After averaging more than 30 points per game and receiving All-State basketball honors, the 6-foot, 170-pounder really turned it on in baseball with a .652 batting average and 26 RBIs in a dozen games. Eighteen of Lucas' 30 hits were for extra bases.

And, Richard Ramsey was generally agreed to be the Parma ball team. Playing for a team that won just once in nine starts, Ramsey hit .580, driving in 19 of Parma's 22 runs on the year.

Sikeston's Rick Eisenbach earned the shortshop berth on the 2A second team.

The only other area players to receive All-State recognition in Class 2A competition were first baseman Jim Saulter pitcher Kenny Stokes and outfielder Mitch Walker of Sikeston's district championship team, pitcher Trae Hasting of Cape Girardeua Central and outfielder Tuttie Hayes of Poplar Bluff, who received honorable mention.

In Class 1A, North Pemiscot's first baseman Rand Jackson and outfielder Jerry Stewart won positions on the second team to give Southeast Missouri schools a total of 14 players receiving All-State recognition.

Security National, Kiwanis cop wins

Rodgers pitched a one-hit shutout at Legion as Security National Bank rolled up an 11-0 win, and Kiwanis trounced A&B 8-2 in National League battles Tuesday night.

Security National collected its 11 runs on only one hit, a double by Rodgers, while a two-base hit by Legion's Tope proved to no avail. Tope also took the mound loss.

Campbell and Meredith led Kiwanis Club's four-hit attack by slugging a home run apiece in the first game. Hampton and Brashears had the only hits for A&B as Campbell outpitched Brashears for the win.

Nunnelee, Fabick capture AL wins

Nunnelee walloped Righter 23-0 in a no-hit shutout and Fabick downed Ziegenhorn 14-11 in American League contests Tuesday night.

Beasly turned in the mound gem and also led Nunnelee's hitting attack with four hits, including a double, scored four runs. Jenkins and K. Howard also cracked doubles for Nunnelee, with Howard racking up three and Howard two more of the runs. Sadler was tagged with Righter's loss.

Watkins cracked a triple and a double to lead Fabick's attack. Garner and Cecil also managed doubles for Fabick as Carnell lost to Watkins in the pitching department. Evans and Drake got the only hits for Ziegenhorn.

AN EARLY OPENING

ELMONT, N.Y. (AP) — The New York racing season for thoroughbreds opened at Aqueduct on Monday, Feb. 25, and many horses saddled by trainer Allen Jerkins were ready for the early season. Jerkins stabled thoroughbreds owned by Jack Dreyfus at Belmont Park during the winter.

Optimist, SNB post victories

Security National Bank edged Leible Implement in a 4-1 pitchers' duel and Optimist outlasted Elks in a 14-13 offensive battle in Senior Babe Ruth League action Tuesday night at VFW Stadium.

Two-hit pitching by Blankenship gave Security National the edge in his duel with Cobb, who permitted four hits in his perforance for Leible.

Two hits by Duncan paced the winners, with Hewitt and Hamra adding a hit apiece. Newton and Colwick collected Leible's only safe blows.

A leadoff home run by Self in the first inning got the Elks off to a booming start in the other game, but three hits and four runs by Miller sparked Optimist to the one-run victory. Self, who had another hit, and Lasters led Elks with two hits each. Eisenbach also had two hits for Optimist, and Lewis scored three runs.

Rodino refuses brief in impeachment defense

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House lawyer James St. Clair has been rebuffed by Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr. in an effort for an early start in presenting President Nixon's impeachment defense to the House Judiciary Committee.

Rodino, D-N.J., told St. Clair it was "entirely inappropriate" for him to offer a 10,000-word defense brief before the committee has received all the evidence in its impeachment inquiry.

St. Clair brought the brief to the hearing Tuesday, intending to give each member a copy. But Rodino refused to accept it. He cited a committee rule that states St. Clair will be invited to respond when all evidence has been presented.

St. Clair would not discuss the incident, but Rodino told newsmen Nixon's lawyer also presented a letter saying he thought it would be helpful for members to get the White House view of the evidence as they go along.

Rodino said individual members could ask St. Clair for his brief but that it would not be accepted formally before the evidentiary hearings are completed, expected to be next Thursday.

St. Clair has been allowed to attend the closed door hearings as an observer, but not to participate.

Committee chief counsel John Doar defended Rodino's ruling and said there is a public misconception about the way the impeachment inquiry is being conducted. He and chief minority cousel Albert Jenner are presenting factual information bearing on presidential conduct without comment or without drawing conclusions, Doar said at a news briefing.

The evidence presented Tuesday dealt with the White House plumbers' break-in of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist's office and the political dirty tricks campaign carried out in 1972. Members received a legal brief on presidential impoundment of funds, another area in the inquiry.

Due today is a brief on the law involved in Nixon's ordering of the secret bombing of Cambodia. The committee also will receive further evidence on the plumbers, and on alleged use of the Internal Revenue Service to harass administration enemies.

Hostages to stand trial

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Ethiopian guerrillas holding six North Americans captive are planning to put two Americans and a Canadian on trial, informed sources in Addis Ababa said by telephone today.

The three, all prospectors for the Tenneco Oil Co. of Houston, Tex., will be charged by the Eritrean Liberation Front with "exploiting the natural resources" of Eritrea, Ethiopia's northernmost province, the sources said.

They are Powers William Cayce, 36, a geologist from Plainview, Tex.; John W. Rogers of New York, on loan to Tenneco from Texaco, and Cliff James, 27, a geologist from Walkerton, Ont., sources said.

The guerrillas' plans for the other three captives are not known. They are Deborah Dortzbach, 24, a pregnant nurse from Freehold, N.J.; Donald Werdefort, 27, a pilot from Calgary, Alta., and Motta Pauela, 52, an American geochemist with the United Nations Development Program.

The five men were captured March 26 when their helicopter crashed in a sandstorm. A second helicopter was sent for them after negotiations between Tenneco and the guerrillas indicated they would be freed. But the guerrillas seized that helicopter and used it to kidnap Mrs. Dortzbach from a mission hospital in the heart of ELF country to treat wounded guerrillas.

Tourists view historic sites

Tourists at historic Arrow Rock take a free walking tour to the Old Saline County Court House, one of nine places to visit on the tour. The walking tours are consponsored by the Missouri State Park Board and the Friends of Arrow Rock. They are given three times daily, seven days a week at 10 a.m., 1 p.m. and 3 p.m. This is the ninth consecutive year for the tours.

Arrow Rock tours planned

JEFFERSON CITY -- Free walking tours of historic Arrow Rock are being conducted again this year by the Missouri State Park Board and Friends of Arrow Rock, James L. Wilson, state parks director, said recently.

The historic community overlooking the Missouri River is the point where the Santa Fe Trail began, and once was the home of the famous Missouri artist, George Caleb Bingham. The town is being restored to the period 1830-1850.

The one-hour walking tours begin at the Dr. Mathew Hall House. They include guided walks through the Hall House, the George Caleb Bingham House, Old Saline County Court House, the Odd Fellows Hall with its exhibition of early printing presses, and the Sites' Gun Shop and residence.

Other points of interest along the tour are the old jail, the Dr. Price home, the Dr. Bradford home, and the Old Seminary Building. Visitors also may tour the Arrow Rock Tavern for a small fee.

Wilson said the tours are given three times daily, seven days a week, at 10 a.m., 1 p.m. and 3 p.m.

They have been conducted for the past nine years and attract more than 8,000 visitors each year, he said.

In addition to the, various historic buildings in Arrow Rock, there are also picnicking and camping facilities available at the Arrow Rock State Historic Site.

Survey to be conducted in Stoddard Co.

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — Interviewers from the Survey Research Center of The University of Michigan will begin contacting families in Stoddard County this week in connection with a national study of general political attitudes and opinions held by citizens in this area and in 73 other area scattered throughout the United States.

Interviewers will contact residents at about 2,700 addresses chosen scientifically to provide an accurate cross section of the American people. This study is part of an international data collection and comparable studies have been completed in Great Britain. The Netherlands, Germany and Austria during the past year.

Survey Research Center interviewers will also be conducting interviews with other families in this area on attitudes toward and patterns of charitable giving.

The results of both studies will be analyzed and published in statistical form. Findings are never identified with any person or address.

The Survey Research Center is a part of the University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research. The Center maintains a staff of professionally trained interviewers in local areas to conduct the interviews in several national surveys each year. Interviewers in this area will be Pauline Dalton and Geneva Eakin.

Fire destroys mobile home

DEXTER — A house trailer rented by Mr. and Mrs. Roger Patterson was totally destroyed by flames Monday afternoon in the west end of Gaslight Village, a trailer park just north of Dexter's city limits.

The trailer, owned by park manager Clyde Vaughn, had been rented by the Patterson's for the past six months.

The cause of the blaze has not yet been determined, Fire Chief Al Banken stated. Banken reported that the blaze was "totally involved" when firemen arrived. "It was way beyond control," he added. "All we could do was watch it burn and protect nearby trailers from the heat and flames."

The fire was controlled after several hours, however nothing remained but the frame.

Sisco waives hearing; bound over to Circuit

NEW MADRID — Charles Michael Sisco of Sikeston re-appeared Tuesday in Magistrate Court and waived a preliminary hearing on a charge of tampering with a motor vehicle. He was bound over to Circuit Court under $500 bond.

Sisco was accused of removing a tire and rim from a truck owned by Ford Motor Co. in Sikeston.

Roy A. Boyd of New Madrid was arraigned Monday on two charges of exhibiting a dangerous weapon. He was released under $500 bond on each charge, pending a preliminary hearing which will be set at a later date.

Boyd is accused of exhibiting a pistol in a threatening manner towards Johnnie Jones on Saturday and also displaying a pistol in a threatening manner in the presence of Robert Wayne Dees.

Benny Woodrow Hendon Jr. pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated. He was fined $125, given six- months suspended jail sentence and placed on probation for one year.

Joe Carter paid a $35 fine on a charge of operating a motor vehicle without a copy of Missouri special fuel user's permit.

Ama Lee Morgan, Robert Lee Akins and Jimmy Dale Hunt were each fined $20 on charges of no operator license.

The same amount of fine was levied against Benjamin Leon Taylor and James Walter Bell, each charged with operating a motor vehicle with out-of-state operator's license while a Missouri resident; and Charles Haywood Tuggle, charged with following too closely.

Fines imposed on speeding charges were against Argel Virdane Morrow, $50; Vernon John Hartman, Paul Edward Hill and John Henry Hatfield, $32 each; Rudy Claude Dodd, $30; Nathan Jay Davis and Larry Dean Smith, $28 each; Larry Gene Hill and H. S. Session, $25 each; and William Hurley Miller, $20.

New member welcome

Rotary Club President Jim Woods, left congratulates David C. Keenan, Monday night on becoming a new member of the Sikeston Rotary Club. John Garrett, right, area agonomist, presented the program. Keenan is employed with Noranda Aluminum Inc. of New Madrid as the general sales manager.

Agronomist discusses crops with Rotarians

John Garrett, area agronomist with the University of Missouri Extension Service, discussed major crops of the area with Rotarians Monday night at the Ramada Inn.

Garrett cited the wheat crop as a possible short yield-per-acre crop this year. He told Rotarians he expected the yield to drop from the 35 to 40 bushels per acre harvested to 30 to 32 bushels per acre.

Garrett said the present cotton price is 44 cents per pound, which is just a break-even price and leaves the farmer no profit for his work.

The soybean price is now $5.10 to $5.40 per bushel, Garrett said. He added that two years ago this would have been a good price, but today with the high cost of production, it is doubtful the farmer will see much profit at the $5 price.

The brightest picture in the future for farmers is corn, Garrett said. He added that the price of corn is about $2.60 per bushel and with an average yield of 125 to 150 bushels per acre the farmer can make a profit this year.

3 officers take 40-hour course

Police Chief Leon Culp today announced that three Sikeston police officers attended the Computer Terminal School June 3 to 7 at the State Highway Patrol Law Enforcement Academy in Jefferson City.

The three officers were John Martin, Tommy Green and John Swinney.

The 40-hour course consisted of training in advanced computer terminal operations, entry and inquiry.

Steel price hike announced

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — U.S. Steel Corp. has announced price increases on a variety of products used in the auto and heavy construction industries.

The nation's largest steelmaker said Tuesday the increases, effective immediately, involve bars, semifinished products, rod, wire and plates.

A company spokesman said the increases move prices "toward the higher levels being charged by other producers." He said the new prices are no more than those of competitors.

Although the size of the increases was not announced, the company said the boosts would result in an increase of less than 3 per cent in overall revenue.

Last year, the company reported total sales of more than $7 billion. The products affected by the price hikes account for about 25 per cent of the giant steelmaker's product line.

U.S. Steel had joined other producers in raising prices after federal wage-price controls were ended in April. The Cost of Living Council had allowed the industry price increases totaling 9.2 per cent during the last phase of controls.

The company spokesman said those increases "were cost-justified under Phase Four.

He said that even with the latest increases U.S. Steel has not fully recovered cost increases incurred while wage-price controls were in effect.

DR LAWRENCE E. LAMB

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Our daughter married a young man who had the mumps go down into his testicles as a young boy. What are the chances of him being sterile? They want a family and so far no conception has taken place. If you feel they have a problem, what steps should they take?

I do not like to see our daughter needlessly upset, but I do not know how to advise them.

DEAR READER — There is no way to tell what the problem is that prevents a couple from having a baby without a careful examination. It can be because of the woman or because of the man. The mistake that is usually made is examining the woman only.

It is true that this complication of mumps can cause a man to be sterile, without affecting his sex drive or capacity. Despite such a complication, many men are fertile.

Some couples have fertility problems because of their habits. Lubricants, for example, may kill live sperm cells and decrease the likelihood of pregnancy.

Your daughter should go see her doctor for an examination. He may want her to go to the obstetrician, and he, in turn, may wish to examine both of them or arrange for your son-in-law to have an examination. Many people with this problem can be helped.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have read dozens of articles on bust development. How about us girls who would like to reduce our busts? I'm a 40C and, frankly, find it very uncomfortable. If it helps, I'm 20, five feet eight, and 144 pounds.

I need to lose about 10 pounds which would help some, but not as much as I would like. Corrective surgery is not possible because my doctor says my bust is not so overly large to require it. Are there any kinds of exercises that would really help reduce the bust? Please help — you are my last resort.

DEAR READER — There are situations where large breasts really need surgical reduction. In some of these instances special medicine is then needed to prevent them from regaining their former size. Most doctors feel as your doctor does, that such operations should be reserved for women who have exaggerated enlargement of the breasts.

Women do complain when their breasts are too large. The weight alone is uncomfortable and in extreme instances can cause support straps to irritate the skin.

The only exercises of use in reducing moderately enlarged breasts are those that help you lose weight. That means endurance exercises such as running, walking, tennis and other competitive sports.

For additional information on losing weight you may want to get the booklet I have prepared for readers on this subject. Send 50 cents to "Losing Weight," in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

You are right, your breasts will decrease in size if you can lose some weight. The fat in the breasts decreases with general body fat loss. If you eliminate 15 pounds it would make quite a difference. Also birth control pills often cause a woman to retain water and will cause some breast enlargement, just in case you are using them.

Dr. Lamb welcomes questions from his readers, but because of the volume of mail he cannot answer personally. Questions of general interest will be discussed in future columns. Write to Dr. Lamb in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Woman loses home because of failure to pay $59 in taxes

CHICAGO (AP) — The state of Illinois has joined a suburban woman who has been fighting for two years against losing her $25,000 house because she failed to pay $59.81 in taxes and penalties.

The Evanston home of Mrs. Lillian Ware, a 59-year-old practical nurse with a history of heart trouble, was bought by two Chicago real estate brokers who specialize in the purchase of tax delinquent property.

"My life savings are in that home," Mrs. Ware said. "It is paid for completely. I have put so much into it."

Mrs. Ware appeared to run out of luck last week when the Illinois Supreme Court refused to review an Appellate Court decision upholding the purchase.

But Tuesday, Gov. Daniel Walker said he was joining up with Mrs. Ware. Walker contends that Allan Blair and David R. Gray bought Mrs. Ware's home on a tax delinquency technicality, but that they did it through a corporate front which does not have a real estate license. This, "we believe, is a violation of the law," Walker said.

He said the alleged violation would invalidate the purchase of the home and that he will ask the courts to so rule. He said it also established grounds for revoking the individual brokers licenses of Blair and Gray.

The tax delinquency dates to a period in 1968 when Mrs. Ware was convalescing from a heart ailment.

What's the law?

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Ralph and Anita found that the marital ritual was easier said than done. After a short time, they got a divorce.

Thereafter, however, they discovered their errant ways and went to see a Catholic priest about getting married again.

When he told them that "in the eyes of God" they were still married, they simply set up housekeeping again and, being unsophisticated in such matters, proceeded to live together as husband and wife as if there had been no interruption.

Eighteen years later, Ralph had the ill- fortune of dying as the result of a work- connected injury. When Anita applied for a Workmen's Compensation award, however, she was turned down cold.

"Sorry," she was told, "but since you and Ralph never remarried after your divorce, you're not his widow and you're not entitled to any benffits."

"Of course I'm his widow," responded anita with appropriate indignation. "And, I didn't have to remarry him. The priest said we were still married and that was good enough for me. Besides, we had six kids. With six kids, we were as married as we could be."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you grant unsophisticated Anita a Workmen's Compensation award?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that the Workmen's Compensation laws provide a substitute for the financial support that a working man provided for his dependants during his lifetime.

In this case, concluded the judge, Ralph and Anita lived together for 18 years as husband and wife and, for all intents and purposes they were husband and wife, so she was entitled to the award claimed.

Frankly speaking

Data bank may invade privacy

By THOMAS EAGLETON
U.S. Senator - Missouri

The General Services Administration has announced it will spend about $50 million this year to purchase the first computers in what will eventually become a fullblown national data bank. Their justification for this is greater efficiency in government.

Ultimately, the GSA hopes to link up every major federal agency to a central computer which will store all agency records. Presumably, this could include sensitive data on individuals from FBI files, Internal Revenue Service accounts, and Department of Defense records.

While GSA denies the system will be used in that way, it concedes it central computer system (dubbed FEDNET for Federal Network) would have the capability of retrieving at the push of a single button all the information on given individuals or groups which is today contained in scattered federal records.

Secret Codes

GSA Administrator Arthur Sampson argues that the use of the system to collect government- wide information on individuals would be prevented by assigning each agency using the computer a secret code.

Computer experts, however, say codes provide minimal security at best and can be easily broken by an outsider. Moreover, the proposed FEDNET would be administered by a special computer division under one administrator who would have access to all codes.

The potentials for abusing individual privacy through such a system are enormous. We didn't need Watergate to alert us to the dangers involved in the collection and dissemination of personal data by federal agencies.

Over a period of ten years, Senator Sam Ervin's Subcommittee on Constitutional Rights has put together a veritable catalogue of such abuses including Army surveillance files, passport lookout lists, and Small Business Administration character investigation records.

Ironically, the first department which GSA proposes to link into the system is the Department of Agriculture. That is the department which last year sought access to tax records of individaul farmers on grounds that data could be collected more efficiently in that manner. Only strong opposition from Congress prevented the income tax survey from taking place.

Opposition Lines Up

There is also a question whether FEDNET would result in significant economies in the use of federal computer equipment. The Office of Management and Budget, for example, has publicly opposed the GSA plan and has suggested there are many better alternatives.

Opposition has come, too, from Vice President Gerald Ford, who is currently heading an executive branch study on the threat to individual privacy by government data systems.

I strongly oppose the GSA plan and as a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee I intend to offer an amendment to block implementation of the proposal. Even if it could be shown that such a system would result in savings, I believe the more important consideration is the cost to the rights of the individual.

Store short on pennies; gives candy instead

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Kevin McAuley went to a Greensboro department store and bought $3.72 worth of merchandise.

The clerk gave him change from four dollars—a quarter and three penny pieces of peppermint candy.

It seems the store was short of pennies.

Later Sunday, McAuley's wife and her mother, Mrs. Blanche Simon of Greensboro, decided to find out if the candy was really worth a penny. They went back to the store and made an 80-cent purchase, 84 cents with tax.

They gave the cashier 82 cents in coins and two pieces of peppermint candy.

The cashier didn't know what to do and asked the manager about it. The store had been giving candy in lieu of pennies, but not accepting

Economy deserves attention

By STUART SYMINGTON
U.S. Senator—Missouri

WASHINGTON, D. C. — For some time we have expressed the belief that the economic strength of the United States is a vital part of our true national security. In that regard greater attention should be devoted to the problems affecting our economy and the value of the dollar here at home and less to the financial problems of other countries.

For these reasons I opposed the further authorization of $1.5 billion over 3 years for the International Development Association -- the so-called "soft-loan window" of the World Bank. The Senate, however, has approved this funding authority.

IDA was created to permit the more developed countries of the world to provide low-interest, long- term loans to assist emerging nations in the consturction of projects to further their economic growth. It is apparent however, that the goals of IDA have not been fulfilled.

The United States has been called upon to provide the largest share of loan money to IDA. Only a very small number of developing countries have shared the bulk of IDA loans.

It is increasingly clear that our government has come to treat IDA loans more as gifts, because of the little assurance that this money will be repaid when due in 50 years.

In instances, some governments have taken these IDA "credits" and loaned that same money to their own citizens at high interest rates.

As the Chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, Arthur Burns, has so ably pointed out from any standard of fiscal or monetary consideration, the United States is going bankrupt.

We have continuing problems in the fields of both trade and our overall balance of payments. In addition, this year we will have another budget deficit running in excess of $15 billion.

Under such circumstances, it is important to heed the warnings from the Federal Reserve Chairman, from housewives, from people who operate farms, and businesses and put an end to expenditures which only further damage the strength of our economy.

SOLAR HEATING FOR HOMES -- Because the current and anticipated needs for energy are rising, the Senate has directed a firm commitment to the development of solar energy under the Solar Heating and Cooling Demonstration Act of 1974 whch passed theSenate May 21.

This bill would allow federal agencies to fund projects that could demonstrate the use of solar heating and cooling in specially designed homes.

These homes will be located in different geographical areas to achieve fair test results and will be constructed to specifications intended to make efficient use of the solar heating and cooling systems. The bill, if finally passed by the Congress, would direct the houses to be sold to and operated by individuals and families who would monitor the house's energy producing performance over a 5- year period.

NEIL TISE RECEIVES AWARD — Last month, in a ceremony here in Washington, Neil Tise with the Farmers Home Administration in Columbia, Missouri received a Superior Service Award from the Secretary of Agriculture The award to Mr. Tise, a native of Pleasant Hope, Missouri, and a life- long resident of our State, was in recognition of his work in the area of rural community development.

We are indeed pleased that Neil Tise was honored for his good work for so many rural Missourians.

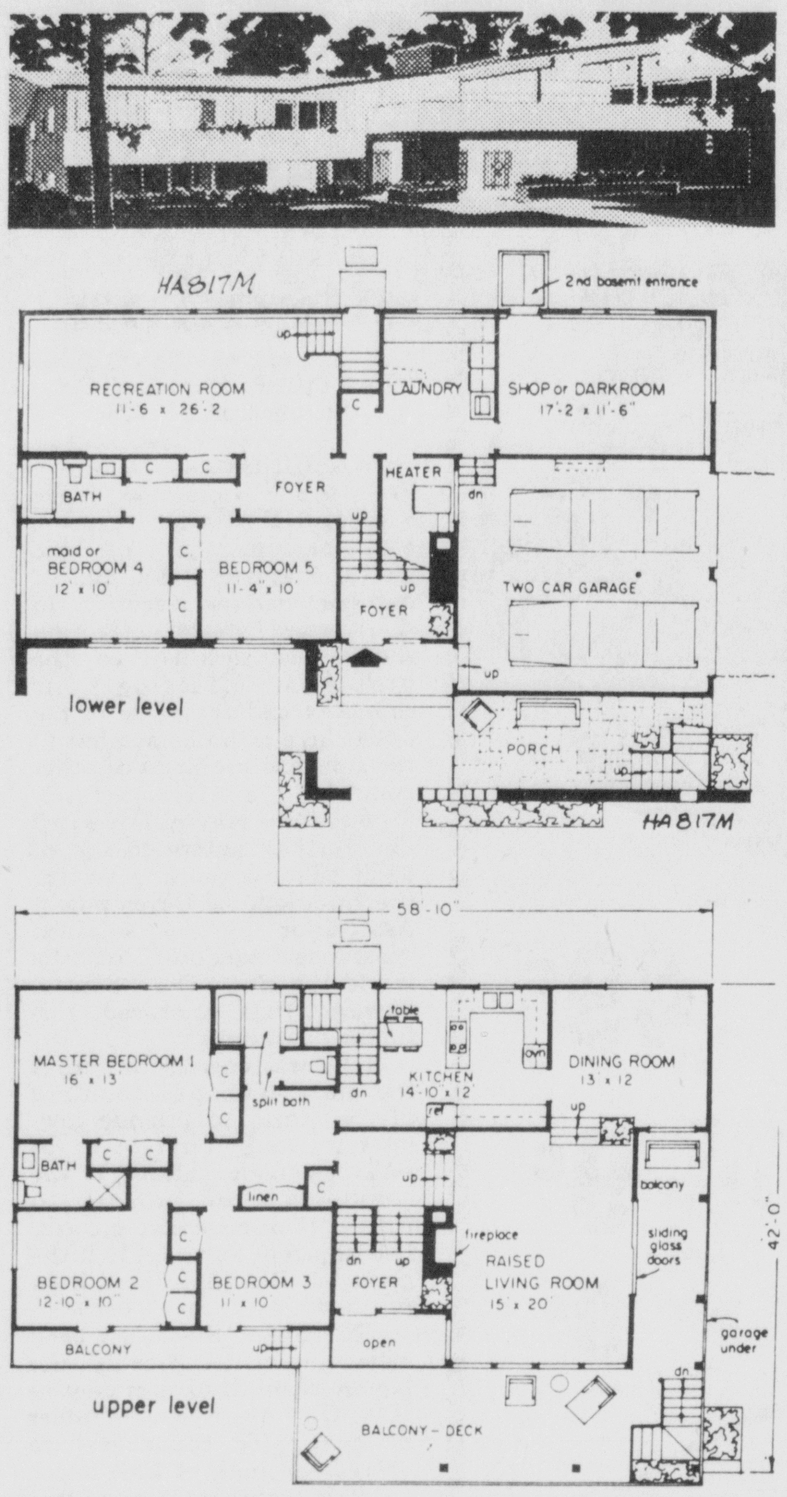
HOMES FOR AMERICANS



HOUSE PLAN HA817M, a five bedroom Contemporary split level-split entry home features a raised living room perched above the two-car garage which is located on ground level. There is a large balcony deck in front for outdoor living; the balcony structure and the brick wall enclose another outdoor living area. A lower level balcony is also provided off the front bedrooms which connects by steps to the main deck. To enter this home one must walk through wrought-iron gates in the pierced masonry wall, under the protective balcony and up to the front door. There the balcony opens up to a two-story shaft above. A rear set of stairs, for its slight additional cost, completes traffic control throughout the home. The lower level, excluding the garage, is 1246 square feet; the upper level, excluding the deck, is 1689 square feet. Rudolph A. Matern, 89 E. Jericho Tpke., Mineola, N.Y. 11501, designed the home. Anyone interested in learning the cost of the blueprint can write to Matern, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

VEGETABLE OF THE YEAR

America's leading seedsmen, meeting at Atlanta, Georgia, voted looseleaf lettuce "Vegetable of the Year." Easy-to-grow and early-to-mature are some reasons for its popularity among homeowners.

When seedsmen meeting at Atlanta, Georgia, were asked to name a "Vegetable of the Year," the voting was almost equally divided between Swiss chard and looseleaf lettuce, but looseleaf lettuce finally gained the vote, taking the title away from the hybrid tomato, which won the previous year.

The seedsmen decided on looseleaf lettuce for three main reasons:

1 — It's so easy to grow even a beginner gardener can expect good success with it. The seeds can be direct sown straight into the garden, and the mature lettuce leaves will be ready to pick in just 50 days.

2 — Heads of lettuce in the store are never cheap, yet a 35c packet will produce hundreds of plants if a gardener has the space for them all — and this will help him save substantially on food bills.

3 — No garden should be without lettuce — even a flower garden, since the frilly-leaved looseleaf kinds can be planted among flowers to look decorative.

A seed display, seed catalog or garden center will offer a wide assortment of looseleaf lettuce to choose from, and selection is purely a matter of personal taste. Some reliable varieties include Black Seeded Simpson, an old-fashioned kind that shows no sign of diminishing in popularity, and Oak Leaf, which is a useful variety because it withstands heat better than most other varieties of lettuce. Also, you can pick the outer leaves of several plants, and more inner leaves will grow to take their place. Another interesting variety is Ruby, an All-America winner. It is tinged red on the outer edges, while the inner part of the leaves is a bright green.

Sow all varieties of lettuce in early spring. They tolerate light frosts and do best in cool weather. Plant again in midsummer for another crop in the fall.

Watch what happens...

Your family, like most, is experiencing a little pinch with the high cost of living. Your idea has been to round up a number of items around the house that you no longer need, but which you know would be valuable and useful to someone else.

And your idea now is to call the Classified Department and place an ad offering these items for sale.

Now . . . watch what happens!

In a day's time you'll begin receiving phone calls from people interested in buying the things you no longer need. And before you know it, you'll have that little extra cash in your hand we can all use.

That's exactly how it happens to lots and lots of homemakers . . . every day!

Doctors accused of manslaughter in fetus research

BOSTON (AP) — Around Boston City Hospital, Dr. Kenneth Edelin is known as one of the good guys.

There is a lot of talk about his skill, his interest in the black ghetto community surrounding the hospital, and his compassion.

And so, Boston's medical community is asking why the district attorney is accusing Dr. Kenneth Edelin of manslaughter in the death of a fetus he aborted in a legal operation.

The indictment of the 35-year-old doctor, the first black chief resident in obstetrics and gynecology at Boston City Hospital—BCH, could make medical and legal history, but Dr. Edelin says he would prefer that someone else have the historical recognition.

The rugged-looking, mustached physician finds himself, along with several colleagues, in the middle of separate, but related legal actions concerning legalized abortions, the rights of the fetus and fetal experimentation.

No stranger to revolutionary confrontation, Boston is bracing itself for a precedent-setting legal battle that could lead to a new legal definition of a human person and challenge the U.S. Supreme Court's abortion rulings.

When after conception does the growing mass of cells in a woman's womb become a human with a right to life and the legal protection entitled a human being? This and related questions have divided society's thinkers for centuries.

The Supreme Court last year struck down restrictive state abortion laws, but left unanswered the basic question of when a fetus becomes a human being capable of life and entitled to legal rights.

For the nation's medical community, the question came dramatically before them on April 11 when the "Boston Indictments," as they've become known in medical circles, were handed down by a Suffolk County grand jury.

Dr. Edelin was indicted for manslaughter in connection with the death of a 22-to 24-week-old male fetus. In separate indictments, delivered the same day, four other BCH doctors were indicted for research conducted with fetuses aborted at the hospital. The two cases are not directly related.

Charged under an 1814 state law designed to curb grave robbing were Drs. Leon D. Sabath and Leonard Berman and two others who had left the hospital, Dr. David Charles, now in Newfoundland, and Dr. Agneta Philipson, now in Sweden.

The doctors are not charged with grave robbing, but with carrying away bodies—aborted fetuses—for the purpose of dissection without authorization. Dr. Berman, a BCH pathologist, supplied fetal material to the other doctors for their study.

That study, published in the June 7, 1973 issue of the New England Journal of Medicine, described the doctors' experiment to determine how well two antibiotics passed through the placenta from mother to fetus. The antibiotics were given to 33 mothers before their abortions.

Dr. Sabath said in an interview that all 33 gave their informed consent to participate in the study. He asserted that the abortions would have been performed anyway, even if the women had not participated in the study.

Using small amounts of tissue from aborted fetuses was "the safest and most moral way" to conduct the study, Dr. Sabath said, rather than using full-term babies who might have been harmed by the drugs.

The Committee of Human Studies at BCH, which sees that proper safeguards are followed in human experiments, approved the study beforehand, Dr. Sabath added.

"It's rather paradoxical that this study has attracted so much nonprofessional interest after we went through so much trouble to do everything properly."

The study attracted the attention of Right-to-Life committees in heavily Roman Catholic Boston. The city council held hearings on the BCH research and after strong anti-abortion sentiment was voiced, the council called for a criminal investigation.

Dist. Atty. Garrett Byrne's eight-month investigation culminated with the grand jury indictments. During the investigation, the hospital records of the 33 mothers were examined by the grand jury. Numerous hospital staff members were called to testify.

The grand jury became aware of the Dr. Edelin abortion as a result of the investigation of the BCH research project.

Critics of the indictments charge they were politically motivated. They say the doctors are being used as scapegoats to challenge the U.S. Supreme Court abortion rulings, which permit abortion almost on demand during the first six months of pregnancy.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Newman A. Flanagan, chief prosecutor in the doctors' cases, heatedly denies the indictments have anything to do with politics, although Byrne, a 22-year incumbent, is running for re-election this year.

The district attorney's office released few details of the indictments, and the defendants say they are not sure what, specifically, they are charged with. Lawyers for Dr. Edelin and the doctors in the other case say they must get more details before they can prepare a defense.

As a result of the BCH controversy, the Massachussetts Legislature is considering bills increasing controls over abortion and fetal research.

The results of the Boston cases could determine if similar restrictive legislation is introduced elsewhere in the country. Researchers say such measures could stifle medical progress. But critics of fetal research say medical progress should not come at the expense of mothers or fetuses, which they consider human.

4 hospitals exempt from tax collection

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Supreme Court upheld Monday a lower court ruling that four Missouri hospitals are not required to obtain sales tax licenses or collect sales taxes in the operation of their food service facilities or gift shops.

The opinion agreed with Cole County Circuit Judge James T. Riley that the four hospitals were no-for-profit institutions, which have no capital stock and do not pay dividends.

Quoting an earlier opinion in a similar case, the court said the income from such operations "is not to make profits but to devote any income in its operation to the charitable purpose of operating a hospital for the benefit of all who come to its doors."

The ruling came in the case of St. John's Medical Center, Inc., of Joplin; Lester E. Cox Medical Center of Springfield; St. Joseph Hospital of Kansas City and the Pemiscot County Memorial Hospital of Hayti, all of which Riley said were exempt from the collection or payment of sales tax on the sale of food or gifts.

The three private hospitals, the court noted, each operate a gift shop through auxiliaries of volunteers, but added that such shops are customary in Missouri hospitals and do not constitute competition for commercial establishments since their prices "tend to be higher than outside stores."

The court also said the revenue from the gift shops goes for use in "the accomplishment of its charitable purposes."

The ruling comes in the wake of a Kansas City area court ruling that private hospitals are subject to property taxes. Hospital officials around the state have said, however, that the Supreme Cojrt will be asked to rule on that question.

COOKING-UP

By NADINE TOWNSEND

NEW MADRID — This week's recipes are tried and true favorites of Mrs. Louis F. Jones and family of New Madrid Route One.

The elegant hash casserole remains hot for a long time if baked in a heavy earthenware dish, Mrs. Jones said, which makes it ideal for carry-in potluck meals.

Inexpensive and a great cold drink, easy fruit punch will make a hit with the kids at a picnic or birthday party.

Mrs. Jones said the boiled cookies are so quick and easy she often makes them in the time it takes a pot of coffee to perk.

Chocolate pie lovers will find Dorothy's chocolate cream pie just scrumptious, but for those who prefer coconut, the recipe is easily altered for an equally good coconut cream pie.

Look for more good recipes featuring pickles and relishes by Mrs. Jones in The Daily Standard's annual cookbook section scheduled for publication later this month.

ELEGANT HASH

1 lb. ground beef
1 cup finely grated carrots
3 cups grated raw potatoes
1 onion chopped
1½ cups milk
½ cup bread crumbs

Mix together meat, carrots, potatoes and onions. Add milk, salt and pepper to taste. Turn into buttered casserole dish. Cover with crumbs and dot with butter. Bake at 375 degrees for two hours or until done.

SAUSAGE CASSEROLE

1 lb. bulk sausage
1 cup chopped onion
2 cups cooked macaroni
2 cups canned tomatoes
1 tsp. salt
½ cup grated cheese
½ cup bread crumbs

Brown sausage and onion in frying pan. Drain off excess fat. Add macaroni, tomatoes, salt and one- half of the cheese. Put into baking dish and sprinkle top with crumbs and remaining cheese. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes.

PORK CHOPS AND RICE

4 to 6 pork chops
½ cup raw quick rice
1 cup tomato juice
2 cup boiling water
small onion, chopped
small green pepper, chopped
salt and pepper to taste

Mix rice, juice, water, onion and green pepper. Place in baking dish and lay seasoned chops on top. Cover and bake at 425 degrees until mixture boils, then reduce heat to 325 degrees and bake for about one hour.

EASY FRUIT PUNCH

2 pkgs. any flavor powdered soft drink mix
2 cups sugar
2 qts. water
1 qt. pineapple juice
1 qt. ginger ale

Mix and stir in order given. Refrigerate until cold or pour over crushed ice.

BOILED COOKIES

1 stick oleo
2 cups sugar
4 tbsp. cocoa
½ cup milk
2½ cups quick-type oats
1 tsp. vanilla
2 tbsp. peanut butter
½ cup nuts (optional)

Combine oleo, sugar, cocoa and milk in sauce pan; bring to boil and cook two minutes. Take off heat and add oats, vanilla, peanut butter and nuts. Drop by tablespoon on wax paper.

DOROTHY'S CHOCOLATE CREAM PIE

1/3 cups cocoa
¾ cup sugar
1/3 cup flour
¼ tsp. salt
2½ cups diluted evaporated cream (1¼ cups cream mixed with equal amount of water)

2 eggs beaten or 3 yolks beaten
1 tablespoon butter
1 tsp. vanilla

Mix cocoa, sugar, flour and salt in a heavy saucepan. Add small amount of cream and stir to make a smooth paste, then add remainder of cream, eggs, butter and vanilla. Cook over medium heat and stir until thick.

Pour into baked pastry shell. Top with meringue and brown lightly. The recipe doubled will fill three regular nine- inch shells or one deep shell.

For coconut cream pie, omit cocoa, reduce sugar to one half cup and add one cup of coconut to the cream filling before pouring into baked pastry shell. Top with meringue and brown lightly.

EGG CUSTARD

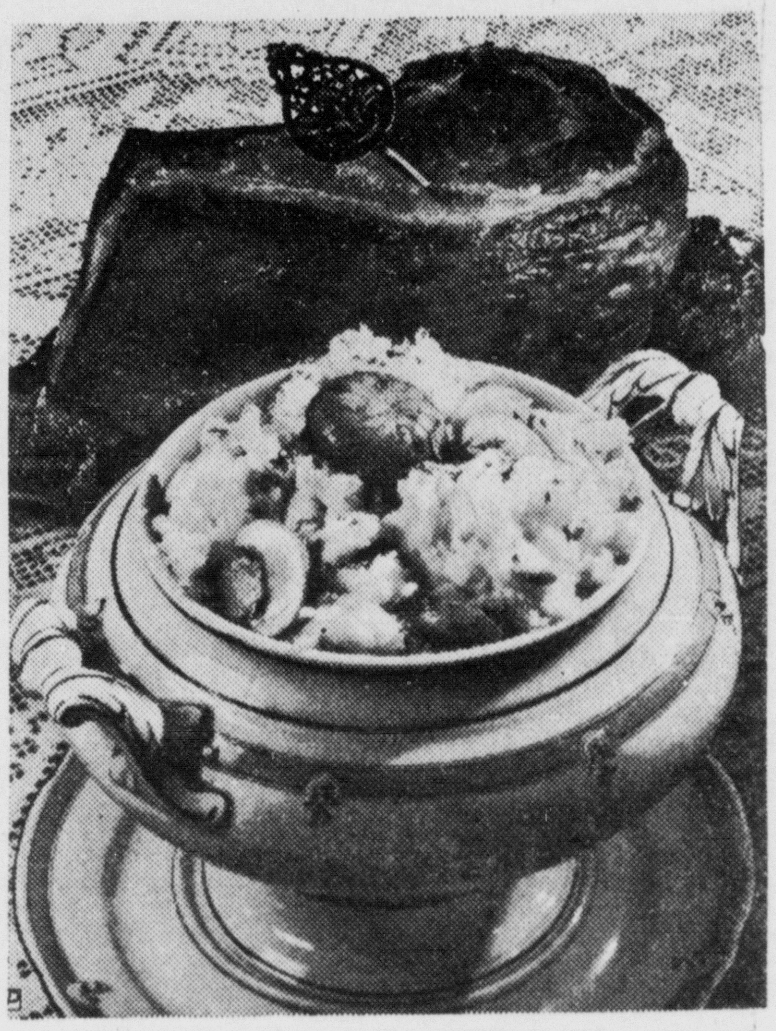
2 cups scalded milk
¾ cup sugar
3 eggs beaten
1 tsp. vanilla
pinch of salt

Combine ingredients and pour into nine- inch deep pie shell. Sprinkle top with nutmeg. Bake at 450 degrees for 10 minutes, reduce oven to 325 degrees and bake for 25 minutes or until inserted knife blade remains clean.

CREAMY FROSTING

2½ tbsp. flour
½ cup milk
pinch of salt
½ cup sugar
½ cup vegetable shortening
1 tsp. vanilla
1 cup powdered sugar

Cook and stir flour, milk and salt mixture until thick. Remove from heat and let cool completely. Add sugar, shortening and vanilla; beat until sugar is dissolved, then add powdered sugar. Beat until creamy and holds stiff peaks. This frosting is excellent for cake decorating tubes and may be tinted with desired food coloring.



FOR FATHER'S DAY—Serve roast beef and super mashed potatoes

Look what's cooking for this Father's Day

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

For Father's Day on June 16, cook a dinner that Pop will be sure to enjoy. In other words, plan a main course of beef and potatoes. Add a vegetable or a salad and a dessert that he particularly likes and he's bound to be appreciative of your efforts.

For the meat choose a standing beef rib roast weighing 6 to 8 pounds and including the first two or three ribs. Place the roast, straight from the refrigerator and fat side up, in a shallow roasting pan. Roast in a 325-degree oven to desired doneness. The meat thermometer will register 135 degrees for rare (20 to 25 minutes per pound); 155 degrees for medium 25 to 30 minutes per pound); and 165 degrees for well-done (30 to 35 minutes per pound). Let the roast stand in a warm place for 15 to 20 minutes after removal from oven and before carving.

For the accompanying potatoes, you may want to use the following luxurious recipe.

SUPER MASHED POTATOES

1½ pounds baking-type potatoes, peeled
Salt
1 clove garlic, peeled
3 tablespoons butter
1 egg yolk
¼ cup light cream
¼ pound mushrooms, sliced and sauteed in butter
2 tablespoons minced parsley
White pepper

Boil potatoes in boiling water to cover with ½ teaspoon salt and the garlic; drain. Mash potatoes well and add 3 tablespoons butter, egg yolk and cream. Fold in mushrooms and parsley. Add salt and pepper to taste. Keep warm in oven until ready to serve. Makes 4 to 6 servings. Recipe may be doubled.

STEAK PERFECTION

The best for Dad on his special day is beef. The ultimate is a special steak — Porterhouse, T-bone, sirloin, rib eye or tenderloin. Requiring no preliminary preparation, these are favorites of chefs as well as diners. Each does merit careful attention to be presented at its best. Most important is broiling at a moderate temperature. When cooking on an outdoor grill, this means waiting until the coals are covered with gray ash. Steaks cut at least an inch thick are best for the grill. Take care not to overcook. Since time estimates cannot be exact in variable outdoor conditions, check steaks frequently.

Coffee Corner by Cherie

Well, school is out and already I feel like I'm a ripe candidate for the boobey hatch!! How does one ever lull oneself into thinking that summer vacation is vacation? Whoever dubbed it that must have either had rocks in their head, or been a teacher without any children at home. Glory be, I haven't had a chance to even sit down in the morning and have a cup of coffee before the constant cry begins — "Quick mom, I've got to meet so and so on the golf course by 7:30," (they only played 88 holes the day before). Or, "Get those pants washed and ironed mom, they're the only ones I've got to wear to work this morning!" They may be the only ones he's got to wear, he thinks, but frankly, I'm a little curious as to what he's planning on using the other five pair he has hanging in his closet for — do men and little boys always prefer the worn out clothing or chairs, or whatever? Boy, all three of them should just be mad about me, cause I'm firmly convinced I'm the most worn out item anywhere around our house!! And then, when you're not taking them somewhere, or picking them up from somewhere, you're shouting at them to walk the dog, feed the dog, practice the piano, mow the yard, and half a dozen other things you usually end up doing yourself because it's so much easier that way. However, in the winter you can excuse yourself on the grounds that with school and all they don't have time to get everything done; whereas, in the summer all of this makes my conscience hurt because I know the little twirps should really be doing it themselves, but hurt conscience or not, I find I'd rather do it myself!! Oh well, it's less than three months till school starts again, and maybe if I put in an extra supply of tranquilizers I just might (barely) make it!

Today in U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, June 12, the 163rd day of 1974. There are 202 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1665, New York City was incorporated under English law.

On this date—

In 1630, the first governor of the Massachusetts Bay Company, John Winthrop, sailed into Salem Harbor.

In 1838, the Iowa Territory was organized.

In 1940, Japenese planes bombed Chungking, China.

In 1943, the Trans-Canadian Highway was opened to traffic.

In 1963, civil rights leader Medgar Evers was shot to death in Jackson, Miss.

In 1970, Palestinian guerrillas burned Jordan's embassy in Beirut, Lebanon.

Ten years ago: West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard and President Lyndon Johnson met in Washington and reasserted the rights of the Western Powers in Germany and Berlin.

Five years ago: A 15-year-old Brooklyn, N.Y., boy who had lied about his age to join the Marines at 14, Dan Bullock, became the youngest American serviceman to be killed in Vietnam.

One year ago: Italy's Premier Giulio Andreotti and his Cabinet resigned during a political crisis.

Today's birthdays: Banker David Rockefeller is 59. Singer Vic Damone is 46. Singer and actor Jim Nabors is 41.

Thought for today: I am part of all that I have met — Lord Alfred Tennyson, English poet, 1809-1892.

OPERA COMES TO SARATOGA

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP) — The Saratoga Festival will have a first this summer, an opera, "Boris Godunov" on Aug. 27 and 29.

Dear Mr. Blanton:

I appreciated your coverage of our recent awards program. Your reporter for this area, Mrs. Shirley Pritchett, is most cooperative and avails herself often. I realize that priority publications and deadlines are major items of concern for you. Your Southeast Missouri Graduation Coverage was excellent. We were aware of this section, but could not meet the deadline due to our photographer not having completed our Senior composite. I do sincerely appreciate your publishing material in a later issue.

THE SECRET
(By Ralph S. Cushman)

I met God in the morning
When the day was at its best,
And His presence came like sunrise,
Like a glory in my breast!

All day long His presence lingered,
All day long He stayed with me,
And we sailed with perfect calmness
O'er a very troubled sea.

Other ships were blown and battered,
Other ships were sore distressed,
But the winds that seemed to drive them
Brought to us a peace and rest.

Then I thought of other mornings,
With a keen remorse of mind,
When I too had loosed the moorings

So I think I know the secret,
Learned from many a troubled way,
You must seek Him in the morning
If you want Him through the day.

(Submitted by C.D. Wright)

THINKING OF YOU
By: Lisa Roslen

Yesterday I just sat thinking of you.
And how I am always alone and blue.
When we were together things were bright and gay.
But now I am alone
without you and things are dark and gray.
I want you to know
and remember:
I am always thinking of you.

I CAN'T HATE SOMEONE I LOVE VERY MUCH
By: Lisa Roslen

I know we broke up and you found a new love. I know its not right to let my love for you show, but I can't help it. People say I shouldn't still feel this way but I can't help it. I tried to love another but it didn't work, I can't forget you or my love for you. When I am around you, you acted like you wished I hated you. Well I have to tell you this. I can't hate someone I love very much!

Dear Editor:

(NOTE: A copy of the following letter has been sent to all your Senators and Congressman.)

Recently, Sakharov, Russia's nuclear scientist, and nine other dissidents, who wholeheartedly support Alexander Solzhenitsyn, called for an international investigation of the crimes against innocent Soviet citizens. This is being well documented by Solzhenitsyn, Nobel Prize winner, who was forcibly arrested, imprisoned and exiled from Russia on February 13, 1974 without a trial.

Failure, through the years, to investigate the Russian horror and terror lies at the door of the United Nations. Its "Declaration of Human Rights" is proven to be a big lie by the United Nations' failure (since 1945) to condemn Soviet inhumanities and atrocities. The United Nations has, by its inaction, actually been siding with the Russian terrorists thus confirming that the United Nations is apparently controlled by the Communists.

What is your opinion?

Sincerely,
C. C. Moseley, President
and Chairman of the Board

Dear Editor:

On behalf of the officers, members and volunteers of the St. Louis Area Chapter, National Multiple Sclerosis Society, I wish to thank you, your staff and everyone in the Sikeston area who aided, contributed or worked on the 1974 MS Hope Chest Campaign.

The cooperation from the volunteers and contributors were so heartwarming that we are deeply gratified.

Your continued efforts to widen public understanding of the multiple sclerosis problem, make it possible to fund the Society's programs of patient services, pubic and professional educational and the vital National and International research programs that will eventually attain the goal that is a universal one: Conquering MS through research.

Sincerely,

USDA approves grant for Missouri

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The U.S. Department of Labor has approved Missouri's $3.1 million grant application to operate a summer youth employment program, Gov. Christopher S. Bond said Monday.

The funds will be used to provide income to youth along with work experience to improve their future employment opportunities, Bond said.

The major metropolitan areas of St. Louis, Kansas City, and Springfield will receive direct federal funds to operate their summer youth programs, he added.

Approximately 6,200 economically disadvantaged persons will be served throughout the state during the program's nine weeks of operation which begins this month, the governor said.

WONDERING WHAT HAPPENED to what was billed as "the greatest show of the century" when the comet Kahoutek was expected to illuminate the Christmas heavens last December, scientists are currently analyzing color-coded photographs of the comet to determine why it fizzled out long before reaching predicted brilliance. By coloring photos according to light wavelength and exposure, scientists have tracked the growth and collapse of Kahoutek to within 19 million miles of the Sun.

Highway department needs formal approval

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The state Highway Department must get the formal approval of the state commissioner of administration before letting contracts for repair or construction of buildings, an attorney general's opinion said Monday.

However, the opinion said, the highway department does not have to obtain approval before letting contracts to repair or construct highways.

The opinion was asked by Gov. Christopher S. Bond regarding language in the law setting up the office of administration, the state's primary housekeeping agency under control over the governor's office.

Another opinion said gasoline tax revenue could not be used to finance courses in driver education in schools.

The constitution says part of the money can go toward administering and enforcing state motor vehicle laws.

State Rep. Eugene Lang, R-Warrensburg, asked if the money could be used for such classes if a law were passed making such a class a prerequisite for issuing drivers' license to persons under the age of 18.

In that case, Lang asked, would the class be part of the administration or enforcement of a state motor vehicle law? The opinion said no.

Removal of coal pollutants sought

COLUMBIA — An inexpensive chemical means of removing impurities from coal, making it more efficient as a fuel and at the same time reducing its ecological damage, is the goal of Sandra J. Harlan of Clifton Hill, a graduate student at the University of Missouri- Columbia.

Her project is known as cleaning coal with coal and involves chemically removing metals and acidity from coal. She has developed a simple and inexpensive method that is so promising she has been granted $15,110 by the National Science Foundation to direct further studies during the three summer months, working with 11 other UMC graduate and undergraduate students of chemistry, physics and biology.

In one sense her project is not related to coal per se but to pollutants developed in its burning. To remove pollutants, her approach is to treat the gases in smokestacks with chemicals that remove the sulphur and metallic pollutants. Water used in the "scrubbing" absorbs the pollutants and in effect becomes a corrosive sulphuric acid solution. Miss Harlan, as a consequence, is searching for a method of cleaning up the water or of finding some use for the concentration.

Since Missouri has large reserves of coal, estimated at 80 billion tons and mostly of high sulphur content, it is of economic interest to the state if a solution is found to make the energy reserve more available.

Miss Harlan began on the project last year and worked during the school year with three or four other graduate students in coal- related research. The Science Foundation grant has a requirement that its funds be student- originated. She filled out the application forms which the Foundation approved and agreed to finance further studies.

While the United States has adequate coal reserves, most is of high sulphur content that would play havoc with the atmosphere, she explains. "A lot has to be done in the near future with coal or we'll be in trouble."

The summer research program likely will include field trips -- some of her laboratory mates haven't even seen a strip mine in operation -- as well as some outside speakers. The trips will include a visit to a coal company laboratory, she hopes.

Miss Harlan doesn't consider it odd that a woman is interested in coal. She was reared in coal country of Randolph county. Her late father, and now her brother, works for a coal company. She came to UMC to study chemistry and asked her professor for graduate studies relating to coal.

She doesn't consider science as a field limited to man. "Woman can function as well as a man in chemistry and other sciences," she said. "I like it. No one has ever discouraged me from becoming a scientist." She hasn't made up her mind whether, after getting her master's degree in August, she will go into research or management.

Her interest in chemistry stems from a high school teacher, Mrs. Marjorie Ruffner, teacher in the Salisbury school district. She recalls that of 50 graduates in her high school class, six enrolled at UMC, including another woman classmate who majored in chemistry and now is in medical school.

The summer project of the students will be assisted by Dr. Stanely E. Manahan, associate professor of chemistry, and Dr. Louis V. Holroyd, professor and chairman of physics.

Students involved in the project include Michael R. Sante of Kansas City; Robert Brown of Creve Coeur; Matt Pross of Lindbergh; Bruce Davis of Manchester; John Tenny of Raytown; Rex Berney of Cummins, Ga.; D. R. Jones of Albuquerque, N. M.; Les Isselhardt of St. Louis; John Green of Independence; Al Smith of Helena; and Phil Knutson of Spring Grove, Minn.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals opened their National League season at home under lights on Friday, April 5, against the Pittsburgh Pirates. The game also marked the opener for the Pirates.

The Cardinals have 59 night games scheduled for St. Louis. They have seven Monday night games, some of which may be seen on national television.

Cline presents legislative report

Rep. C. F. Cline of Sikeston presented his annual legislative report to the Kiwanis Club Tuesday morning at Ramada Inn. This report, which is presented to all area civic clubs, was followed by election of new officers.

Cline said the census of the 159th District, which he represents, was taken in 1970 and it states the total population to be 28,363. Of that number, he said, 14, 390 are in the corporate area and 13,996 in rural area; 5,157 have homes in the corporate area and 5,077 homes are in the rural area. There are also 14,200 registered voters, he added.

Cline said that in his two years, there have been 1,711 recording votes to be answered and he had answered 1,568 of those.

His office averages 12 letters per day Monday through Friday and his Sikeston office averages seven telephone calls per day.

Cline added that he served on three committees on the state level- Agricultural, Roads and Highways and State Parks and Recreation.

He said it was very interesting to represent rural Missouri as it is a constant battle with metropolitan Missouri.

Last year, the Missouri Legislature introduced 1,250 bills and passed 208 of them, he concluded.

Cline was introduced by Don Pratt.

New officers elected were announced following Rep. Cline's speech. They are: Bob Wright, president; Tom Lambert, first vice president; Gary Chullino, second vice president and secretary and Gilbert Hopper, treasurer.

Four new board members were elected for two year terms. they are Roy White, Dale Hill, John Nunnelee and Jim Wills.

A special board meeting was called following the announcement of new board members.

Charles Ainsworth was a guest of the club.

TORONTO (AP) — Impressed by the programs operated by five workshops in Toronto where 450 mentally retarded persons are employed under the auspices of Arc Industries, the Canadian Association for the Mentally Retarded plans to launch an appeal campaign here in May and collect $3 million to establish more facilities such as Arc throughout the country. There are 650,000 persons in Canada classified as mentally retarded.

Former commander honored

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark. - Col. Jean M. Crance, former commander of Blytheville Air Force Base, was honored May 31 on his retirmenet after 32 years of Air Force service.

During ceremonies here Col. Crane received the Meritorious Service Medal and a certificate of appreciation signed by President Richard Nixon for his Air Force service. His wife Sunny was presented a certificate of appreciation from the Air Force for her devotion as an Air Force wife.

Col. Crane commanded the base and the 97th Combat Support Group from July 1972 to early this year. He was assigned to the 42nd Air Division here during his last tour of duty.

His Air Force career began in 1942. After completing flight training in Florida he went to India to fly the famous "hump" from India to China.

Colonel Crane has spent 11 of his 32 years at Blytheville. He was formerly assigned here from 1961 to 1970, Other assignments have taken him to Rickenbacker AFB, Ohio; Chanute AFB, Ill., East Carolina University at Greenville, N.C., as an Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps instructor; and Barksdale AFB, La.

Under the Capitol dome

State budget work begins

JEFFERSON CITY — Preliminary work on the 1975-76 state budget already has started and already some storm warnings are flying.

Unless the problem is approached carefully with a view to having a meeting of the minds, the 1975 legislature could wind up in a tangle similar to the one this year, when the House and Senate were locked in combat up to the very last over the detailed, down to the penny system used by the House in the appropriation bills.

Now some sage advice has come from Charles F. Sturtz, director of the Budget Bureau in Michigan, who has been through the mill on similar problems.

In a joint letter to Rep. James "Jay" Russell, House Appropriations chairman; Arthur Betts, Senate appropriations consultant, and Mark Edelman, Missouri Comptroller and Budget Director, Sturtz pointed out some of the dangers involved.

He said it was his "unalterable belief that the consideration and embarkation on a program budget system must be a joint legislative-executive endeavor. There is nothing quite so discouraging, debilitating and, in the end, disastrous as one party jamming the system down on the other participants in the budget decision system."

He warned that detailed allocation such as the House supported this year lead to problems in managing appropriation deficiencies. He noted Michigan has the machinery to handle these problems. But Missouri does not.

"The transfer authority we have," Sturtz explained, "enables us to adjust budgets as required to affect several thousand transfer requests in any year. We have extensive computer assistance in this management effort. The executive must be able to manage within the bounds of legislative intent without gaining approval of every nickel and dime shifted.

"I encourage your interest in program budgeting but must suggest that an appropriation bill is not the appropriate means to that end. It is the end result, not the prime mover ..."

This may seem pretty complicated to the average person. What it means in plain language is that if Missouri appropriation bills were written in this form, the Legislative Fiscal Affairs Committee would have to be in session constantly to handle transfers from postage accounts, to telephone accounts, to travel accounts, to equipment repair accounts and so on down the line.

And there is some doubt, under Missouri's Constitution, whether the Fiscal Affairs committee would have the authority to do this. Even if it did have such power, it would take a huge staff to handle all the detail.

Sturtz expresses the strong belief that the executive branch must take the lead in establishing program budgeting, but that the Legislature must be brought into the process. He says it's a matter of give and take.

"Knowledge of the right response does not lie totally within the executive branch. To assume so is gross arrogance and results in an irreconcilable schism with the Legislature. However, I do strongly believe the executive must take the lead in translating the values and their measurement into a program structure for legislative reaction."

Maybe it's a little early to worry about this developing problem, but it's not too early to keep an eye on it.

The first use of lenses to form a telescope is attributed to Roger Bacon of England, who died in 1292.

Teen loses job after aiding in drug arrest

BIG CABIN, Okla. (AP) — A Big Cabin teen-ager is without his job at an interstate truck stop after he helped officers make a drug arrest.

Mark Chasteen, 17, was handed his last paycheck less than 12 hours after he had been sold a plastic bag full of a substance alleged to be marijuana.

Mark went to authorities and they arrested C.R. Henry, a Kansas City, Kan., truck driver. He was to be arraigned today on charges of possession of marijuana and distribution of marijuana to a minor.

Mark's last paycheck was waiting for him Wednesday morning when he went into work at (Argene) Clanton's truck stop. It is just off the Big Cabin exit of the Will Rogers Turnpike.

"I went into work and he (Clanton) told me to come to his office, Mark said. "I went in and he picked up a check and handed it to me."

Clanton says "he came in and told me he was going to work to the end of the week. I told him he could just quit now."

Asked about the timing of the check, Canton said "I don't know how to explain it. I didn't know anything about an arrest until it was all over. There were a lot of tickets on his shift with mistakes on them." Mark pumped gas.

Mark's parents say, however, that Clanton never had anything but praise for Mark.

"I was in last week talking with Clanton and he told me Mark was a "good worker," one of them said.

Mark says he told Clanton he was "going to quit anyway" only after seeing the check on Clanton's desk. It had "final paycheck" written across it.

Mark's involvement in the arrest began about 11 p.m. Tuesday when a truck driver asked him if he'd like to buy some marijuana.

"He offered me enough for nine or 10 cigarettes," Mark said. "Then he went out to his truck and put something in his pocket. He came back in, went into the bathroom and then brought me a plastic bag."

Mark took the material, got the man's name and number of his truck.

10-cent phone call may be near end

NEW YORK (AP) — Tourists in Louisiana may be surprised to learn the dime they deposited for a pay phone call was a nickel too much. And phone booths don't make change.

Travelers at the Dallas-Fort Worth regional airport have been known to respond angrily upon discovering a pay phone call costs a quarter.

The two areas represent the apparent extremes in a nation full of phone companies beginning to raise the prevailing 10cent rate for local pay phone calls, a rate that has endured nearly everywhere for more than 20 years.

The first statewide 20-cent pay phone rate went into effect May 15 in North Carolina. Washington has a 15-cent rate. Requests are pending in several other states.

When Ma Bell seeks an increase, so normally do the more than 1,700 independent phone companies, the largest of which is General Telephone & Electronics Corp.

A General Telephone & Electronics subsidiary, General Telephone Co. of the Southwest, has the 25-cent rate at the Dallas-Fort Worth airport and at 16 communities in the metropolitan areas of the two cities and of Houston. Texas is the only one of the 50 states where phone rates are set by municipality.

Hawaiian Telephone Co., another GT&E subsidary, is seeking increases to 15 or 20 cents on various of the islands.

Why do the phone companies want to do away with the dime rate?

Simply because pay phone calls "cost more to carry through than is paid," says Robert D. Lilley, president of AT&T.

The commission approved a 10-cent rate in 1952 but ordered a rollback five years later, leaving the Bayou State with a rate first established 68 years ago in New York.

Albino toad is rare find

WARREN, Mich. (AP) Research scientists at the University of Michigan Amphibian Facility are excited by a backyard find—Charlie the albino toad.

Charlie, who has transparent skin, was found last week by 4-year-old Joey Strain in a backyard near his home.

"He's really ugly looking," says Martha Koza, Joey's mother. "He has bulging, pink eyes and transparent skin. You can see his organs.

Charlie may have company at the laboratory. Another apparently albino toad was reported Sunday by a woman who lives a couple of blocks from Joey's home.

Mrs. Beverly Cornish said her 8-year-old daughter, Gail, found a white, pink-eyed frog she named Albie in her backyard.

She called the Amphibian Facility, which wants to study the rare animals and breed them for research.

Albino toads or frogs are "a one in a million" occurrence, said a facility scientist.

Dr. George W. Nace, a zoology professor, says the transparent skin on albino frogs and toads makes it possible to observe their bodily functions.

"Frogs have many features like those of man," he said. "We study them to try to learn how the genes control the developmental process."

At first Joey was reluctant to part with his pet, his mother said. But now he approves.

Dr. Christina Richards, coordinator of the Facility, said since both amphibians were found in backyards, they are probably toads, which live farther away from their ponds than frogs.

"There is a possibility that they are just toads who have recently shed their skin," Dr. Richards said. "That kind is usually quite light. But the people say these toads have pink eyes. That would make them albinos."

Young executive heads bank money market

CHICAGO (AP) — Jim McCormick makes about $20,000 a year, but he has the authority to invest $200 million any day for his employer without anyone's permission.

McCormick, 27, is head of Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust's money market. He deals in fixed-income, short-term IOUs or other valuables— such as bonds—issued by banks, corporations and various government bodies.

On any given day, his department will buy or sell $100 million or $200 million worth of these money-market instruments for the nation's ninth largest commercial bank. The bank's entire bond department buys and sells more than $1 billion worth any day.

The same institutions that use the market as buyers also use it to sell IOUs. The market is primarily a place for them to put a large amount of cash to work for them for a short period of time. IOUs have a life span of from one day to one year, but most are for 90 days and less.

For McCormick, the money market "is the only place where the action is." He came to the bank from Miami University of Ohio four years ago.

At Miami, he obtained bachelor's and master's degrees in business administration. For a year, he worked as a trainee in the bank's bond department, then turned to specialization and the money market. Recently he was named a second vice president.

From an airy, well-lit room on the fifth floor of the huge bank building in Chicago's financial district, McCormick directs operations of a staff of about a dozen men and women. While he generally deals in many millions of dollars each day, the size does not disturb him.

Whether he deals in $100 million or $200 million "it's a few more zeroes," he said.

MAKES LPGA TOUR

ATLANTA (AP) — One of 11 women golfers who have qualified for the 1974 Ladies PGA tour is 20-year-old Denise Lee Bebernes of Santa Maria, Calif. She won the California women's amateur last year. Her father once played football with California Poly State and her mother was a vocalist with the Harry James band.
